UN Warned to Leave Egypt-Israeli Sector

War Threatens Cairo Declares

CAIRO (CP) — The United Arab Republic today called on United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Gaza Strip to immediately withdraw beyond the Egyptian-Israeli armistice line and ordered its own forces to be ready for action if Israel attacks "any Arab state".

The UN Middle East Emergency Force along the Egyptian-Israeli frontier and in the Gaza Strip includes troops from Canada, Norway, Sweden, India, Yugoslavia and Brazil.

It numbered about 4,500 men but UN Secretary - General U Thant said recently it was being reduced this year to 3,400 men.

The UN troops man the 100-square-mile Gaza Strip in force, but have only patrols along the 117-mile desert border stretching southeast from it to the Gulf of Aqaba.

The moves came as tension rose following Israeli threats to strike hard against Syria if sabotage and border incidents for which it blames Syria continued.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Secretary-General Thant today called the situation along the Israel frontier with the United Arab Republic "potentially grave" and asked the Cairo government to clarify its intentions in concentrating troops there.

Thant cancelled official visits to Britain and Belgium to take personal charge of the situation here after the UAR called for the withdrawal of the seven-nation UN emergency force on duty on the frontier for the past 10 years.

TROOPS ON MOVE

Today's Egyptian announcements, followed the movement of an estimated division of U.A.R. troops eastward through Cairo two days ago.

The Syrian radio today called on Arabs to unite "for the final battle" against Israel.

Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhous flew to Cairo for talks on the rising tension.

Cairo Radio said the U.A.R. told the UN force to withdraw into the Gaza Strip "so that it may not face any threat in case of military operations breaking out."

The UN has stood between the Egyptians and Israelis since the aftermath of the 1956 Israeli-British-French attack on the U.A.R. after Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Cairo Radio said Field Marshal Abdel - Haikim Amer, U.A.R. first vice-president and deputy commander of the armed force, sent a message to Maj.-Gen. Indar Jit Rikhye, the UN force's Indian commander, asking him to concentrate his troops in the Gaza Strip.

The message said U.A.R. forces had gathered in Sinai, near the Israeli border.

Almost immediately after the demand to the UN, Egyptian Chief of Staff Gen. Mohammed Fawzy ordered his forces "to be prepared for action against Israel if the latter should attack any Arab state."

HOLD TALKS

The U.A.R. and Syria, which signed a mutual defence pact last Nov. 3, consulted urgently following the latest Israeli warnings.

Authoritative sources here reported that Egyptian President Nasser sent messages to Russia, Yugoslavia, India, Iraq, Algeria and republican Yemen informing them of the latest

POLICEMAN DIES

Campus Gunfight Kills 1

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— Helmeted police, firing as they ran, stormed a men's dormitory at Texas Southern University today and halted student snipers who created a no-man's-land on the campus.

A rookie patrolman was killed and two officers and a student wounded.

Police took 488 men students to jail and worked to discover which had fired the shot which killed Lewis R. Kuba, 25, who was shot between the eyes in the first assault wave against the dormitory that sheltered the snipers' nest.

Kuba died about 7½ hours after he was shot.

Four hours and 3,000 police bullets after the first peppering of gunfire and the explosion of four crudely-made fire bombs, officers secured the dormitory. They smashed down doors in their search for weapons and suspects, found one pistol, one shotgun and one rifle.

Mayor Louie Welch met this morning with police, the district attorney and officials of the predominantly-Negro school, where the administration ordered classes as usual.

Welch said he believes there is a breakdown between the administration of Texas Southern and the student body of more than 7,000.

The riot began about 10:15

RUNNING BATTLE with teen-aged mob ends with police doing the running to escape wrath of Chinese rioters as anti-British violence continues in Hong Kong. Rock is about to smash window of car at lower right.

BRITISH TRY CURFEW

Riot Tempo Grows Across Hong Kong

By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—Rampaging mobs of Chinese youths today turned an area of the British crown colony into a day-long battlefield of flying stones, bottles, burning buildings, smashed vehicles and street barricades in the worst rioting of a week of Communist-instigated disturbances.

Reinforced police fired tear gas bombs, wooden missiles and sometimes charged into barrages of stones and bottles, swinging clubs in a running battle with rioters who swarmed through the main tourist shopping centre.

The mobs and violence spilled over into Hong Kong's "Golden Mile" tourist shopping district and hotel area. Scattered incidents by roving bands of Red Guard-type youths were reported despite a 7:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew.

At least 38 policemen were injured along with an unknow number of teen-agers trapped on narrow streets by truncheon-swinging police.

Police said 42 persons were arrested, bringing to well over 400 the number of persons taken into custody since leftist labor agitation erupted into rioting last week.

China has backed the leftist labor movement. It has formally protested to Britain against the movement's supression and demanded that those arrested be released with apologies.

The pressure on Britain from Peking mounted amid the new and bigger outbreak.

China announced over Radio Peking that rallies were held on the China mainland again today to support the Hong Kong rioters and demonstrators marched on the British embassy in Peking for the third day.

The Kowloon district riots resumed in mid-morning today when a crowd of leftists, waving red books containing the thought of party chairman Mao Tse-tung, gathered in front of the South Kowloon magistracy to disrupt a scheduled hearing for 20 rioters arrested last week.

Gold Robbery Suspects Held

LONDON (CP)—Detectives investigating London's most recent big gold robbery are awaiting a full report on the arrest in Lima of three Argentines carrying 200 pounds of gold bars.

Scotland Yard's bullion squad said it has not received details from Peruvian authorities.

MISSILE SITES HIT BY U.S. JET BOMBERS

SAIGON (Reuters)—United States aircraft Tuesday night bombed North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile emplacements within the demilitarized zone for the first time, an American military spokesman said here today.

He said marine F-8 Crusader and A-6 Intruder jets carried out the night strike against the lethal SAM missiles, which were about 500 yards within the northern part of the buffer zone between the two Vietnams.

The Soviet-designed anti-aircraft SAMs, which have a maximum range of some 30 miles, were appearing in increasing number in the southern part of North Vietnam.

PM Brings Cabinet Into Line on Viet War

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson stated today his entire cabinet, including Privy Council President Walter Gordon, agrees with government policy on Vietnam and has pledged to do or say nothing that would hinder its implementation.

Mr. Pearson made his succinct statement following a special morning cabinet meeting called to discuss both Vietnam policy and the traditional principle of cabinet solidarity.

At issue was the controversial speech last Saturday by Mr. Gordon, who urged open criticism of the United States stand in the war which he described as without moral or strategic justification.

The official government policy, as stated repeatedly by Mr. Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin, is one of quiet diplomacy to end the bombing and stop the war—but not open criticism of either side in the conflict.

STATEMENTS QUOTED

After a 1½-hour meeting, Mr. Pearson emerged to say that he had reviewed his policy in considerable detail, quoting at length from his own statements and those of Mr. Martin.

"They all knew it," he said, "but I thought I would repeat it."

"All members of the cabinet agreed it was the right policy to follow and all of us agreed, as members of the cabinet that we would say or do nothing that would make implementation of that policy more difficult."

Implicit in these remarks was that if any minister diverged from this common stand to publicly go against the grain of stated policy, he would have no choice but to resign.

Mr. Martin left the cabinet meeting, which was called because of his absence from Ottawa Tuesday, with no comment but a big smile.

The central figure, Mr. Gordon, declined comment and said "ask the prime minister".

For the moment the controversy appears to have abated with Mr. Pearson's unequivocal statement of cabinet unanimity.

PROTESTERS PARADE

OTTAWA (CP) — While the cabinet discussed Vietnam inside the Parliament Buildings, a dozen young people paraded quietly outside today bearing placards urging the government to condemn U.S. policy on Vietnam.

The demonstration, which lasted about an hour in front of the Centre Block, was organized by the Ottawa Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which a spokesman said has about 125 persons on its mailing list.

Victorian New Chief Justice

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson today announced the appointment of Justice Herbert W. Davey as chief justice of B.C.

Mr. Justice Davey replaces Mr. Justice Henry I. Bird, who stepped down Jan. 8 at mandatory retiring age of 75.

Chief Justice Davey, 68, is a native of Victoria, where he received his early education.

He was called to the B.C. bar in 1921 and later became partner in the firm of Crease and Co.

The chief justice was appointed king's counsel in 1945 and was called to the bench as a justice of the Supreme Court of B.C. in 1953.

A year later he was appointed to the B.C. Court of Appeal.

As a lawyer, Mr. Justice Davey is best remembered for his work as legal representative for the first Sloan Commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, which inquired into all phases and aspects of British Columbia's forest resources.

He also served with the Canadian Scottish Regiment and is a past president of Victoria Liberal Association and the Town Planning Commission.

Prince of Wales Rite Announced for Charles

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen announced today she will formally invest her son Prince Charles as Prince of Wales, the title usually borne by the heir to the throne.

She said in an announcement from Buckingham Palace that the ceremony will be at Caernarvon Castle, North Wales, in the summer of 1969.

Charles then will be just a few months short of his 21st birthday.

It was nine years ago that the Queen promised to invest Charles with the title.

"When he grows up," she told a Welsh audience, "I will present him to you at Caernarvon."

Conferment of the title on a royal heir is not automatic. A monarch can decide against it—and some have.

The first Prince of Wales was created in 1301, a few years after Wales was incorporated with England. Charles will be the 21st to hold the title.

The last Prince of Wales who succeeded to the throne was Edward VIII who abdicated in 1936 and became Duke of Windsor. He was invested as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon in 1911 when he was 17.

REPORTER TRAPPED BY PEKING MOB

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters) — An angry crowd of Red Guards today demonstrated outside the house of the Reuters correspondent in Peking and trapped a Canadian newspaper man in his car for 30 minutes.

David Oancia of the Toronto Globe and Mail sat inside his tiny car smoking as the chanting crowd of about 200 surged around it before he was eventually allowed to drive away when many of the demonstrators left.

Shouting anti-British slogans, the crowd blocked the narrow street outside the house and threw pebbles at this correspondent when he went up to the roof to look down at the scene below.

Oancia had just visited Reuters rented house and offices when the demonstration began.

Oancia had taken photographs of slogans plastered over the doors and walls of the house and office.

The slogans said: "British imperialists get out of Hong Kong."

CROWD GATHERS

The crowd gathered around us and after a few minutes a Red Guard leader wearing a scarlet arm band arrived and began leading the crowd in an anti-British chant.

The crowd grew rapidly and when Oancia entered his car they closed around him.

When I tried to photograph the car, fists were pushed in front of the camera lens.

The chanting mob pressed around Oancia's blue Volkswagen, shaking their fists at him and rocking the light car from side to side.

Oancia eventually was allowed to drive away after half an hour, when the crowd thinned.

Official reports said some 400,000 persons took part Tuesday in demonstrations outside the office of the British charge d'affaires to protest the riot-quelling action of British authorities in Hong Kong.

Red Guards kept up a constant chant of "down with British imperialism."

Oancia, award - winning Saskatchewan native, is 37, and lives with his wife and two-year-old son in a Peking suburb. He has been Peking correspondent for the Globe and Mail since October, 1966, and at present is the only North American correspondent in the Chinese capital, and one of only three Westerners allowed there.

Oancia entered the newspaper field as a reporter for the Moose Jaw Times Herald and subsequently worked for The Canadian Press at several bureaus and in London.

He won a 1966 National Newspaper Award for staff corresponding with his series of three articles from Peking about the Red Guards. His articles appear in the Victoria Times.

SUPPRESSED FOR 22 YEARS BY U.S.

Ghastly Effects of A-Bomb Recorded on Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has suppressed for nearly 22 years confiscated Japanese films showing ghastly after-effects of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima, U.S. officials reveal.

The Japanese government has at least twice asked that restrictions on the film be lifted, but the U.S. government has refused on grounds it might damage U.S. - Japanese relations, said the informants.

Called in Japan "the film of illusion" because it wasn't supposed to exist, the film was taken by Tokyo University scientists sent to Hiroshima soon after the bombing, the sources said.

The officials said the Japanese scientists still were at work filming in the devastated city when U.S. officials arrived in Hiroshima and confiscated the film.

But the American authorities determined to finish the documentary and used the same Japanese cameramen who had taken the initial footage.

For many years, officials said, U.S. policy opposed any distribution of the documentary because it showed in stark and gruesome detail blast effects and the bomb's impact in a densely populated area.

But some U.S. authorities now are reported in favor of letting Japan decide what if any restrictions should be imposed on the film's showing.

Hiroshima was the target of the first atomic bomb ever dropped on an enemy — Aug. 6, 1945. The bomb obliterated three-fifths of the city of 343,000 population.

Junta Tightens Grip on Greece As U.S. Cuts Some Military Aid

ATHENS (AP)—Greece's military dictatorship tightened its hold on power today with a purge of its opponents and potential opponents in the upper ranks of the armed forces.

The military shakeup apparently also was designed to reward middle-ranking officers who ensured the success of the April 21 coup.

In Washington officials of the U.S. state department said the U.S. government is withholding "major items" of military aid that had been designated for shipment to the Greek armed forces.

The items were not specified, but the officials indicated they were being withheld because the new regime had not given satisfactory assurance it intended to return the country to constitutional government soon.

Since Greece is still a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, minor military hardware still will be shipped to Athens, the officials said.

The government also has passed the word not to enforce a decree Patacos issued earlier this month banning beatnik beards and shaggy hair. The decree was ridiculed abroad and tourist agents feared it would affect the vital tourist industry.

Meanwhile, the Junta announced the token release of 200 political prisoners from among the more than 6,000 held since the army seized power.

A spokesman said the 200 were elderly or ailing and had not recently engaged in "Communist activity."

the U.A.R. intended to implement the Syrian - Egyptian defence treaty.

The Egyptian cabinet discussed the situation Tuesday night.

The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today the U.A.R. told the United Nations it was ready to fight Israel, if Syria was exposed to danger.

It also reported that the commander of U.A.R. land forces, Gen. Abdel Mohsen Kamel Mortagi, had been named over-all commander of Egyptian forces on the Israeli border in case of military operations.

Commanders were also named for air and naval forces.

War preparations have mounted in Egypt in the wake of charges that Israeli troops are concentrating on the Syrian border in preparations for a plot against Syria backed by the United States and masterminded by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

A state of emergency was declared in the Egyptian armed forces two days ago and full civil defence measures were initiated, including mobilization of hospitals.

Large units of the Egyptian Army were still moving out of Cairo early today toward the Israeli border. The local press described it as a "mass military mobilization on an unprecedented scale."

Prime Minister Pearson of Canada appealed to Israel and the Arab states six months ago to exercise restraint in their Middle East differences and described the situation there as dangerous.

Canada has 800 servicemen in the United Nations Emergency Force, which has operated in Egypt near the Israeli border for 10 years.

The trouble six months ago flared up as the result of numerous acts of violence which prompted Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the Commons to describe the situation as ominous. Israeli and United Arab Republic aircraft engaged in dogfights over the border.

In the case of all Canadian military assignments overseas, there are contingency plans for fast evacuation of servicemen on UN duty in the Middle East in an emergency.

clearly the course which would be followed.

The special cabinet meeting, which was described by some as a "crisis", also interfered with plans for the state visit of Queen Juliana.

The Queen of The Netherlands was to have the routine meeting with the prime minister this morning on Parliament Hill.

However, Mr. Pearson and Queen Juliana carried on their conversation at a state dinner at Rideau Hall Tuesday night, to leave the prime minister free to deal with his cabinet problems today.

Although everything appeared to be settled in cabinet, the subject of Mr. Gordon and Vietnam was expected to be aired in the Liberal parliamentary caucus later in the day.

Chinese Dies From Acute Pneumonia

A Chinese resident of the Eastern Hotel died en route to hospital by ambulance last week, city police said Tuesday.

Quon Jore was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital and examination indicated he died of acute pneumonia.

An earlier newspaper report said his body had been found seated in a chair in a room behind a Fisgard Street newsstand and he had been dead at least a day.

But ambulance attendants told officers the man had been alive although very ill when placed in the ambulance. Aid was summoned after Jore's friends became worried about his condition.

p.m. Tuesday when Patrolman Robert Blaylock, 25, and his partner joined two criminal intelligence officers in surveillance duty at a rally on campus. Some 125 students were gathered to hear a talk by a student recruiting others for a demonstration at a city dump.

MELON TOSSED

During the speeches, someone hurled a watermelon at his police car, Blaylock said. When the officers got out, all of the students left except one. He was identified as Douglas Wayne Waller, 21. Police said he had a .22-calibre revolver.

Blaylock summoned another police car, which took Waller to jail, the patrol reported, and as the car cruised past the men's dormitories, it was struck by rocks and bottles.

Blaylock said he saw a gun muzzle poking out of a second-floor window of the dormitory. He was wounded in the thigh.

Blaylock and his companions returned about 15 rounds. His companions radioed for an ambulance and Blaylock walked a block to meet it.

Police summoned units to halt traffic into the campus. At midnight, 30 units stood by—motorcycles and patrol cars carrying 100 officers with riot - control equipment.

The four fire bombs—bottles filled with gasoline — were tossed during the first half-hour of the police buildup.

Youth Remanded In Assault Case

A youth who damaged a public telephone and then struck a policeman who caught him Monday night will be sentenced next Tuesday.

Kenneth Haddon, 19, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, was remanded in custody after he pleaded guilty in central court Tuesday to wilful damage and assaulting a police officer.

Court was told Haddon cursed and shouted when caught near the Empress Hotel parking lot and two citizens helped the officer subdue him.

ADDING TO POLLUTION THREAT

Gas: One Gallon in Ten Wasted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A pollution expert said Tuesday that one in every 10 gallons of gasoline burned by a car is wasted and pollutes the air.

Eric Grant, a member of the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, said pollution from cars is dangerous, and the hydrocarbon found in gasoline exhaust can cause cancer.

He told the American Transit Association convention the automobile industry is working to cut down on the gasoline waste and pollution, and by 1970 his board will tighten its regulations so that all but 10 per cent of the wasted gallon of gasoline will be burned properly.

Mr. Grant said the pollution crackdown in California has produced results. "We just don't have visible smoke in Los Angeles any more."

DOVES ASK NO RETREAT IN VIETNAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's determination to see the war through in Vietnam has received backing from 16 senators critical of his policies.

Without moderating their dissent, 14 Democrats and two Republicans plan to make public a declaration aimed at North Vietnam's leaders saying they are steadfastly opposed to any American withdrawal until there is an honorable settlement of the war.

As a notice to North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh that he cannot count on criticism, demonstrations and protests to weaken U.S. resolve to secure South Vietnam against aggression, the move was welcomed by State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Senator Frank Church, Idaho Democrat and chief sponsor of the declaration said in an interview that "because the situation is so delicate," he submitted the statement to Rusk in advance.

He said Rusk felt a statement of this nature by the president's critics might have more chance of being accepted as truth by Hanoi than all of the declarations by the administration and its supporters that there will be no American pullout.

FULBRIGHT ALSO SIGNS

The declaration carries the signatures of such vigorous senatorial critics of Johnson's war course as J. W. Fulbright (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the foreign relations committee, Robert Kennedy (Dem. N.Y.), George McGovern (Dem. S.D.), Joseph Clark (Dem. Pa.) and Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.).

Republicans who signed are Senators John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

Church made it clear the signers believe the war has reached a critical point, where the failure of Hanoi to respond to negotiations has hardened Johnson's determination to escalate the U.S. military effort.

They believe any substantial expansion of the fighting and bombing will make it more likely that China will intervene. If that happens, they feel the Soviet Union also will become involved, thus ushering in a third world war.

With that in mind, Clark urged Johnson in a Senate speech Tuesday to order an indefinite American ceasefire beyond the one-day truce scheduled for Buddha's birthday, May 23.

The Pennsylvania Senator suggested suspending the bombing of North Vietnam and ordering U.S. troops not to fire unless fired upon.

Cuba Goods Not Sold Since Bomb

MONTREAL (CP) — Ian Fraser, vice-president and managing director of Fraser Bros. Ltd., said Tuesday his firm has not auctioned off any Cuban merchandise since a bomb exploded outside his office during an auction last March.

He was commenting on a report of the American Security Council which said the Canadian government has the responsibility for a Montreal auction house "apparently doing a thriving business selling off household furnishings and art objects . . . confiscated by the Cuban Communist regime."

The American Security Council is a private organization dedicated to anti - communism. Its report, prepared for broadcast Tuesday over 900 radio stations, did not name the auction house.

Mr. Fraser said his firm "has had no contact with the Fidel Castro government and did not itself purchase these goods."

"We merely acted as commissioned agents, in our normal line of business, in offering for sale at auction merchandise that has already been brought into Canada by a Toronto firm."

Physics Honor For Student

A Victoria high school student has received honorable mention in a regional physics exam sponsored by the Canadian Association of Physicists.

Jim Henderson, 2580 Bowker, was one of nearly 200 students who wrote the three-hour examination supervised by the physics department of Simon Fraser University. Mr. Henderson is a grade 12 student at Oak Bay Senior Secondary.

Winner of the $250 first prize in the exam was Henry Leung, a mainland high school student.

BECAUSE OF FRENCH OPPOSITION — LENGTHY TALKS FORECAST

British Years Away From ECM Role, Says Experts

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — European political circles here today thought objections set by French President de Gaulle to British entry to the Common Market may take up to four years to overcome.

The most optimistic estimate given was that it will take at least two years of hard bargaining by British negotiators to get into the European Economic Community after de Gaulle's appraisal at a press conference Tuesday of their chances.

De Gaulle, dedicated to the ideal of a Europe making its decisions on world issues independent of East and West, made it clear before an audience of 1,000 newspaper men, diplomats and government officials that the British, with their ties to the Commonwealth and the United States, were hardly European enough to blend with the thinking of the community.

Political sources said it seemed clear from the French leader's comments that he will try to convince the other five Common Market countries the time is not yet right for Britain to join the EEC.

They said he will try to get the French view adopted as the common platform of the ECC at its projected summit meeting in Rome at the end of this month.

SEE PROTRACTED TALKS

There seemed general agreement here that any negotiations betwen Britain and th six Common Market countries will be more protracted than envisaged by British Prime Minister Wilson when he made Britain's second membership application last week. The first British application failed in 1963 largely because of French objections.

The president told the press conference that he felt Britain would find it impossible at present to assume the burden of adjustment to Common Market rules and practice. Its political, financial and economic 'conditions would make this too great an upheaval, he said.

He emphasized that he was not prejudging the content of any negotiations between Britain and the Common Market, although he expressed doubt that these negotiations would in fact take place.

The French leader outlined what he called "formidable obstacles" standing in the way of quick British entry into the European trading group.

He spoke of British isolation from the continent, Britain's Commonwealth ties and its "special agreement" with the United States.

Admitting Britain to the Common Market, he said, would lead to applications for membership from Britain's fellow members in the seven - nation European Free Trade Association. And this would mean "building a totally new edifice and razing what has just been built," he said.

A Major Advance

FOUR YEARS OF TOUGH, IF intermittent, bargaining in the highly-competitive field of international trade has culminated in a deadline agreement among 53 nations adhering to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Thus ends the Kennedy Round—except for ratification by the countries involved—which it is hoped will greatly expand world trade and extend its benefits to a larger portion of the world's population.

Although the Kennedy Round fell considerably short of what was envisaged by its chief architect, the late President John Kennedy, who sought a 50 per cent across-the-board cut on tariffs, its impact will be considerable. Some 6,000 trade items are involved in tariff cuts averaging an estimated 32 to 35 per cent, and in amendments to various other restrictive practices. About one-quarter of Canada's export sales to the United States will benefit from reduced levies, and higher wheat prices will also be to Canada's advantage. Canada, too, of course, has made concessions.

The Kennedy Round has been the sixth major tariff-cutting conference conducted under GATT since the end of the Second World War. As a one-step operation it is the most important, although the cumulative effect of the other five bargaining sessions accomplished more.

* * *

As the negotiations moved toward the deadline there was political as well as economic pressure to reach a workable agreement. Having committed themselves to the deal, the principal negotiators found that failure to reach a meaningful agreement could have poisoned the atmosphere of non-Communist world trade, for the global trading situation would probably not have remained as it was. Without progress toward freer exchange of goods it could have moved into an era of higher tariff barriers—particularly between the new Common Market bloc and the United States. There would have been a consequent narrowing of trade.

Application of the Kennedy Round provisions in a protectionist-inclined country such as Canada may result in strains in the economy which could accentuate regionalism. In British Columbia, with a wealth based primarily on raw resources, the initial benefits should be great. It will have to be a matter of conscious policy, however, to prevent the new trade arrangements from operating to keep the province permanently in the role of a producer of primary goods.

The greatest stresses, of course, will be felt in the industrial belt of Canada, in Ontario and Quebec, where manufacturers have so long sheltered behind a high tariff wall and other protectionist devices. While we in the West who have long grumbled about having to pay a high price for this protection of Eastern industry will not be sorry to see the tariff barriers lowered on the manufactured goods we need, as Canadians we must hope that a relatively painless transition can be achieved.

* * *

It is unfortunate that the underdeveloped nations were almost forgotten in the dealing among the wealthier countries. Even the one major concession, the wheat bank which is to supply food to the hungry, was undercut by the 15 per cent price rise which will have to be paid for that portion of the wheat which the needy nations must buy.

The under-developed countries made no headway with their plea for preferences for the goods which they sell to the rich. GATT remained firmly committed to the system whereby tariff concessions granted to one country must be granted to all, a provision which works to the advantage of the developed nations.

These reservations, however, do not alter the fact that what was achieved at Geneva was of the highest importance to future world trade. When the tariff cuts come into effect next January they will set many countries on the path of broader trade, which in the long run must prove beneficial to all.

Soft-Pedalling the Walkout

IN ITS CURRENT "NEWSLETter", the British Columbia Teachers' Association sets out the procedures to be followed by any teacher who faces a class of 40 or more students in a public school of this province next September, or during the school year starting in that month.

This is a situation which could occur in various parts of British Columbia, though Greater Victoria hopes to avoid the difficulty. Passage of the school building referendums last weekend and concentration on the acquisition of portable units for the beginning of the next school year, it is hoped, will provide the necessary accommodation to avert physical over-crowding based solely on a lack of space. Moreover, both the position adopted by teachers in this district and the general tone of the B.C. Federation's "Newsletter" outline of procedure indicate mutually co-operative action by teachers and school administrations.

School board officials here say, however, that ensuring classes below a 40-student limit will be the responsibility of the school principals. The principals, according to present information, will have on their staffs sufficient teachers to establish classes of under 40 students on the arithmetical basis of dividing the total school enrolment by the total number of teachers assigned to the school.

Problems could arise, nevertheless, if a principal decided the most satisfactory situation for his school would be to allocate students in such a way that some classrooms would have less than the maximum, others more.

The significant point here and elsewhere in British Columbia, as it is revealed by the "Newsletter", is the conciliatory tone of professional discussion on the question. The earlier attitude with its implications of an ultimatum appears to have softened—as it should have.

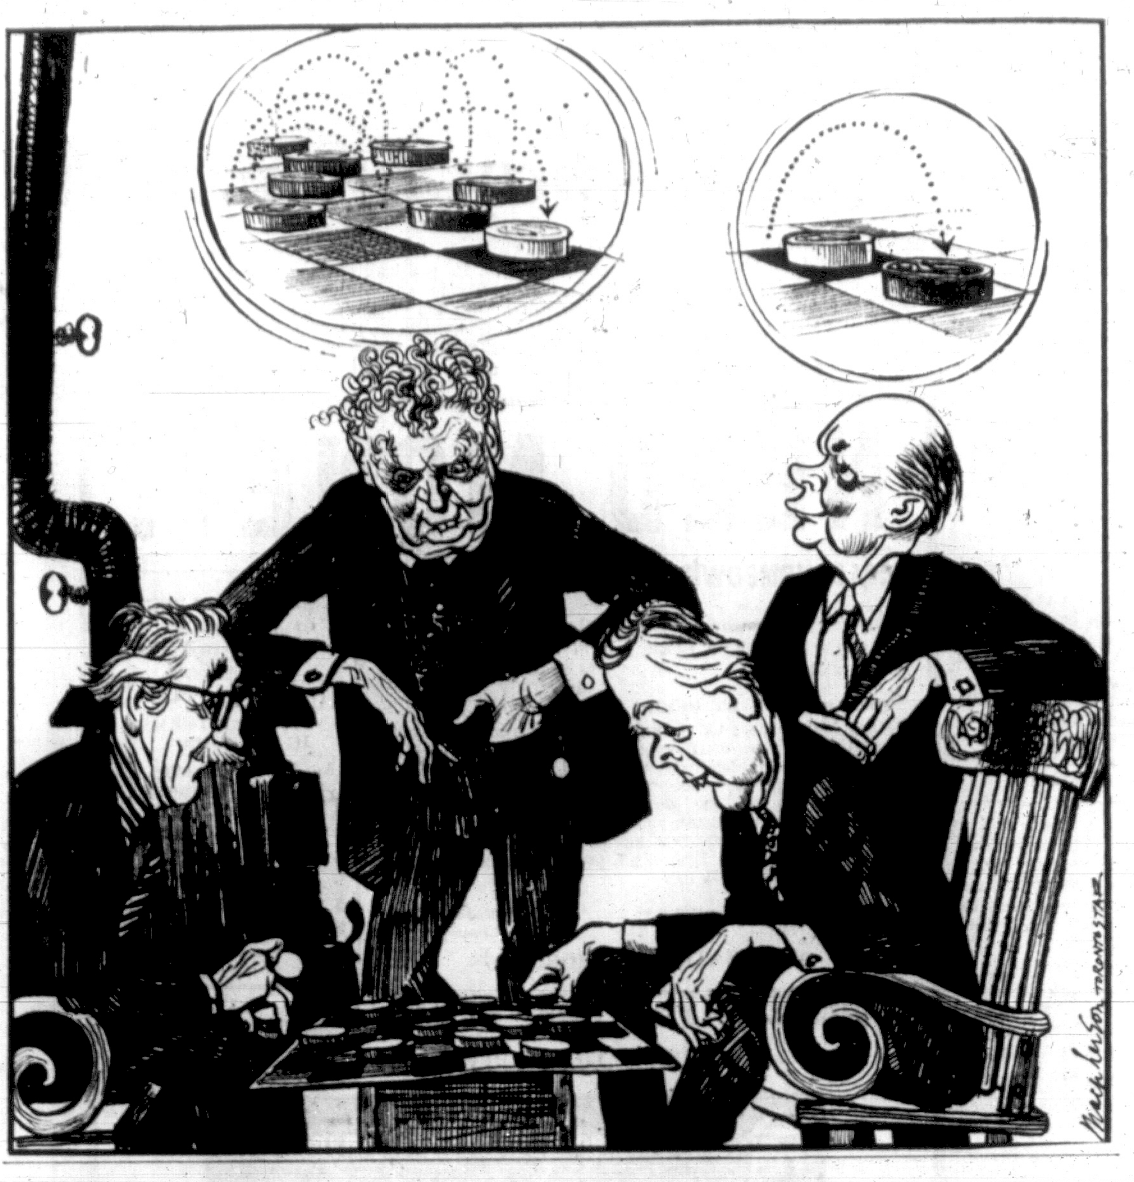
The emphasis is more broadly on creating the most satisfactory conditions for the children to learn. Possibility of a walkout by teachers with classes of 40 or more remains, but step-by-step efforts to find a mutually acceptable alternative are clearly indicated in the procedures laid down.

A Reasonable Request

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN announced by Mayor Stephen on behalf of himself and the reeves of Greater Victoria for voluntary registration at municipal halls of all organizations planning to make public appeals for donations of money in this area.

This is a commendable move which has been discussed at various times through the years and it is gratifying that agreement has now been reached among the local councils. It is right that the public should know some details of the appeals which are launched with increasing frequency in Greater Victoria — who is responsible for the project, what the money will be used for, how much is raised and how much is used up in expenses of collection.

These are logical questions which should be answered by any body seeking public support here, and while there is no compulsion on such groups to register their appeals, the advantage of thus encouraging public confidence should be evident.



FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Gordon Speech—Wrong Man, Wrong Place

MR. WALTER GORDON is off the reservation again. Never one to limit himself to the responsibilities of his privy council office, he has ventured now into the most delicate matters of foreign policy and this at a time when the Vietnam war threatened, in the government's view, to set off an even graver crisis in world affairs. If Mr. Gordon was a private member of Parliament, it is improbable that his remarks would attract much attention. They do not differ materially from the views commonly expressed by NDP critics. But, of course, he is a senior member of the cabinet, a man of known influence, long the personal friend of the prime minister.

Western

One might expect him, therefore, to recognize the duty of reticence for, in our country with its long tradition of cabinet solidarity, the public opinions of one minister are likely to be taken as those of the government.

Mr. Gordon addressed two business groups, speaking on Friday at the University of Western Ontario and on Saturday in Toronto. On the second occasion (a full length speech on the Vietnam war) he professed to speak not as a member of the government but as an "ordinary Canadian;" in the circumstances a rather dangerous exercise because qualifications often escape notice. In Toronto, Mr. Gordon gave himself no such protection.

The Toronto speech included the following paragraphs, which newspapers have already seized upon as the probable occasion of another cabinet row.

Prickly Points

"Quite apart from what may happen as a result of the war in Vietnam, Canadians will soon have to begin to reassess their own foreign and defence policies. Both the NATO and NORAD treaties will be up for renewal or renegotiation within a year or two. We may wonder whether Canada should continue to maintain air squadrons and a brigade in Europe any longer. The French don't want us; the countries of Western Europe are now quite prosperous enough to maintain their own defence establishments if they wish to; both the United States and Britain have stated their intentions to withdraw some of their troops from Europe. In these circumstances what is the sensible thing and the right thing for Canada to do?

"The situation with respect to NORAD is not clear. So far Secretary McNamara has not agreed with the recommendations of the joint chiefs of staff to embark upon an extensive and highly expensive anti-missile program of protection for American cities. But if the views of the chiefs of staff should prevail in the end, we would have to decide whether we should participate in the program in an effort to protect Canadian cities despite the enormous expenditures involved. The alternative for a country of our size may be to opt out of the contest altogether on the grounds that if there should ever be a nuclear war between the U.S. and Soviet Union, there would be nothing effective we could do about it anyway.

Unified Forces Role

"In circumstances such as these Canada, instead of stepping up her defence budget considerably, might decide to concentrate her efforts on the maintenance of mobile peace-keeping or peace-restoring units to be available to the United Nations on the shortest possible notice. This might make a lot of sense. Our new unified forces should be well suited to this task."

Despite a few cautious verbs, this sounds like advocacy and probably was. It is the way ministers speak when they are flying kites or trying to bring pressure on their colleagues (in this case Mr. Martin and Mr. Hellyer). Such paragraphs only slightly condensed in news despatches could cause great embarrassment for Mr. Martin in European capitals.

In his second speech Mr. Gordon undertook to bring home to all of us the great dangers in Vietnam. He did not explain why this task fell to one who began by saying that he was not an expert. His method consisted for the most part in quoting long and savage American criticisms of administration policy. The text suggested that he endorses these. Indeed, he strengthened them by recalling his own judgements over the years on U.S. policy and by adding some new thoughts, including these:

Bomb Prospect

"In this war, the strongest nation in the world has taken sides in a savage civil struggle and is using its tremendous power to force the other side to quit. If the escalation of the war continues, as seems probable, and the North Vietnamese do not give up soon, one may wonder if the United States may be driven to use nuclear bombs or to spread germs or exterminating chemicals."

"You may think this is exaggerated. If so, would it be too much to ask the president of the United States to give a categorical undertaking that the U.S. will not use nuclear bombs or germs of life destroying chemicals under any circumstances?"

How is it possible for Mr. Gordon, as a private person, to make such nasty insinuations — which the New Democrats themselves might consider extreme — without damaging our relations with the United States and, indeed, our ability to influence the Americans? Can the office so easily be discarded, enabling the president of the Privy Council to play Jekyll and Hyde?

Cabinet Responsibility

This is not to suggest that Mr. Gordon has no right to his opinions or his indignation. Of course he has. But at the same time he has responsibilities as a member of the cabinet. He is perfectly entitled to press his opinions on the government in cabinet councils. But he has not the right to confuse the country, which is entitled to know the government's policy, by violent speeches suggesting deep divisions among the ministers. When policy on questions of such vast importance is to be announced, it should be announced by Mr. Martin or by the prime minister, not by one who admits freely that he is no expert.

Despite the bad advice which he gave Mr. Pearson in 1965, Mr. Gordon obviously does regard himself as an expert in the field of politics. His central thought is that the Liberals should retain power by claiming for themselves the policies of the New Democrats, who have shown strength in industrial areas. It may not be mere coincidence that Mr. Gordon has burst into the foreign policy field in a season of by-elections, with the NDP making a strong bid in Sudbury. He was not, of course, addressing election meetings but he has been in politics long enough to know that news gets around.

Letters to the Editor

Where Do We Stand?

Your May 13 edition carried a news item concerning a statement made by Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) in which he urged our Prime Minister to call a full-scale commons debate on Vietnam. Surely we would all appreciate knowing what position our Liberal government does indeed take on this very urgent matter.

Can we allow untold horrors to be perpetrated against innocent victims in the name of freedom, without speaking out against those guilty of committing these atrocities? Can we, as Canadians, allow a Third World War to occur without having once spoken, through our government, against it?—Mavis Payne.

Loved "Blood"

I read with interest the letter by Mr. G. M. Walter regarding the Bastion Theatre's production of "The Blood is Strong."

I too enjoyed the play very much, and the many curtain calls proved that the audience all loved it.

The one exception seems to have been your critic and her acid review of both the play and the players is unexplainable. Why?

A School to Lift Hearts

By JOSEPH ALSOP

From New York

I HAVE now seen something splendidly heart-lifting. In Public School 307, in the heart of the Brooklyn Negro ghetto. I have seen what can only be called reverse desegregation — white children vountarily leaving their own neighborhoods to come to an overwhelmingly Negro school, simply because of the excellence of that school. Principal Irving Carlin had to beat the bushes in order to get his first thirty-six reverse desegregators three years ago. Now he has close to 200 white children in his school, which is still over three-quarters Negro; and the application lists have had to be closed to non-neighborhood children, simply for want of empty school-places.

Alsop

P.S. 307 is a fairly special case, to be sure. Initially, Principal Carlin had many empty places, because of the closing of the Brooklyn navy yard, and his pre-kindergarten year was also a big bait. Initially, too, the white children were mainly drawn from one of those high-minded Jewish neighborhoods, where the grandfathers still read the "Forward", and they take minority problems seriously. Moreover, all the reverse desegregators are still in the lowest grades. But consider the contrast with what happened, some years ago, to P.S. 7 and P.S. 8, also in Brooklyn.

False Start

Here, in the first flush of high hopes for civil rights, the parents of another mainly Jewish neighborhood voted almost unanimously to pair their own school with a nearby ghetto school. Nothing was done to assure educational excellence, however. The half-and-half admixture of deeply disadvantaged, educationally retarded children and middle class children therefore caused the educational quality of both schools to go to hell in a hack.

Whereupon the very persons who had sponsored the pairing withdrew their children, moving to the suburbs or sending them to private schools. And the end result of this nobly motivated experiment was two segregated schools where there had been one before!

The lessons are clear. If real school-desegregation is ever to occur, educational excellence is the best and probably the only way to achieve it. And even if P.S. 307 forever remains an exception, educational excellence is still the key to that which will let the next generation of Negro and other deprived children open the door of the unspeakably cruel ghetto-trap.

"More Effective"

P.S. 307 is one result of the "more effective schools" program here in New York.

The details of the more effective schools" program, which now covers twenty-one schools, all at the pre-kindergarten through Grade 6 level, must be examined in a further report. What it has achieved is what matters, for present purposes. And what it has mainly achieved is solid proof that the ghetto's children need not fall behind.

Of all the frightening American statistics, the statistics on this particular point are the darkest with menace for the future. Nationwide, in brief, the average ghetto child enters first grade half a year behind the average middle class first-grader. And if this child then continues to twelfth grade, he loses so much additional ground that he is three and a half years behind on leaving high school.

Fall Behind

That means, of course, that even when the children of the ghetto do not drop out, they go from high school into the world in most cases functionally illiterate, and in most cases, too, incapable of holding a job in modern industry or business.

This terrible tendency to fall behind, and thus to fail to get an adequate education, is of course the national result of extreme deprivation, of broken homes, of homes without books, and of homes, too, where the common English of the outer world is sometimes hardly spoken. And the remedy is positive discrimination, which means heavy extra investment in ghetto schools.

EQUAL COMBAT

A young person may be conceited, ill-mannered, presumptuous or fatuous, but I don't turn for protection to dreary cliches about respect for elders. I accept that we are equals — and I'll argue with him, as an equal, if I think he's wrong. But I had better be good at it. The fact is that in our time the older people have failed in what has been the duty of seniors, which is to give the young something to rebel against. We are all gentleness and psychology and understanding. This is not at all what the young need — at any rate, not all the time. They must long sometimes for us to show that we have some principles and are prepared to stand up for them.

Treason Cry Heard After CIA Affair

By RICHARD HARWOOD

WASHINGTON—The word "treason" fell into disuse in Washington with the passing of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Now it is heard again in secret offices of the government and in private clubrooms where men of the intelligence community assemble to damn the fate that has overtaken the CIA.

"Treason" is a strong word to be sure, but no stronger than the feelings that have arisen within the government over the wounds inflicted on the agency in recent months.

"This," one official has said, "has been a greater disaster for that agency and has done more damage to the interests of the United States than the Bay of Pigs."

Starting with an article in Ramparts magazine in February, disclosure has piled on disclosure of how and through whom the CIA has conducted covert operations all over the world.

Pitiless Detail

Its infiltration of dozens of private organizations, its use of impeccable private foundations as financial conduits, its alliances with foreign and domestic labor organizations, student groups, intellectual and academic societies have been revealed in pitiless detail. Hardly a day passes that some new tidbit fails to surface: the use of CIA funds to subsidize French newspapers in the 1950s; the agency's clandestine support of the International Literary Society, Pen; the flow of CIA funds into foreign countries to influence elections.

The most recent and most deeply resented blow was a Saturday Evening Post article written by Thomas W. Braden, the California publisher who served in the agency in the early 1950s and was personally involved in its secret subsidy program. The article was written as an ostensible defense of the CIA but it revealed new secrets, named new names and reopened the damaging controversy over the agency's role in American life.

The official reaction to all this has been bland enough. The public posture of the CIA is that nothing has happened that requires a public explanation; it admits nothing and denies nothing. The president took the refuge presidents often take when overwhelmed by events: he appointed a committee to study the problem.

Behind this cool facade, however, the government is seething. Something akin to panic has spread through the intelligence community as it waits for other shoes to drop and other secrets to be unmasked.

Robert Amory Jr., deputy director of intelligence in the CIA a few years ago, expressed the ultimate fear in a television interview on Feb. 26:

"It seems to me this is like the famous old figure of speech: it is a strand in a sweater; it is unraveling. If it unravels the whole thing . . . it will be nothing but a pile of yarn on the floor, and this will be a disaster. I think the gentlemen of the fourth estate . . . who are pursuing this all the way might just as well be in the business of scuttling carriers in the Tonkin Gulf. They are destroying an important part of the nation's national security fabric."

Amory has since taken a less cataclysmic view of the problem, but men still in the government have not.

"I think what the press has done," a disturbed official remarked last week, "is very close to treason. I want to be specific. The Washington Post, the New York Times and CBS have done the most damage. You (The Washington Post) published a chart (of CIA conduits) which the Communists would have paid millions to get. You gave it to them free. I sometimes wonder what people are thinking when they damage their country in this way."

The chart to which he referred was a visual representation of material that had already been published in news media.

An officer high up in the intelligence community was so overwrought by the performance of the press that he confronted two editors not long ago and threatened them with specific retaliation. He later apologized but his passion was symptomatic of the government's private turmoil.

What, prescisely, has the damage been?

The first and most obvious reply evoked by questions of that kind is that the pride, the morale and the "image" of the great bureaucracy that occupies the enormous CIA building in Langley, Va., have been badly bruised.

Sinister Force

Overseas, an image problem of a different kind has arisen. The Communist propaganda network has depicted the agency, not as a Keystone Kops operation, but as a sinister force for the corruption of governments and private organizations.

And it is not only the Communists who have taken that line. In Spain last week, a Madrid newspaper accused the CIA of financing an anti-Franco political movement between 1950 and 1956. The Pakistan Press Agency charged that the International Press Institute has been transformed into "an official spy organization" by the CIA. There have been repercussions in India, Latin America, the Middle east and Africa.

The ability of private American organizations and foundations to carry on international programs has been gravely compromised, in the judgement of people both in and out of the government.

The American Friends of the Middle East, a private research and development group that received CIA funds, has been virtually destroyed in terms of future effectiveness. It is being denounced by both Arabs and Israelis. The educational and charitable works of the Asia Foundation of San Francisco have become suspect even though its CIA connections are speculative at best.

"Private organizations", a student of intelligence activities reported, "will be paying a heavy price for years. They are all suspect now, all over the world; even missionaries are going to have serious problems. I think a lot of these organizations are going to have to fold up or withdraw from places like Africa and Latin America. That will leave the field open to the other side."

Amory fears that people in foreign countries who have co-operated with U.S. organizations in the past may be in danger of arrest, harassment, or worse.

Other Problems

Braden's article in the Saturday Evening Post is said to have raised other problems: "Do you think people in other countries, including government officials, are going to work with us now, as they have in the past, knowing that some CIA man may one day jeopardize them by telling everything he knows in a book of a magazine article? The State Department has the same problem, now that Bill Attwood (of Look magazine) has told all he knows."

He was referring to Attwood's book, "The Reds and the Blacks," which recounts his diplomatic experiences as an ambassador to Guinea and Kenya.

Government men who live by secrecy very often tend to value secrecy for its own sake and to have exaggerated-reactions to its loss. To some extent, that is the case in Washington today in lamentations over the plight of the CIA.

In calmer moments, however, both politicians and civil servants concerned with "security" and "secrecy" are drawing lessons from the CIA's experience. They concede that in an open society total secrecy is not possible, even if it could be shown to be desirable. They have found that the CIA's shadow existence can be penetrated through the process of inquiry, which the CIA itself relies upon for most of its information. They have found that the oath of secrecy that CIA officers and contacts are required to take is no guarantee against disclosure. Former CIA director Allen Dulles has himself published a book and articles on his experiences in the agency.

They have also found that the agency's techniques often leave much to be desired. Its use of private foundations to covertly subsidize private organizations, for example, was a perilous device. Once the method of subsidy was uncovered, it was quite easy for the press, as Amory has said, "to peel off the layers of the onion."

The Race Is to the Swift, But Does Anybody Care?

By ART STOTT

On Friday afternoon the senior secondary schools of Greater Victoria will hold the finals of the track and field meet which has grown from the original inter-high event organized by Archie McKinnon—and open then to private schools—in a long-distant pre-war day. I hope the weather is fine, the competition keen, and a large gallery of spectators enthusiastic.

Stott

Last week I attended one of the school finals leading up to the inter-high. The day was cold, the spectators few and the excitement about what you'd expect from a series of tolerably organized races at a picnic.

Since then I've read the reaction of some of the teacher-organizers about this year's inter-high. They sound a little disenchanted. Participation by students is, they say, somewhat low. One or two offer the suggestion that such contests are cyclical, claiming feverish interest one year, or over a number of seasons, and then dwindling response both from potential athletes and the crowd. At present, you don't have to be a track and field hero, to paraphrase and negative an old song, to get along with the beautiful girls.

There are doubtless many explanations which could be advanced for diminishing interest in such sports—though the regional affair on Friday should stimulate some frenzy.

* * *

Just as some of us watch National League hockey on television and don't rush down to the arena to see less famous stars in action locally, a track and field buff these days can see the best in the world on the small screen without leaving his living room. Why should he bother, on a day of indifferent weather, to turn out for a high school competition? Again, when there are so many more modern events, is the old tradition of foot racing expected to hold up with youth, conventionally prone to fads.

And yet it seems to me that the game should persist, that enthusiasm for it should be high, that the athlete still has elements in him which should encourage support from his school mates.

There was no lack of school spirit when the inter-high started—nor, for that matter, was there disinterest in the individual school meets. And from them emerged some of the best performers this part of the world has advanced to international competition.

The story of Joe Addison's development into one of the best quarter-milers in the Commonwealth runs back to those founding days of the inter-high. While he was sprinting, beating Lynn Patrick in the spikes and running shorts given to him by Patrick, Victoria High held the laurel.

Then along came Ronnie and Spike Dalziel with Reggie Bristowe to give University School the punch to win the aggregate honors, and at another time a boy called McNeill and teammate Terry Todd to push Brentwood College to the top.

You could go to those meets and see who Archie would be picking to build his Flying Y team in the years immediately ahead. Bill Dale, who, in his time, ran the fastest half-mile on the Pacific Coast, came up through the inter-high. Art Chapman, before him, proved that a basketball star could also be top-notch at the high jump. Bobby Hutchison came pounding out of Oak Bay High, with Phil Matson, the miler, to head the pack and go on to Olympic competition.

* * *

And these were days when Victoria didn't even have a cinder track. The boys ran on grass around the Victoria High rugby field. But if they lacked some of the facilities, they had the desire and they had the support that pushed them along.

When Archie turned over the reins of the Y club, Bruce Humber and Harry Mitchell were ready to pick them up—and Victoria was important in track and field.

We even worked together to help the Gyros finance the cinder track and we expected great things from the boys who would use it. Some of them have produced.

The Flying Y is now in abeyance. Our thin clads lack its inspiration and the inspiration of the men who ran it. And perhaps the sport's in the doldrums for the time being. There have been slack periods before—between Hal Beasley and Brooke Vaio competing in the Stockholm Olympics and the time when Cec Hay was coming up as a prospective international star.

* * *

In the years of the early inter-high, we were high-balling. But, if in recent seasons we have been off the pace, it is still interesting to note that very few of the old high school records from a more spectacular age are still standing. The kids of the last few years have been turning in better times. The difficulty, in that respect, seems to be that times generally are improving a little faster elsewhere than here.

Maybe Friday afternoon will start a revival. That, too, could happen.

'SEEDS OF CHANGE' COULD TRANSFORM INDIAN AGRICULTURE

By BETTY NICKERSON

Betty Nickerson, a Winnipeg sociologist, has visited United Nations food production projects in India. In this story she tells of efforts to get farmers to accept modern methods.

NEW DELHI — "India is almost to the place where agriculture is ready to take off," says Dr. I. D. N. Sahi, a secretary for community development. "When it does, the country can be self-sufficient in food."

"And when it happens," says Dr. A. R. Baji, "it will be because the whole community development idea has taken hold."

Dr. Baji is director of public relations for the ministry of food, agriculture, community development and co-operation. It is here that the machinery of change is forged.

To succeed, the community development concept must reach half a billion people, 82 per cent of whom live in 555,000 villages. They must begin to believe that things can change, that there is a possibility of a better life for ordinary people.

History has provided the villagers with ample reason for doubt, and much that happens in present-day India only reinforces his skepticism. But there is also reason to believe that some of the ministry's optimism is justified.

If any one myth has been exploded in India, it is the old saw about the nature of the change-resistant, tradition-bound village farmer. He is being increasingly recognized as a canny economist. He probably has been all along, otherwise he could not have survived. Under traditional conditions the farmer has no margin for error. Each year he must produce the food he eats from the land he farms. But when he sees that he can get a better crop, particularly a saleable crop, from adopting different farming practices, he adopts them.

What the villager requires before he will change is some assurance that he and his family will not starve if the change proves unsuccessful. He has no guaranteed price, no social security, no money in the bank to tide him over if he fails. He puts his life, and his family's survival, on the line when he strikes out on a new path.

Dr. Glenn Anderson from Manitoba is in charge of the Rockefeller wheat project for India. He expressed great respect for the farmer and his willingness to adopt new crops, seeds and farm management. Dr. Anderson is a rather special breed of expert. He is the kind who carries one of the bags of seeds out to the field while the farmer carries the other one, and he is not averse to wielding a grubbing hoe when a grubbing hoe is needed.

●

I asked him how he went about introducing wheat to traditional paddy farmers.

"It's not hard at all once you find someone willing to take a chance," he says.

"When we find this farmer we ask him if he will plant half his land the way he has always planted it, and then let us help him plant the other half. We guarantee that he will get as much produce from the second half as he gets from the traditionally-farmed part. Once he feels confident that his family won't suffer, he pitches in.

"We use the new hybrid seeds, some of which were developed in Mexico, some here in India. The kind we use depends on the soil. Then we apply fertilizer, and have pesticides available if there is trouble. The whole village watches right up until harvest, and by the next planting season, nearly everyone wants to try. I don't think there will be anything but hybrid wheat growing here within three years.

"But you have to work with people. You don't grow wheat sitting in an air-conditioned office."

Demonstration is the key to agricultural change, and there aren't many Dr. Andersons around. Agricultural extension workers are being trained through the community development program, and among many of them I found a keen sense of dedication. There are still too few. There is not enough fertilizer to meet the farmer's demand, and what is available is subject to all the evils of bureaucrecy—artificial shortages, inadequate delivery schedules, black marketeering and, above all, high cost. Eventually some of these problems may be altered by the farmers themselves.

Co-operatives for buying and selling farm produce are increasing. Farming is becoming more diversified, double and sometimes triple cropping is common in irrigated regions. The farmer is evaluating other matters as well. The recent election results indicate that the entrenched political faction suffered comparatively more from the disgruntled rural vote than from the urban vote. Although the villager may be illiterate, events suggest thaat he is capable of putting handwriting on the wall.

Both the farmer and India are in a race against time. Rapid agricultural progress is imperative. Transfer of information by word of mouth is too slow to convey the ideas of development in time to avert disaster.

The most likely solution is mass media added to present development methods. The best ideas can be air-borne, and transistorized radio and television can bring them to the villages long before electricity will arrive.

The seeds of change take root in men's minds before they grow in the soil.

Is It Enough for Judges To Say 'It Is the Law'?

By STANLEY UYS

CAPE TOWN — Should judges speak out against laws which are morally repugnant, or should they simply interpret the law as they find it? This question is being argued in South Africa, following a clash of views between a well-known Colored poet, Adam Small, and a leading judge.

Mr. Small's view is that judges should not simply apply the law as they find it, but also "maintain a right philosophy of the law." He mentions in particular the country's apartheid laws. The Judge-President of the Cape Province, Andrew Beyers, has rebuked him for expressing this opinion, and has stated that judges are the persons least fitted to make laws. The country's Chief Justice L. C. Steyn, has come to the support of Mr. Justice Beyers, declaring that the only task of the courts is to interpret the intention of Parliament as expressed in the statute book.

Two Professors

When the Judge-President rebuked Mr. Small, he said the poet obviously knew nothing about Roman-Dutch law, South Africa's legal system. Mr. Small retorted that this could not be said of two professors who had voiced the same opinion as his in the South Africa Law Journal a year ago.

The professors were A. S. Mathews, professor of law, and R. C. Albion, professor of psychology, both of the University of Natal. They examined South Africa's 90-day and 180-day detention laws, and said of the former "it brought something entirely alien into our legal system." It provided for solitary confinement for a long period which could be a "dangerous and barbarous punishment."

The two professors continued: "We have to face the fact that some South Africans may have lost faith in the courts. The line of cases already discussed in this article does not present a picture of judges fired by ideas of individual liberty or personal sanctity. There is no assertion here that the judges are partial or that they lack integrity. What does seem to have been lacking in the cases analyzed above is an imaginative grasp of the implications of solitary confinement and of Western ideals of individual freedom.

"It may be argued that it would be wrong for judges to have regard for what appear to be political values. The answer to such an argument is plain. The ideal of which we speak is part of the woof and warp of Roman-Dutch law, and it can surely never be wrong for a judge to give effect to the very spirit of the great legal system unless Parliament forbids him to do so in clear and unambiguous terms. In recent years the courts have interpreted laws which have cried out for one of those resounding defences of individual liberty in the dignified and majestic language in which judges sometimes speak, but the opportunity has been passed by."

This was the article quoted briefly by Mr. Small when he wrote a recent article for a Cape Town newspaper. Mr. Small, who usually writes in Afrikaans, is a poet, philosopher and university lecturer. He is one of the most articulate of non-white critics of apartheid in South Africa. In his article he chided the country's judges for ignoring the "moral" aspect in enforcing the laws of Parliament. He said Roman-Dutch law was a "grand heritage" but "the spirit of our law has become travestied in our country."

Mr. Small quoted the example of the operations of the Immorality Act which prohibits sexual relations between whites and non-whites. He referred in particular to one well-known case, as reported in the press.

In Window

"A police detective who climbed through a window into the home of a prominent white resident of A, told the Regional Court of A yesterday that he found a Colored man and the white man's daughter naked in bed together. X (the white man's daughter) and Y (the Colored man) were both sentenced . . . for contravening the Immorality Act . . . Detective Sergeant Z told the court that after entering the house in A on October 14 last year, he let in two other detectives. The three men had observed the couple through a window cuddling and kissing on October 12, and had seen them go into the bedroom together on October 13. On entering the house they stood outside the bedroom door. Sergeant Z said he heard movements and whispering from the room. They went in, and one of the other detectives took photographs of X and Y lying in bed."

Mr. Small commented: "Whatever freedom may mean to a reasonable person it cannot be anything like this. This is sheer totalitarianism which cannot be reasoned away by any amount of benevolent talk, at ministerial or any level . . . Yet thousands and thousands of people in the country have settled down happily with this sort of thing. They see it happen with unruffled consciences. Some realize its horror, but shrug and say that it is 'the law.'

"The horror is precisely that it can be the law . . . What is nightmarish about our society is that matters which should be judged solely by moral criteria can be judged in terms of the right and wrong of our law."

Mr. Small then asked: "I ask whether our judges in South Africa have not been neglecting a duty which they have. The business of judges is also to maintain a right philosophy to the law. To what extent have our judges been failing the country through their too-tractable behavior in our courts; tractable as far as their attitude is concerned to laws which cannot possible be held to be given in the equitable spirit and tradition of Roman-Dutch?"

Short Reply

Judge-President Beyens's reply to Mr. Small was short and sharp. He dismissed the idea that it was a function of the courts to pronounce morally on Parliament's laws.

"The plea I want to make," he said "is that no people can afford, least of all in this country, to question its judiciary." The court's job was to interpret the law honestly. As soon as judges began opening their mouths about the laws of a country, history had proved, they became tools of party politics.

Chief Justice Steyn backed Mr. Justice Beyers by rebuking the critics who had criticized the judiciary, especially in relation to the judiciary's interpretation of the 90-day detention law. The imputation, said the Chief Justice, in effect was that the courts had been guilty of a dereliction of duty due to an inadequate concern for basic rights and liberties, and in not giving them a right which would more effectively protect such rights and liberties.

Even presuming that the court judgments had been wrong, declared the Chief Justice, he would remind critics of the factual circumstances in which the provisions had been passed. "Whatever the merits and demerits may be, this was the provision which Parliament adopted to cope with the situation." The only task of the courts was to interpret the intention of Parliament as expressed in the enactments.

FAMED TRIAL RECALLED

Tennessee Dumps Old 'Monkey Law'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—The state senate Tuesday took less than five minutes to settle a controversy that has raged since Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan argued about the descent of man in a rural Tennessee courtroom 42 years ago.

The senate passed 20-13 a bill to repeal the statute prohibiting the teaching in public schools of any theory which denies the Biblical version of the divine creation of man. All that is needed to strike down the anti-evolution law is the signature of Gov. Buford Ellington.

The Tennessee action leaves Arkansas and Mississippi with the only two anti-evolution laws still on the books. The Arkansas statute was declared unconstitutional last year by a judge, and the state expects the Supreme Court will uphold that ruling.

The Tennessee senate vote came without debate on the measure which had drawn emotional oratory from both sides prior to a previous unsuccessful repeal aattempt.

Ellington's signature would make a moot point of a federal suit filed Monday which had been heralded as the prelude to a second "monkey trial" in the state.

The suit was filed by Gary Scott, a Jacksboro high school science teacher, who was fired for teaching evolution to his students.

Twisters Hurt 11

DANVILLE, Va. (UPI)—Seven tornadoes ripped from border to border across Virginia late Monday destroying homes and farm buildings, ripping power and communication lines and injuring at least 11 persons.

Don't Adopt 'Lost' Animal, Expert Warns

People are asked to leave infant wildlife creatures alone if found and appear to have been abandoned by their parents.

Dr. James Hatter, director of B.C. Fish and Wildlife Branch, said the young animals may appear abandoned, but actually the parents are not far off.

"Their parents, naturally spooky and reluctant to show themselves to man, often stand helplessly nearby as their youngsters are carried away by people who find them cute and cuddly," he said.

He pointed out that young wildlife animals require expert care and feeding and usually won't survive if separated from their mother.

The young of all wildlife are protected by law under the Wildlife Act and it is an offence to have them in possession, he noted.

Gas Blast Blamed in Mine Deaths

NATAL, B.C. (CP)—A spark from a falling rock and a pocket of methane gas that built up in a mined-out section of a coal mine here apparently caused an underground fire and explosion that killed 15 men, an inquest was told Tuesday night.

Robert Bonar, deputy chief mines inspector with the British Columbia mines department, said the gas had probably accumulated in a 40-foot-high mined-out vault, called a gob, which was not ventilated.

A sample of air taken in the gob following the April 3 explosion showed a dangerously high proportion of methane, he said.

Tests have determined the explosion occurred in or about the gob.

The jury ruled early today that the 15 miners died from "an apparent explosion" and that evidence indicates "the possibility of a buildup of an excessive amount of methane in the gob area." It recommended better ventilation.

Mr. Bonar testified that the gob was not ventilated because it was located in an unused section of the mine.

The gob, 4,100 feet from the mine entrance, was at the deepest part of the mine, which runs horizontally into a mountain.

Mr. Bonar said the spark that set off the gas was probably from a falling rock. Gas in the lofty cave probably burned for several seconds before coal dust exploded, he added.

The jury recommended that the heights of excavation be controlled until there is adequate ventilation to ensure that gas will not concentrate in the area.

JOSEPH KENNEDY
... $100 prize

No Title But Work A Winner

A 22-year-old Victorian has won a $100 prize in the Victoria Art Gallery jury show with his untitled oil abstract painting.

The show opened Tuesday.

The prize awarded from the gallery Women's Committee Cultural Fund went to Joseph Kennedy of 38 Paddon Avenue.

Last year the artist won a $1,000 first prize in an art contest sponsored by the University of Victoria. His winning picture then was also an abstract.

Kennedy, who studied at the Vancouver School of Art, was also chosen by the B.C. government to do a 30-foot mural for the B.C. Institute of Technology in Vancouver.

MAJOR EVENT

The show, one of the gallery's major events fo the year, features paintings, printmaking and sculpture from all parts of the island and Gulf Islands.

Eighty-one works were selected from a total of 363 entries by a one-man jury. The juror this year was William Hixson, professor of art at the University of Washington, Seattle.

The oldest exhibitor was Albert Jones, 93, who entered two watercolors.

PRIVINCE THEME

The youngest was 15-year-old Christina Andreae of Norfolk House, who received a Mark Kearley award of $30 for submitting the best paintings on a British Columbia theme.

That competition was only open to secondary school students on Vancouver Island.

A $20 second prize went to Jerry Way of University School.

In other classes, honorable mentions were awarded to Helen Adams, Annabel Cranstoun, Virginia Lewis, Jom O'Mara and Lloyd Tuck.

Lawyer Plans To Challenge New LSD Law

VANCOUVER (CP) — lawyer Sidney Simons said Tuesday he will challenge the constitutional validity of the new provincial legislation on the hallucenatory drug LSD.

Simons, defence counsel for Helen Dawn Simpson, 29, Edith Shirley Mack, 32, and Francis Robert Lewis, 24, asked Magistrate Maurice Mulligan that the case be remanded to allow him time to settle the question before a judge.

The three charged are the first to appear in court under the two-month-old section of the Provincial Health Act.

The magistrate set June 13 as the date for trial.

Under the act, possession of LSD can bring six months in jail and a $2,000 fine. Trafficking in the drug is illegal under federal law.

Miss Simpson was earlier committed to high court trial on a charge of possessing marijuana. Similar charges against Lewis and Miss Mack were dismissed after a preliminary hearing.

CITY SKATER REACHES LAKEHEAD

Victoria's Centennial roller skater, Christopher Price coasted into Fort William Tuesday, three-quarters of the way to Expo.

Mr. Price, 20, left Mile 0 of the Trans-Canada Highway at the foot of Douglas Street March 24.

He is averaging 90 miles a day and expects to arrive at Expo June 15.

A second skater, Clinton Show of Vancouver, crossed the B.C. border into Alberta and is expected to reach Lake Louise today.

WORLD INTEREST IN CANADA GROWING

Expo Gives Boost to Trade Fair Displays

By AB KENT
Times Business Editor

VANCOUVER — What must be the most dazzling display of industrial and consumer goods ever shown together in B.C. opened here today with the roar of an ancient cannon.

The fourth B.C. International Trade Fair — government and industry-sponsored showcase for domestic and foreign exhibitors — can thank Expo for much of the unhearalded foreign participation.

Countries taking part in the Montreal exhibition have found it advantageous to take part also in BCITF, rather than being discouraged by the prospect of two exhibitions.

The last word in manufactured goods from 50 countries set out in a kaleidoscope of color at five pavilions in Exhibition Park has already attracted some 3,000 purchasing agents.

Public attendance begins today, although the official opening by Princess Alexandra and her husband Angus Ogilvie is set for Thursday.

Today's cannon roar came from the mouth of a 339-year-old gun that spent 330 years at the bottom of Stockholm harbor where it sank with the warship Wasa in 1628.

Sweden sent the relic as part of the national exhibit and to announce Scandinavia day at the fair.

Test firings rent the air Tuesday as hordes of workmen scrambled around half-finished exhibitor's booths and installed the last of the heavy machinery displays from such places as Austria, Italy and Japan.

The response from 15 governments and 1,000 companies displaying some 10,000 products over 100,000 square feet of exhibit space is reassurance to the vision of B.C. and Western Canada.

WORLD FORCE

It proves the vision is shared by nations scattered over the face of the globe, that this part of the west is about to play a potent role in world economic force.

Manufacturers have specialized in consumer products, although industrial development through sales of heavy machinery is an important consideration.

Pavilions are crowded tastefully — with crackers and cameras, fine wines and fashions, turbines and carpets, motorcycles and cloth cutters for the garment industry, sports cars and sewing machines, delicate china and shears for steel plate.

On stage twice a day will be an all-Australian show featuring Rolf Harris; lucky winners will get seven expense-paid air trips to the holiday spas of the world.

More than 200,000 persons are expected to crowd the grounds and buildings during the 10-day fair that is aimed at two-thirds of the world's population — those living on the Pacific rim.

Japan Gets Business

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese businessmen clinched contracts worth more than $100,000,000 in the Canton, China, Trade Fair which ended Monday, it was announced Tuesday. The contracts cover exports and imports.

Benson & Hedges 100's are longer than luxury size. Longer than king size. Much longer than regular size.

And they are at popular price.

What it amounts to is this. You smoke a pack of Benson & Hedges 100's and it's like getting more than three extra king size cigarettes on us.

The length takes a little getting used to.

The price doesn't.

Stock Exchanges Boost Commission Rates

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto, Montreal - Canadian and Vancouver stock exchanges, Canada's big three, announced a wholesale revision of commission rates Tuesday.

The Toronto exchange estimated the new structure will increase gross commissions by 11 per cent. It also calculated that $38,000,000 was paid out on business transacted on the TSE in the six months ended March 31.

The new rates are expected to go into effect July 1.

The Calgary exchange said its rates are under review and a decision is expected in a week or 10 days.

Following the New York Stock Exchange's example, the new rates on stocks trading at above $1 a share will be calculated on a percentage basis.

Until now, the Canadian exchanges had a series of flat commission rates rising in steps; for example, the commission has been 2½ cents a share on stocks selling from $1 to $1.99 a share.

The new commission charged for each 100 shares trading at $1 will amount to $1.75 or 30 per cent less than the current charge of $2.50.

On 100 shares trading at $1.99, the new rate will be $4.47 or 78.8 per cent higher than the current charge.

Under other changes the percentage increase in commissions declines as the price of stock increases.

One hundred shares trading at $5 but under $7.50 now are subject to a flat commission of $15. The new rate would have a charge of $12.75 for 100 shares of a $5 issue increasing to $19.49 for 100 shares selling at $7.45.

The present commission on a board lot selling at $25 to $39.88 is $35. This will be changed to $36 for a board lot at $25, ranging to $40.97 for one at $39.88.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Three Mine Issues Continue Strong

Three mining companies, which advanced last week on Finance Minister Sharp's reassurance to the industry, continued to show strength in pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

Brenda, at $5.95, Dynasty, $7.60, and Lornex, $5.05, all posted identical .10 gains.

TC Explorations also advanced and rose .04 to .70 on 11,000 shares.

Bata Resources was the heaviest trader and lost .02 to $1.56 on 40,000 shares.

Industrials were mixed with B.C. Tel off .75 to $67.25 and Columbia Cellulose dipping .15 to $4.85, a new low.

However, Pacific Pete was up .12 to a new high of $14.50 and Trans Prairie rose the same amount to a new high of $7.87.

AT TORONTO Bramalea advanced 1¼ to 11½ in the industrial list.

Canadian Food Products rose 1 to 6½ after it was announced that Duplate would buy its entire holding of 300,000 class B shares in Versafood Services at $6 a share.

ITL Industries lost 1⅜ to 34⅝ and Slater Steel ⅝ to 9¾.

Uranium issues advanced with Denison and Preston ahead ⅜ each to 69¼ and 20⅛, Rio Algom and Roman Corp. ⅛ each to 34¼ and 19½ and Stanrock 5 cents to 3.40.

Kerr-Addison rose ⅜ to 14¾ after being delayed at the opening to match buy-and-sell orders.

Oils moved ahead with Dome up ½ to 52¾, Pacific Petroleum ⅜ to 14⅝ and Imperial Oil ¼ to 59¾.

AT NEW YORK the market turned mixed in fairly active trading.

Loses of about three points were taken by SCM and Rheem Manufacturing in active dealings.

Brokers said it appeared like another session of consolidation of the type which has followed the market's advance to 909.63 in the Dow Industrials on May 8.

AT MONTREAL stocks were higher today. Trading was moderate.

Denison climbed 1½ points to 69¾ and Rio Algom ½ to 34½ among the high-flying uraniums.

Three senior oils—Imperial, Pacific Pete and Shell — were each ⅜ stronger at 59⅞, 14⅝ and 26⅞ respectively.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line led utilities higher with a ⅝-point gain to 30⅛. Interprovincial Pipe Line, whose shares have split on a five-for-one basis, traded at 21⅛.

AT LONDON the market was sensitive and unsettled today in the wake of French President de Gaulle's Common Market references, the weakness of sterling Tuesday and revival of old fears of Britain's economic position.

Golds continued to attract attention with some gains of up to 4s. Diamonds and coppers shared the rise.

Canadians improved, including Inco, up 3 at 197½, CPR, Massey and Alcan. Hudson Bay Oil and Gas and Hollinger were slightly easier and Canadian banks were quiet.

In papers, Reed lost 9d to 45s 3d and it was followed down by Bowater.

New Layoffs Feared in U.K. Car Industry

LONDON (AP) — A drastic slump in automobile sales brought fears of more layoffs and short-time work in Britain's motor industry.

Only 96,735 new cars were sold in April, the lowest total for that normally busy month in five years. It is nearly 30 per cent below the number of autos sold in April last year.

Industry executives blamed the falling domestic demand on the Labor government's credit squeeze, which already has cost the jobs of an estimated 10,000 auto workers.

Prospects were that hundreds more will be laid off and thousands put on a four-day week if the slump persists.

Lord Thomson's U.K. Interests Boost Earnings

LONDON (CP) — Both turnover and earnings of the Thomson Organization Ltd. increased during 1966, Lord Thomson says in his annual statement.

The Canadian-born publisher, whose British holding includes travel companies and Scottish Television besides newspaper, magazines and books says total sales increased to nearly £63,000,000. Trading profits at £7,857,917 were greater by 8.8 per cent than the previous year. These figures do not include Thomson's North American operation.

Profit after tax amounted to £3,947,030 compared with £3,833,892 for 1965, despite a charge for depreciation, plant and machinery of £1,411,733 against £1,023,756.

Thomson, in his statement says that since The Times introduced front-page news — in place of advertisements — more than a year ago its circulation has gone up more than 30 per cent. Circulation of 400,000 is expected in 1968 by Thomson, who acquired majority ownership of the paper last Sept. 30.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures fell more than 3½ cents in moderately heavy dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Corn futures declined more than two cents. Oats and rye also were lower but soybeans bucked the trend.

The prospect of a heavy wheat crop this year plus a June 30 carryover of 400,000,000 bushels tended to depress wheat prices.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds came in for some selling on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with a few parcel lots sold to Japan.

The oats and barley trade was along domestic lines and rye continued to show irregularity. May rye continued to show a premium over other months.

A feature of trade was the sale of 83,000 tons of wheat and 300 tons of barley to Japan.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Lower Tariffs Will Work As Double-Edged Sword

By AB KENT

Business Editor

To Canadian manufacturers the effect of concluding Kennedy Round tariff negotiations is a double-edged sword, to use the description of B.C. Minister of Trade, Commerce and Industrial Development Ralph Loffmark.

Reacting to the successful finish of the round — in itself a reversal of much pessimistic comment during the later stages of discussion — Mr. Loffmark said this country can both benefit and suffer.

KENT

In areas where Canada has a natural advantage in world markets, in grain, pulp, paper, lumber, agricultural products, fish minerals, gas and oil, there should be immediate beneficial results.

In fact, the price of wheat to the Canadian producer will be 21 cents a bushel higher.

Canadian makers of specialized products, such as logging machinery, power saws and heavy trucks also should find easier access to world markets.

But in areas of manufacturing where the competition is stronger, prices of Canadian-made goods will decline.

Canadian manufactured goods must compete with the world market. This is the other side of the coin," Mr. Loffmark said.

"If we are in an area of high production cost, we may have trouble. People who make transistor radios, for example, or refrigerators — these can be made anywhere," he said.

But at least this situation holds promise for the consumer, who should then be able to buy such items cheaper for two reasons — easier access of foreign-made goods to Canada and cut prices of Canadian-made goods competing with them.

Mr. Loffmark said the principle of Kennedy Round tariff-cuts is good, although they affect such a broad scale and so many countries.

"I have some reservations about Canada-U.S. trade. If we find there is an increase in prices at the wholesale and manufacturer's level, the general effect of the tariff reductions will be dissipated.

"Multi-lateral tariff agreements are all well and good. But if they are not as progressivee as we hoped, then we could go back and look at bilateral Canada-U.S. agreements," the minister said.

"What we are really interested in is better access to the U.S. market," he added.

* * *

In any event, it is still up to the participating countries to implement the Geneva agreements on tariff-cutting, which will not occur overnight.

The U.S. has acted already in naming persons to make detailed study of the application of broad agreements, and Canada as first trading partner of the U.S. should also act quickly.

Fast Radio Link With Oil Rig

Special communications equipment to reproduce graphs of well information and transmit detailed geological findings as well as voice signals will be installed this week aboard Sedco 135-F, the giant offshore drilling rig now undergoing sea trials.

The equipment, being supplied and installed by the B.C. Telephone Company, will enable Shell Canada Limited personnel in Calgary and Edmonton to examine daily drilling results from the 17,500-ton rig when it goes into operation off the west coast of Vancouver Island in the near future.

The telephone company said today the communications equipment includes a directional radio antenna, facsimile transmitters and receivers and a data set as well as telephone instruments for voice transmission.

The vessel's radio antenna will pick up signals from a very high frequency point-to-point radio transmitter located on Radar Hill, near Tofino. These signals will provide two separate circuits, one for private-line telephone service between the rig and two locations on Vancouver Island, the other for voice or data transmission.

Men on the rig will have instant communication with the Victoria headquarters of Shell's offshore program by means of multiple channel radio transmitters, and with air and sea transport.

Puerto Rican Fighters Banned From Garden After Riot

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Puerto Rican fighters will be barred from main events at Madison Square Garden for a cooling off period following the second riot within 10 weeks and the third in 21 months at a fight show in the famed arena Tuesday night.

Bottles, pieces of chairs and other missiles were tossed into the ring and the ringside sections shortly after light heavyweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria was awarded a split decision over Puerto Rican-born Jose Torres in a close return, 15-round title bout.

Eleven persons suffered cuts and were treated at nearby hospitals, police reported. None of the victims were reported seriously hurt. No arrests were reported.

The other two riots involved fights featuring Puerto Rican born Frankie Narvaez, a New York lightweight who lost both times.

In the first, Narvaez dropped a split decision in a close fight with Flash Elorde of the Philippines on Aug. 4, 1965. In the second, on March 10, 1967, Panama's Ismael Laguna decisively whipped Narvaez and was awarded a unanimous decision by whopping margins.

FIGHT MAY BE OFF

As a result of the third riot, a proposed title fight between lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, a Puerto Rican-born New Yorker and Laguna may not be held in New York or may be put off for some time.

A Garden source, who asked not to be identified, said: "We can't go with that or any main event with a Puerto Rican for some time after this one."

Tiger had dethroned the 3-1 favored Torres on a decisive and unanimous decision at the Garden last Dec. 16 before a crowd of 13,654 that paid $100,488. There were no disorders at that fight.

In the return bout, Torres, with an advantage in age, weight, height and reach, was favored again, this time by narrower 8-to-5 odds. It drew a crowd of 12,674 and $104,459, and grossed $60,000 more from television.

Referee Harold Valan and judge Johnny Dran each voted for Tiger by 8-to-7 margins in rounds. Judge Joe Eppy had it 8-to-7 for Torres. The Associated Press had it 8-to-7 for Torres.

STAGGERED CHAMPION

A late surge by the 31-year-old Torres excited his followers and probably touched off the riot. Well behind on all scorecards, he staggered the 37-year-old Nigerian with a sweeping left and right to the jaw in the 12th round and captured the last four rounds on all scorecards.

Torres had predicted a knockout victory. He went after his lighter—173 pounds to 167—and shorter rival from the opening bell and they fought a fierce battle for three rounds.

The iron-jawed Nigerian, getting in close and banging away with both hands to the body and head, dominated the next five rounds. Torres spurted in the ninth and 10th, lost the 11th and then started his drive in the 12th.

When the scores were announced there was a momentary lull. Then a bottle was heaved from the balcony and then the other missiles rained down as spectators put wooden chairs over their heads and scurried for cover.

POLICE SUMMONED

Police and firemen were summoned to help the special police in the Garden. It took at least 15 minutes before the disorders were quelled.

"They were like animals," said Dick Esau, the head of the Garden's security force.

Torres remained in the ring for five minutes after the missile throwing started. He pleaded to the balcony spectators to behave themselves. It didn't help.

BOTTLES, ETC., GOT OUT OF HAND(S)

Bottles, pieces of chairs and anything else that wasn't tied down rained on Madison Square Garden ring Tuesday night as emotional Puerto Rican fans protested majority decision which enabled Dick Tiger to keep his light-heavyweight boxing crown after torrid scrap with Jose Torres of Puerto Rico. Torres, foreground, holds chair-shield over his head while Tiger leaves ring from top corner.

Catfish Buries Angels in Dirt

By Associated Press

George Toma is helping "Catfish" Hunter into a hole so Hunter can help Kansas City Athletic out of one.

Toma, the Athletics' head groundskeeper, sees to it that Hunter has no trouble digging a hole in front of the pitching rubber to step into. The right-hander complained the dirt at Minnesota was like cement May 11 when he lost 8-0 to the Twins.

But Tuesday night in Kansas City, the dirt was just like dirt and Hunter dug in to bring his record to 4-3 with a three-hit, seven-strikeout, 4-0 victory over California Angels. Three of his victories have been at home.

The victory was the Athletics' fifth straight and moved them to within 4½ games of the American League-leading Chicago White Sox.

Third-place Kansas City now is 15-14—its best start since 1963 when the Athletics were 18-14 and in second place the morning of May 16. They finished eighth that year and did not get any higher until last season when they struggled to seventh.

CHANCE WINS AGAIN

In other AL games Tuesday night, Dean Chance and Minnesota Twins stopped the White Sox winning string at 10 with a 1-0 victory. New York Yankees edged Cleveland Indians 4-3 in 11 innings, Washington Senators nipped Detroit Tigers 5-4 and Baltimore Orioles beat Boston Red Sox 8-5.

Rich Monday, Kansas City's hottest hitter over the last 11 games, gave Hunter all the help he needed by doubling home the first two runs.

Chance, winning his sixth straight since losing his first start of the season, allowed just five singles and was backed by three double plays.

The Yankees, who tied the game with a pair of runs in the eighth, loaded the bases with none out in the 11th. Mickey Mantle then singled over the left fielder's head to end it.

Cleveland had taken a 3-1 lead in the fifth when, with two out, shortstop Dick Howser's throwing error let in two runs and Rocky Colavito's single brought in another.

HITS FIRST HOMER

Baltimore overcame a 5-4 Boston lead in the eighth when Paul Blair hit his first homer of the season, a three-run, pinch-hit blast. Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer for the Orioles, while Carl Yastrzemski belted a two-run shot and George Scott walloped a pair of triples for Boston.

Al Kaline hit a three-run homer in the Detroit first, but Washington came back to tie the score in its half of the inning, with Fred Valentine's two-run double the key hit.

The Senators took the lead with two runs in the third, with consecutive doubles by Jim King and Frank Howard producing one and Bernie Allen's sacrifice fly providing the other.

If Leafs' Franchise Sold Toronto Escapes Red Ink

Victoria is once again without a professional hockey team and the city's chances of returning to the Western Hockey League fold today appeared only a long-shot possibility.

Victoria's franchise went to Phoenix, Ariz., Tuesday.

And reports indicate a sudden turn of events prompted Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League to shift their WHL farm club to Arizona.

A syndicate of Phoenix businessmen headed by Bob Whitlow was reported to have purchased the team for $500,000. If the price is right, Toronto probably more than recovered the estimated $220,000 it was reported to have lost in operating a team in Victoria for the past three seasons.

A Phoenix source told The Times today that Whitlow has confirmed the sale, which affects Vancouver and San Francisco interests.

California Seals, who will step into the expanded National League next season, were believed ready to establish a WHL farm team in Phoenix. But late Monday night it was announced the San Francisco-to-Phoenix move had fallen through.

CHANCES REMOTE

That news came from the WHL meeting in Portland and was the tip-off on Victoria's future.

It also knocked a hole in Vancouver's hopes for wholesale assistance from the Toronto team. Toronto was reported ready to move into Vancouver after Canucks had terminated a working agreement with New York Rangers.

The only thing certain, however, is that Victoria has lost its spot in the Western League for the second time since entering the circuit in 1949.

If there is any hope of a return, city fans probably must look to a new NHL expansion team.

Chances of a new expansion team establishing a farm club in Victoria are, at the moment, very remote. It is especially remote in considering the 1967-68 season.

Hockey men still regard Victoria, because of its proximity to Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, as favorably situated from a geographical standpoint. Other certain league entries are San Diego and Phoenix.

"We are prepared to operate with five, six or seven teams," said league president Al Leader. "But, at the moment, I don't know where we'll get more than five."

SEALS INTERESTED?

Still to be resolved is the matter of San Francisco (Oakland) and Los Angeles franchises. With Phoenix out of the picture now, Oakland has now directed its interest at Fresno and possibly, Victoria.

A possible Victoria-Oakland tieup was indicated today when city recreation manager Jack Morgan said today he "was approached, unofficially, last winter by another Western League team."

While Morgan wouldn't amplify, the guess is that "another" team would be Oakland, which plans to operate a WHL farm club after joining the NHL.

Los Angeles' situation is also confused because of the expansion. A group headed by Jack Kent Cooke has obtained an NHL franchise for Los Angeles, but the present owners of that city's WHL franchise have authorized attorneys to prepare legal action against the NHL unless they are given "satisfactory indemnity."

Both Los Angeles and San Francisco were given until June 16 to decide whether to enter teams in the WHL next season.

Dropout Jolts Racing World

An 18-year-old high school dropout knocked the racing world for a loop Tuesday by winning seven consecutive races at Woodbine.

The feat by Richard Grubb, an apprentice rider, is a North American record.

Grubb, a native of Ridgeway, Ont., who dropped out of school in Grade 10 two years ago to take up riding, finished third in the first race Tuesday afternoon but booted home winners the rest of the day.

"It was my biggest day in racing," the five-foot-two, 102 pounder said. He shrugged off the seven wins by saying he takes every race as it comes. He won five of the races by less than a length.

Anyone lucky enough to put a $2 parlay on Grubb's seven winners would have come away richer by $180,717.

A $2 show parlay on all of Grubb's mounts — he finished third in the first race — would have returned a profit of $252 on the day.

Grubb came closest to losing in the fifth race when he won by a nose on Redirect. He won aboard Robby Jr. in a three-horse photo finish in the fourth and by a neck in the sixth on Capt'n Roo.

His most impressive win came in the seventh when he brought Hail The King to the top from 12 lengths back at the head of the stretch.

The youthful jockey will not have an opportunity to extend his winning streak until May 27. He has been suspended 10 days effective today for careless riding in a race last Saturday.

Vancouver Works Overtime to Win

VANCOUVER—Vancouver Carlings had to work overtime Tuesday night but they didn't have a single complaint.

They rapped in three overtime goals to down Coquitlam Adanacs 13-11 and step into a tie with Victoria Shamrocks for first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

Adanacs looked like probable winners after scoring the last four goals of the third period to pull into a 10-10 deadlock and force the 10-minute overtime session but they couldn't keep up with the Vancouver athletes in the final minutes.

In overtime, Vancouver took the lead at 1:12 on a goal by Sid Warick, but Coquitlam tied the score again on a goal by playing coach Gord Gimple.

DRIBBLED INTO NET

Vancouver put the game away at 5:41 on a hard shot by Duke Leibscher that dribbled into the Coquitlam net off goalkeeper Joe Comeau.

Gord Fredrickson gave Vancouver an insurance goal with just five seconds left in the game.

LEAFS GET REPLACEMENT . . .

. . . FOR RED KELLY

Shack Adds Color to Muscle

TORONTO (CP)—The muscle and antics of Eddie Shack have given Toronto Maple Leafs a possible replacement for retiring centre Red Kelly.

The deal for Shack cost Boston Bruins centre Murray Oliver and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The Leafs announced the trade Tuesday almost 12 hours after the deadline for National Hockey League trades.

After the midnight Monday dealine, all NHL rosters were frozen until after the universal June 6 draft in Montreal.

Oliver was the second centre dealt away by the Bruins Monday in a search for size up front.

Boston traded centre Pit Martin, defenceman Gilles Marotte and minor-league goaltender Joe Norris to Chicago Black Hawks for centre Phil Esposito, right-winger Ken Hodge and defenceman Fred Stanfield.

Kelly announced his retirement after the Leafs won the Stanley Cup, leaving Toronto with seasoned Dave Keon and Peter Stemkowski. Toronto also has Mike Walton, who just completed his rookie season.

Boston got a top drawing card.

Shack, 30, who saw little action last season, drew a greater ovation in Maple Leaf Gardens when he stepped on the ice for a free skate between periods than did Bobby Hull when he scored his 50th goal of the season for Chicago Black Hawks here a few months ago.

Vitamized Claremont Again Poses a Threat

"C" is a popular vitamin doctors recommend.

"C" also stands for Claremont, and that's where athletic pep and high school vitality seem to be abundant.

Little Claremont (population about 550) again challenges the perennial superiority of Oak Bay (population over 1,000) and Victoria High (about 1,400) in the athletic arena.

It was Claremont breathing down Oak Bay's neck and running ahead of Vic High as the inter-high track and field eliminations headed for a third and final round today.

After two days, Oak Bay qualified 50 sons and daughters for Friday's finals at Vic High. Claremont, showing greatest strength in girls' events, was next with 48 qualifiers and Vic High had 42.

Claremont was impressive in last year's meet and easily won the team championship awarded on a handicap basis.

Fridays' finals begin at 11:30 a.m.

Claremont led the field Tuesday, qualifying 29 athletes for "A" and "B" flight events. Oak Bay qualified 26 and Victoria a disappointing 20.

Three Claremont girls all qualified for the shot putt final by breaking the existing record. They are Trish Spooner, Barbara Masters and Sheila Lundeen.

Miss Spooner's toss of 34 feet, ½ inch, was the best of the day.

But an Oak Bay athlete came through with the day's top individual achievement. Bill McCormick, holder of the Canadian juvenile high jump record, emerged as the top discus threat with a record effort Tuesday.

McCormick hurled the discus a whopping 147 feet, 10 inches, to break the old standard by 13 feet, eight inches.

Victoria's Dave Close, co-holder of the boys' aggregate in last year's inter-high meet, assured himself of a chance to defend by leading qualifiers in the 440.

Tenpin Test For Champs Set Monday

Each league champion in the city's 40 tenpin bowling leagues will have a chance this weekend to go after another trophy.

The occasion is the first annual "tournament of champions," which will award trophies to winners in men's, women's and mixed divisions.

Teams will roll on two shifts at Mayfair Lanes on Monday, May 22, starting at 7 and 9 p.m.

Sponsors of the tourney are the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, the Victoria Tenpin Association and the Victoria Women's Bowling Association.

Thornber, Smyth Royal Oak's Best

Several school records were broken in the annual track and field meet of Royal Oak Junior Secondary School as Ray Thornber and Karen Smyth won senior aggregate titles.

Chris Pearson took the intermediate girls' aggregate and Victor Escude compiled the top aggregate score among intermediate boys.

Ann Battison won the individual title in junior girls' events, which were highlighted by Connie Campbell's efforts in winning the discus and shot-put and Ann Sheridan's high-jump victory.

Kirk Lindal and Harry Ward tied for individual honors in junior boys' competition, in which Casey Walt won the shot-put with a 40-foot, half-inch heave.

Steve Cooper's victory in the gruelling four-mile run and Thornber's winning broad jump of 19 feet, nine inches highlighted senior boys' events. Carol Gurr turned in a time of 30.6 seconds in taking the 220-yard dash for senior girls.

SARAZEN THINKS SO

Worry Affecting Nicklaus' Game?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gene Sarazen, golf star of the 1920s, says worry may sideline Jack Nicklaus "in a couple of years."

"He's worrying all the time," Sarazen told the Miami Herald. "Worrying about penalties. Worrying about business. Worrying because the crowd goes for Arnold Palmer and not for him.

"Jack ought to throw it over his shoulder. He ought to quit taking so much time and just hit the ball. He ought to quit worrying over and over about his bad shots.

"I didn't pay any attention to the crowd. I thought about golf. I lost the British Open by one shot and I told my wife I didn't want to hear any more about it. I threw it over my shoulder."

Sorry I Missed, Accused Quoted

A Sidney man who is charged with attempting to murder an RCMP constable is alleged to have told him:

"I'm sorry I missed you."

When the constable asked him why, he replied:

"You have a hateful face."

Kenneth Ingram, 25-year-old laborer of 1986 John Street, is charged in B.C. Assize Court with attempting to murder or wound civilian jail guard William McAuley and RCMP Constable Robert Bouck.

He is also charged with breaking and entering and theft a a Sidney hardware store.

He pleaded not guilty to all charges.

The charges followed a shooting affray in the Sidney RCMP office early on the morning of Sunday, Oct. 9, 1966.

JAIL GUARD

Constable Bouck said he was called to the station after Ingram was alleged to have wounded jail guard McAuley by shooting him in the left side.

"I was met by gunfire" the constable said. Later the accused told him:

"I'm sorry I missed you. It should have been a little lower. I intended to kill you."

Constable Bouck said Ingram was taken to Rest Haven Hospital because it was feared he had drunk a solution used for developing films.

He was placed in the emergency room and Constable Bouck stood before him. There was a bullet hole in his forage cap.

Constable Bouck said Ingram told him:

"I might have to spend two or three years for this. Next time it might be a meat cleaver . . . If it wasn't me, it would be someone else."

Constable Bouck said Ingram began the conversation in a jocular fashion, then grew agitated.

The constable said that in the detachment office he found a large quantity of live ammunition, a rifle and some used shells. On a desk in the office was a note:

"This is a warning, Ken. I intend to kill."

Jail guard McAuley said Ingram came to the detachment office around 6 a.m. on Oct. 9.

When he saw he was armed, McAuley slammed and locked the door. Ingram then smashed a pane of glass in the door and fired through it, wounding him in the left side.

POLICE DOG

Corporal Harry Chambers, NCO in charge of the Sidney RCMP detachment, said he entered the office accompanied by Constable James White of the Saanich force and a police dog.

Ingram was found slumped on the floor, lying on his back, in a basement washroom.

The trial continued today, with Louis Lindholm appearing for the crown and Lloyd McKenzie for the accused.

Young Hoods 'Encouraged' By Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of a U.S. house panel on juvenile delinquency said he fears the United States Supreme Court's decision to extend adult courtroom guarantees to minors will free many hardened young toughs to walk the streets.

Rep. Roman Pucinski, D—Ill., said Monday's high court ruling extending a blanket of constitutional safeguards to minors has "created a crisis for the nation that could result in chaos."

But Nicholas N. Kittrie, an attorney for the American parents committee, hailed the Supreme Court decision as a step towards bringing juvenile delinquency — like mental illness — out into the open.

The court's 58-page majority opinion, written by Justice Abe Fortas, declared that when a youthful offender is brought up for a hearing:

—He and his parents must be told the charges against him.

—An attorney must be provided.

—The right of cross-examination and confrontation with his accusers must be allowed.

—He must be protected against self-incrimination, such as a confession.

Monday's decision applied only to a court hearing for a juvenile, but the court may rule later on the questions of police arrest and post-hearing appeals.

Pilot Plans Appeal

DENVER (UPI) — A veteran U.S. fighter pilot, twice unsuccessful in his federal court efforts to stay out of what he calls the "unjust and immoral" war in Vietnam, today planned an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Capt. Dale E. Noyd, a 12-year veteran of the air force, was turned down Tuesday by the U.S. 10th circuit court of appeals here on his request to be classified as a conscientious objector.

INDIAN MLA LIKES GRANT PROPOSAL

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Indian leader Tuesday welcomed a federal program which will provide $6,000 in housing grants for Indians leaving their reservations.

The grants announced in the Commons by Indian Affairs Minister Laing also provide a further $1,000 for furniture for families who qualify.

"This is just what we have been looking for," said Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) only Indian member of the B.C. legislature.

"These grants will go a long way towards helping our people settle in cities," he said.

U.S. Nazi Convicted

CHICAGO (UPI)— American Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell was found guilty of disorderly conduct, criminal trespass and obstructing a peace officer Monday night by a jury of five men and seven women and was to be sentenced today.

Bags Held Marijuana, Says Expert

A substance found in a number of plastic bags when five youths were arrested on Ten-Mile Point last month was identified as marijuana in court Tuesday.

Charged with possession of a narcotic for the purpose of trafficking are Roger Hunter, 19, of 724 Yates; David McCallum, 18, of 1510 Dallas Road; Michael Hartley, 20, of 5276 West Saanich Road; Cyril McColgan, 20, of 3122 Yew, and a juvenile.

All have pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury. Magistrate Ostler will rule Friday whether the Crown has presented sufficient evidence in the preliminary hearing which ended Tuesday to warrant committing the five to trial before a higher court.

Constable Thomas Smith of the Victoria RCMP detachment testified Tuesday that analyst's certificates showed 11 small plastic bags seized at the time of the arrests contained marijuana.

PLASTIC BAGS

Another plastic bag holding a "green plant matter" was found in a hollow cement block when the property at 3019 McAnally Road was searched later, said Saanich detective Jack Stone.

Questions concerning the weight of marijuana seized and its value on the underworld market were disallowed by the magistrate.

Constable Smith did not himself weigh the substance and the matter of worth was a question of hearsay evidence, the court ruled.

The hearing heard at an earlier sitting how an RCMP officer in the guise of fellow prisoner was "planted" in the Saanich police cells with two of the accused.

Chest Specialist To Address TB Seal Meeting

Choice of Victoria for the annual meeting of the B.C. Tuberculosis - Christmas Seal Society Thursday and Friday marks the first time the annual gathering has been held outside Vancouver.

Delegates will meet in the Empress Hotel to hear Dr. Owen Clark, chest specialist from Canterbury, England, now on a speaking tour of Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association.

Among those attending will be Mrs. Alice M. Kimmitt, chairman for the Victoria Christmas Seal committee for the past 20 years.

The conference ends with a Christmas Seal workshop Friday.

No Violation Of Agreement

An arbitration board has found there was no violation of the collective agreement in the layoff of three employees of Economy Steam Laundry last December.

The majority award found from the two days of evidence at the hearing last week the company committed no violation in the layoffs of Mary Kitt, Loretta Wilson and Pauline Stuart.

The decision was approved by board chairman W. G. Stone and E. E. Pearlman, representing the company.

NO PLACE TO GO

Cuban Leader Ordered Deported

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The leader of a Cuban-exile anti-Castro group that authorities fear might try to blow up the Cuban Pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal now faces deportation. But to what country?

Felipe Rivero, head of the Miami-based Cuban Nationalist Association, was a Cuban refugee until U.S. Immigration authorities arrested him Friday night.

Now he is a Cuban without a country. His parole as a refugee has been revoked.

Immigration Officer James Tillman ruled after a hearing Monday that the 43-year-old Bay of Pigs invasion veteran be excluded from U.S. territory, at least temporarily.

U.S. officials admit they don't know where to send him.

COMMONS FOREWARNED

Two months ago, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told the House of Commons in Ottawa that the Canadian and U.S. governments were discussing restrictions against members of the Cuban Nationalist Association.

Martin said the group was responsible for a minor bombing outside the Cuban Embassy in Ottawa last fall and the firing of a package bombing device at a Montreal auction last March.

Martin told the House that Rivero had said something about visitors at the Expo 67 Cuban Pavilion being in danger.

Rivero told a recent press conference that his men did the bombing at Montreal because "they—the auction house—were selling objects confiscated by Fidel Castro from refugees leaving Cuba."

After the embassy bombing, Rivero said he wished his commandos would have "blown them to kingdom come."

QUEBEC DEMANDS RESISTED

Martin Fears Split Into 11 Canadas

FREDERICTON (CP) — Assumption by the provinces of independent stands on international issues would involve the dissolution of Canada as a single state, External Affairs Minister Martin warned Tuesday.

Without mentioning Quebec or any other province specifically, Mr Martin said: "If individual constituent members of a federal state had the right to conclude treaties independently of the central power, it would no longer be a federation but an association of sovereign powers."

CONFERENCE

The minister said if provinces were entitled to become members of an organization such as the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, in which they were interested, there could be up to 11 delegations from Canada at conferences.

"They might have 10 per cent of the votes, even though Canada pays only three per cent of the UNESCO budget. And if Canada were given this privilege, what of the United States which could claim 51 seats? UNESCO could have several hundred members."

FIND UNITY

It was healthy to encourage different approaches to certain problems among provinces or between provincial and federal governments.

"But I believe that in looking outward and approaching the international community we should try to achieve a unity of purpose and not simply export our differences."

Mr. Martin also said tse provinces are consulted on external matters which fall under provincial jurisdiction or in which provincial assistance is required for implementation of a policy.

"We are also studying the extent to which these or different methods can be adopted to strengthen the participation of provincial governments in the work of Canadian delegations to other international conferences."

Hidden Wiring Cost Called Exorbitant

The $20,000 cost of underground wiring on the new Gorge bridge was called exorbitant by Esquimalt councillors Tuesday, and the Department of Highways was criticized for refusing to put up half the money.

The price was called "way out of proportion" by Coun. Arthur Mebs after the public works committee learned the cost for overhead wiring would be only $400.

According to B.C. Hydro and B.C. Telephone engineers, 12 ducts would have to be put through the bridge and a double manhole installed at each end.

FOR EXPANSION

Municipal engineer William Gerry told the committee although all the present wiring could go into one of these ducts, 12 were necessary to provide for future expansion.

He said the department of highways, paying 50 percent of the cost of the bridge, had agreed to share the $5,100 cost of the ducts with the municipalities and the companies, but would not contribute to the remaining $15,000.

Esquimalt and Saanich would have to carry this cost themselves.

Coun. Mebs asked why the provincial government drew the line at the lighting.

"They pay 50 per cent of the bridge, why not the lights?"

Coun. Bell agreed. "The government is spending money to improve the Gorge through the Capital Improvement District Commission.

"If they are interested in aesthetic value then they should finish the job and provide for the underground wiring."

"I think we should negotiate some more to see just what the department is prepared to do," he said.

"Perhaps if we leave the bridge in the dark for a little while we might get some real action."

Public Meetings Promised

Acting reeve Charles Mollard has assured 40 Central Saanich petitioners that public meetings will be held in June and July to discuss the proposed $500,000 Brentwood sewage project.

The property owners requested council to sponsor several meetings to discuss the project.

The sewage money bylaw is expected to be submitted to Brentwood ratepayers at the end of July.

"We will hold meetings after the pollution control branch has heard our application for permission to dump treated sewage in Brentwood Inlet," said the acting reeve. "It's no use holding meetings until we know the decision of the board."

C. J. Keenan, pollution control director, has called a public hearing for May 30, starting at 10 a.m. in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall.

Acting Reeve Mollard also said the federal fisheries department has also been asked if the treated sewage would be harmful to the fish in Brentwood Bay.

A reply is expected for the May 30 pollution control meeting.

Dutch Blooms To Greet Juliana

By Elizabeth Forbes

During the present visit of Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and Prince Bernhard to Ottawa, the tulips should be in bloom. If they are, it will be a glorious tribute to a gracious lady.

Forbes

You see, Ottawa's most famous flower show (usually at its height in these last weeks of May) owes its success to the gratitude of Queen Juliana.

That gratitude arose from the city's hospitality during the Second World War when invading Germans forced her to flee her country, as well as from the part of the Canadian army played in liberating Holland.

Queen Juliana lived for several years in a secluded home in the Rockcliffe area of Canada's capital city. A Dutch princess was born there.

* * *

When the Queen returned to her own country one of her first acts was to pledge an annual gift of 16,000 tulip bulbs to Ottawa each year during her lifetime. The people of Holland gave another 100,000 bulbs to show their appreciation.

First shipment was delivered more than 20 years ago. You can imagine then, what a marvellous display there is today.

Ottawa friends have told me that these were not the first tulips in their city. The decision was made before the last world war to concentrate on the showy flowers in the spring and several hundred thousand bulbs were planted at that time.

* * *

These same people are quick to point out however, that Queen Juliana's wonderful gift did much to spark new ideas on how the flowers could be displayed to the best advantage.

A new method resulted which has done much to produce one of Canada's finest public spring flower shows.

This is called the "flowing mass display" and it uses all the fundamental principles of design to create eye-catching showings.

Small beds, popular before the war, have been declared obsolete. Large beds built around a few strong colors with other lesser colors to provide accent, have taken their place. Sometimes, for contrast, multi-color beds are planted.

* * *

Not too long ago I was in Ottawa at tulip time and when I was taken out to the famous 33-mile Driveway and shown the largest bed of tulips in the city, I recognized the beauty of "free flowing" lines.

Here were thousands of tulips massed in a colorful carpet that seemed to undulate over the ground.

* * *

It was the same with other displays along the Driveway, in front of the Houses of Parliament, around the National War Memorial, in the parks and on the slopes of the hills.

There must have been at least 200 varieties included in public showings. By now there could be many more.

At Central Experimental Farm (where I saw what one friend insisted was "the icing on the cake") all the latest bulbs developed in Holland were on display.

* * *

There were thousands of them in well-marked groups so that bulb growers could choose varieties they wanted for autumn planting.

Right now it's tulip time again in Ottawa. If the weather has co-operated, then the flowers are in bloom.

No finer welcome could be accorded Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, for it is a well-known fact that she looks upon the capital city of Canada not only as a wartime sanctuary but also as a well-loved home.

There are times when to lose is also to win, and I would so rate the war canoe race in Nanaimo harbor that ended with a good-sport crew from HMCS Saskatchewan a dozen lengths behind the Indian paddlers.

It isn't often that the native brother is given a chance to compete on his own ground and terms with the white man. That he should do so, and score a clean victory, is surely a better tonic for his confidence than all the neatly bottled preachments we hand down to him.

I think too that the white participant and spectator stands to benefit from such meetings. It does us no harm to be reminded that we are not masters of all skills, since respect for the abilities of our neighbors is one prop of friendship.

The Saskatchewan's men lost their hard-paddled race; but by the extent that their efforts serve to warm the climate between white and Indian, they can count themselves ahead of the game.

With the pollution of Buttle Lake now a foregone conclusion, the provincial government seems determined to demonstrate that nothing is really happening there except a little harmless stirring-up of the water.

Witness the latest report from the department of recreation and conservation. What we are now to believe, on the strength of experiments, is that the Buttle Lake trout will obligingly accommodate themselves to their changed condition.

Actually, what the department's tests seem to have demonstrated is merely that trout placed in water contaminated by mine-mill waste in varying percentages can survive without obvious harm for four days.

This fact, I am perfectly willing to accept. But I suggest that, compared to the studies that should have been made, those tests carry no weight whatever.

They do not reveal the cumulative effects of wastes poured into a lake over a period of years; and for this, I think we would be wiser to rely on precedents rather than bland government reassurances.

Take, for instance, California's Feather River, a splendid rainbow trout stream until pollution hit it. For years after that government-permitted disaster, the Feather was cancelled out as a sport prospect.

Today, in a state less careless of its wild assets than once it was, the river is being "brought back". But it may never make a full recovery.

The effect of mill wastes on Buttle remain to be seen, and I for one expect they will be long-lasting and widely destructive both to trout and to the weed beds that foster the insect life that helps sustain them.

Pollution and trout simply do not go together . . . and no short-term tank experiments will convince me otherwise.

We are now well into our fifth lawn mower, a fact that bears eloquent testimony to the way the grass grows on this well-watered peninsula.

Our first was a hand-pushed machine, brought from the East and set down on a lawn toward the end of a Saanich June. Its reel made a single revolution; then no amount of heaving would budge it.

The next was a great brute of the same type but with a motor perched atop. It served for a year, then began to cast off parts in so dangerous a fashion that we junked it.

Another, better, reel-type cowers in a far corner of our garage, plagued with a list of complaints that begin with a mangled clutch and carry through to a strangled carburetor.

From that machine we went into whirly-bird rotaries, and got several seasons out of our first of those tough little beasts. It devoured brush, snarled through the highest grass, and spat out stones until its casing was scalloped all round. We retired it only when its motor would no longer retain a head-gasket.

So to our present mower . . . and may it see us through spring's green invasion with no worse injury than the busted governor that set it screaming last week!

Going Down

Future wealth of B.C. may flow through this hole. And workman Clare Bergman looks like he knows it as he inspects guide structure for giant oil drilling rig.

Driver for a Victoria trucking firm, he had time to spare waiting for rush-hour traffic while transporting the large chunk of equipment from Victoria Machinery Depot to Esquimalt Graving Dock.

The structure sits on the floor of the rig to guide the drill which will sink deep into the ocean floor in search of black gold.

It will be transported from the graving dock to the rig—sitting at the outer wharf at Ogden Point—by ship.

A spokesman for Shell Canada Ltd. which is leasing the rig from South Eastern Commonwealth Drilling Co., explained that the equipment is too heavy to deliver direct to the wharf. It will be hoisted by crane from the deck of the ship to the platform 160 feet above.

Workmen are expected to finish work on the $10 million rig in the next few weeks. After trials it will be towed to the southern Queen Charlottes to begin work.

Pay Ordered For Eight Holidays

The provincial government today issued its first Industrial Relations Board order requiring employers to pay their employees for eight statutory holidays.

The order does not apply to organized workers who already have mandatory paid statutory holidays under collective agreements and it excludes certain salesmen and other types of occupations which now do not come under minimum wage orders.

But for all others, the order requires employers to give a day off with pay for New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Remembrance Day and Christmas Day.

"This is the first time an order has been issued in B.C. for paid statutory holidays," commented Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

"It is a further advance in the boards program to raise labor standards for employees in the province."

21 Benchers Elected By Mail Vote

The British Columbia Law Society announced today 21 lawyers in the province have been elected benchers in the body.

Benchers are elected by mail ballot by members of the profession. The law society constitutes the governing body of the legal profession in the province.

Elected were R. P. Anderson, D. T. Braidwood, C. W. Brazier, A. B. B. Carrothers, F. U. Collier, R. T. Dumoulin, A. M. Harper, H. E. Hutcheon, C. C. Locke, H. J. McGivern, K. E. Meredith, C. C. I. Merritt and P. B. Paine, all of Vancouver.

D. J. Lawson and L. G. McKenzie of Victoria; T. K. Fisher and D. B. Hinds of New Westminster; C. H. Hamilton of Nelson, P. J. Millward of Kamloops and H. B. King of Prince George.

The new benchers will take office at the annual meeting of the law society in Victoria on June 15.

Jaycee Fair Zipping Ahead of Last Year

Record-breaking crowds continue to stream through the gates to the annual Jaycee exhibition.

Over 13,400 persons attended Tuesday, 300 more than last year.

Officials report a "whopping business" in hot dog sales with more than 7,000 sold in the two days.

A workman, Lloyd Sharp of Burnaby, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a bruised foot suffered in a mishap with the hot air ballon Tuesday.

A steel cable parted and the balloon drifted 100 feet toward the Curling Rink taking the man with it.

Today is Esquimalt Day with special ceremonies paid to the municipality in the Curling Rink in the evening.

Miss Victoria candidates Karen Beck and Brenda Steele will perform for the pageant judges tonight after the 8 o'clock fashion show.

Thursday is Kiddies Day with reduced prices on rides and Jaycee hot dogs. Some of the beard-growing competitions will be judged that night.

Love-In Joins Parade But Peaceniks Banned

Right now hippies are in and peaceniks are out of the Victoria Day Parade.

The Greater Victoria Celebrations Association committee Tuesday refused the application of the Victoria Peace Action League for an anti-Vietnam-war float but left a projected hippie float applied for by the Victoria Youth Council up to the discretion of the parade marshal.

The anti-war float, a Volkswagen bus with anti-war banners and pictures, is "not in the theme of the 24th of May in the sense of what we are trying to do," said chief parade marshal Fred Lockett, a committee director. "That is, give pleasure to people."

Grounds for the ruling was that the association constitution prohibits displays of a political nature.

"If anyone shows up with the same theme (as the anti-war float) or something similar, it will be disallowed in the parade," said Mr. Lockett.

Format of the hippie display is still uncertain, said Charles Barber, a Youth Council director. "It will probably be a parade of about 100 hippies handing out flowers led by a car dolled up with flowers and an appropriate slogan such as "We must build in every sense a world without murder."

Frank Cox, 19, president of the 15-member Victoria Peace Action League, said he was surprised by the celebration committee's decision and wished he had been invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. Cox, who is now completing high school at the Adult Education Centre, came to Canada with his parents from California in 1965. He said he hasn't decided what to do about the committee's decision, except to try again next year.

They hope to raise $6,000 towards maintenance of their property at the foot of Robert Street and provision of equipment, facilities and uniforms.

OBJECTIVE: $10,000 FOR INDIAN STUDENTS' EXPO TRIP

After a Crash of Cash, Cymbals to Clang

The tinkle of money sounded sweeter than all the music in the world to Kuper Island fife and drum band today.

The tinkle was in the key of E (for Expo) and meant probable fulfillment of a dream for the Indian schoolchildren.

All being well, it signals the end of an "on again—off again" trip to Montreal's World's Fair for the band members at the Indian residential school east of Chemainus.

The trip of a lifetime was called off more than a month ago when official agencies said they had no funds to sponsor the 40-strong band.

Originally the school believed the Indian Arts and Welfare Society of Victoria was going to sponsor the trip. But the society said there had been a mix-up and no funds were available.

But today Mayor Hugh Stephen of Victoria personally chipped in $100 to open a fund drive to cover the children's costs.

●

At a ceremony in S. J. Willis junior high school, the mayor told the 1,000 pupils:

"This trip means more to these kids than anything else ever will.

"If this money is to be collected the main effort must come from Victoria."

Student council president Peter George handed over a $50 cheque on behalf of the school and said they would try to get other schools interested.

The Times also donated a cheque for $200 and agreed to back the drive with publicity on how collections are going.

S. J. Willis principal Horace Dawson said he would handle funds from the schools' point of view, in addition to canvassing local businesses.

Banker Tom McMaster agreed to act as custodian.

Nearly $10,000 is needed to charter a plane and pay for the children's keep while they are in Montreal.

They have been invited along with other residential school bands to play at the Fair at the beginning of July.

Aged between nine and 16, the youngsters will for the first time be playing to an international audience.

They have become well known in Victoria by playing in the Victoria Day parade in recent years.

●

The federal government, which finances the 77-year-old Roman Catholic school, may help out to the tune of $2,000.

It is also hoped some of the larger logging companies will boost funds.

Donations chould be sent to "Trip of a Lifetime Fund," c/o Bank of Nova Scotia, Douglas and Yates, or handed in at The Times.

Bail Trebled In Shooting

Bail was ordered tripled today for Frank Joseph Bedry who faces two charges of attempted murder.

Bail for the accused, also known as Frank Joseph Layton, was set at $5,000, but the Crown asked for bail to be increased to $17,000.

Magistrate William Ostler, setting bail at $15,000 in two sureties, commented that when the original application for bail was made he felt the amount was "too reasonable".

Bedry was charged following two shooting incidents, May 4, in which Mrs. Molly Robertson, 911 McNaughton and Constable Harry Hoshal, city policeman, were injured.

Short-Circuit Sparks Alarm At Playhouse

A short-circuit in backstage electrical equipment at the McPherson Playhouse touched off a major fire alarm in Victoria this morning.

Work crews from the B.C. District Telegraphs, working in the theatre, smelled smoke from a smouldering console and promptly threw the main switch cutting off power.

The Victoria fire department found everything under control when it arrived at the scene minutes after the alarm was sounded.

"It could have been serious," said Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

Young People In Court Room Pleases Ostler

By TED GASKELL

Magistrates usually express concern over young people appearing before them, but Magistrate William Ostler today expressed pleasure because so many were in his court.

These young people weren't accused of anything unless trying to be better-informed is a crime.

They were there as part of the law and general business classwork at Esquimalt High School under teacher Tillman Briggs.

The group of 46 students sat through the morning's proceedings and heard a variety of cases.

An application for an increase in bail in connection with two attempted murder charges was presented.

They learned that people are not always sentenced out of hand even when a guilty plea is entered, but there's such a thing as a pre-sentence report from probation officers or psychiatrists.

DRINKING LESSON

They had a lesson about alcohol when a 19-year-old youth was fined $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor and another minor was fined $15 for being drunk.

They saw a lawyer in action pleading earnestly but unsuccessfully for the acquittal of a shoplifter.

They saw that the law considers many fine points when the lawyer argued, for example, that the Crown should have named the store commonly known as The Bay by its official title, The Company of Gentlemen Adventurers Trading Into Hudson's Bay.

And they heard the magistrate rule that the name generally used was sufficient description of the store.

VALUABLE VISIT

Mr. Briggs, who takes two or three classes a year to the courts, says his course is mainly concerned with the law in relation to general business but he feels that the court visit is valuable to the young people.

And so does Magistrate Ostler.

"I like to see young citizens take an interest in the law," he said. "I notice with pleasure that the numbers are increasing. If they see actual cases they can see what safeguards there are in law for an accused person when they observe cases conducted in an impartial manner. They get a respect for the law.

"Exposure to court under these conditions (class visits) are very advantageous and it may be that they never be exposed to courts under less fortunate conditions. These vists are a good idea," Magistrate Ostler said.

Tax-Levying Role Hinted in Speech

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn today bitterly attacked a broad hint by Education Minister Leslie Peterson that the government will require school boards to levy their own taxes in future.

Mr. Bunn said the suggestion was obscene" because it would turn education into a "permanent political football" and angrily demanded that provincial income taxes be used to finance schools instead of property taxes however levied.

Mr. Peterson dropped his bombshell in a speech Tuesday night to the school board officials who would have the administrative headache of taking over tax collection duties now carried out as an extra chore of municipal councils by compulsory legislation.

He was addressing the annual conference of the B.C. School District Secretary-Treasurers' Association, in North Vancouver, at which — in a prepared text released here in advance—he scathingly criticized school boards for "unecessarily increasing local taxation.

UNFAIR

Mr. Peterson complained that a wave of province-wide protests over heavy increases everywhere in school taxes this year had unfairly made the provincial government a "whipping boy" when the basic fault lay with big-spending school boards, some of which have boosted certain expenditures by as much as 270 per cent.

Then he dropped his hint—the second made this month — that the cabinet plans to respond to the criticism by changing the law next session so that school boards would levy their own taxes separately.

"The principle of municipal councils having some authority under the Public Schools Act in respect to school district budgets has had little effect on education costs," the speech observed.

"I am hopeful that we may be able to find other means of ensuring that the level of government responsible for the expenditure is answerable more directly to the taxpayer."

'OTHER MEANS'

His warning of "other means" for making school boards more directly answerable to ratepayers follows by a couple of weeks Premier Bennett's suggested solution for identifying the cause of higher school taxes — separate tax notices for municipal purposes and school purposes.

Mr. Bennett urged Vancouver City Council to use its modern bookkeeping system this year in an experiment to demonstrate that separate tax bills can be issued without much increase in administrative cost and to get the public used to the idea. Vancouver is studying the suggestion.

Mr. Bunn said education finance is totally a provincial responsibility and suggested the government is trying to dodge it by sticking school boards with the unpalatable job of raising money now that municipal councils appear to be in revolt.

"I think making education an almost permanent political football is almost obscene," he snapped.

"I would suggest education should be above all this petty politics and its cost should not be placed on property but be met by provincial income taxes.

"It is entirely wrong for an old age pensioner, who has worked all his life to pay for a home, to have to still pay for the cost of education out of his fixed income.

"A man should not be taxed on the kind of house he lives in to pay for education, he should be taxed only according to his ability to pay."

Anticipating this kind of reaction, Mr. Peterson's speech concluded:

"The fact is that the province is now spending on education all of the revenue that is derived from personal and corporation taxes and succession duties as well.

"The estimates for this year show we are receiving for corporation tax $55 million, personal income tax $123 million, and succession duties $15.5 million.

"The department of education spends the total amount of this revenue."

PAYING GRANTS

"In addition," Mr. Peterson added, "we are paying some $42 million in home-owners' grants to help people pay the school taxation on their homes so that we are in effect spending $42 million more on education that we are collecting on income tax, corporation tax and succession duties."

He said the only way of meeting higher school costs is to squeeze a larger share of income taxes out of the federal government or "tighten our belts."

He concluded that school boards could cut down their expenses "and I know that it can be done in such a way that public school education will not suffer."

SIMPLE

But Mr. Bunn pointed out that if the province already uses its income and succession tax revenues for education then it would be a relatively simple matter to allocate them specifically for that purpose and eliminate school taxes on property.

"Let's have some straightforward bookeeping and let's have a full-time minister of education," he said.

"If they are spending all this money, and I don't doubt that they do, on education then it's an insult to education to have a part-time minister."

He said if the province assumed directly the costs of education then municipalities and school boards would be spared their yearly divisive battles over both budgets "and grant — this ever-enlarging sucker by which ratepayers are bribed with their own money."

BEAVER LAKE SAANICH SITE FOR FESTIVITY

Saanich will stage Victoria Day festivities this Monday at Beaver Lake.

The program, lasting nearly three hours, begins at 2 p.m. with serious and comic displays of rowing by the Claremont High School rowing team.

Other attractions are the Red Lion drill team, the Mount View High School band, the YM-YWCA gymnastic teams, square dancers and the Saanich police with the police dogs.

The events are sponsored by the Saanich Centennial Committee in conjunction with the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Sidney Cadet Wins Trophy

A Victoria-area youth, Officer Cadet Mark Duncan, has been awarded one of the top athletic trophies at the Royal Military College of Canada at Kingston, Ont.

Mark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Duncan, of Sidney, received the Marshal Cup, awarded to the most sportsmanlike cadet of the third year, at the annual RMC athletic awards night.

Mark attended le College Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean, Quebec, prior to going to RMC. At both colleges he has excelled in athletics, representing each college in track and field, harriers, football and basketball. He has also been an active participant in volleyball, gymnastics, soccer and swimming.

A mechanical engineering student, Mark will graduate in 1968 with a bachelor of engineering degree and a commission as a lieutenant in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Ask The Times

Q. What area of Vancouver Island does the CPR have mineral and oil rights to? What would be the position of a landowner who found minerals on his property? Is there an assay office in Victoria? A.P.

A. The E and N Railway, now owned by the CPR, was given a land grant which covers an area equal to about one-third of Vancouver Island. The boundary is from Campbell River to Strathcona Park; down a line from the east side of the park to Milne's Landing and across Finlayson Arm. The company was given all mineral and oil rights except for precious metals, gold and silver, and coal, which were retained by the government, a department of mines official said. A claim would have to be staked for gold or silver. Discovery of other metals or oil would mean negotiations with the CPR unless the rights have been sold along with the property. There is a government assay office on Superior Street.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Item Adds Spice To Summer Cook-Outs

By Penny Saver

For years my neighbor has been hoping for a backyard barbecue. Last summer she bought the man of the house half a garage worth of bricks, a do-it-yourself kit on cement-mixing, and waited. Only last weekend she was thrilled to notice her paragon dusting off his copy of "Cement Mixing Made Easy," muttering about bricks. Sure enough, the bricks have gone from her garage, and her husband is a master at cement-mixing now. Today my neighbor and I were chatting and she pointed to her back-yard beauty.

"Do you like it?" she asked.

"Ummm," I said, enviously dreaming of barbecued steaks.

"It is nice, isn't it," she sighed wistfully. "It's the best incinerator in town!"

If you're luckier than my neighbor, and have actually managed to build a barbecue in your garden, you'll like the find I made on a recent shopping trip . . . a barbecue spice cupboard. This handy little item holds six glass jars of spices, and has two drawers for your favorite herbs. It's sure to be a great time-saver for the family cook.

If you wish, you can fasten this cupboard to the wall, or, because it is small and easy to carry, take it out to the barbecue pit. It is attractively hand-carved from a light-brown hardwood that will blend with every kitchen decor.

The people who manufactured this dandy item, know how to appeal to the "barbecue nut". This cupboard is chock-a-block full of mouth-watering goodies to spice up those barbecue steaks and burgers. It contains steak spice, garlic salt, flavor salt, hickory smoke salt, rotisserie dressing and black pepper. Charcoal grilled foods are a warm-weather "must", and you'll have a regular fan club if you cook them with these savory goodies.

The cupboard, complete with spices, is priced at $4.66.

If you'd like to know where I shopped for my "barbecue beefer up," give me a call at 382-3131.

(Incidentally, my neighbor had a new load of bricks delivered to her garage this morning. Her better half, she tells me, is reading up on do-it-yourself chimneys, but she's still hoping.)

Birthday Bazaar and Tea Raises $500 for League

More than $500 was realized from the birthday tea and bazaar of the Cats' Protection League, Saturday.

Cutting the special cake which marked the 13th anniversary of the league was Mrs. T. Shea. A long-time league member, Mrs. Shea was also celebrating her birthday that day. She was introduced by president Mrs. I. Woods.

The birthday cakes were made by Miss Jessie Knight and decorated by the Misses Jane and Phillippa De Cou. In charge of serving the cakes was Miss Frieda Thirkell.

Dainty nosegays of bluebells and lilac centred the guests' tables. Serviteurs were Mrs. B. Unicume, Mrs. N. De Cou and Miss E. Gauntlett. In charge of the kitchen and refreshments were Mrs. M. Marshall, Mrs. B. Perkins, Mrs. H. Maurice and Mrs. F. Baynton.

Other conveners included Miss Knight and Miss Anita Bossi, membership; Mrs. D. Knaus and Mrs. G. Major, home cooking; Mrs. E. Sproxton, Mrs. R. Elrose and Mrs. G. Farmer, aprons; Mrs. L. Thompson and Mrs. N. Hodgson, superfluities; Mrs. E. Connell and Mrs. E. Griswold, books and plants; Mrs. E. Graham and Miss Olga Bossi, raffle.

Mrs. A. Lee and T. Tremills greeted the guests.

Of interest in Victoria is the announcement that Miss Lorna Doreen Syrett has graduated as a licensed practical nurse from the Vancouver Vocational Institute. Miss Syrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Syrett of North Burnaby and formerly of Victoria, is a 1965 graduate of Victoria Senior Secondary School.

Proceeds of $140

The sum of $140 was realized when the Esquimalt Chapter IODE held a successful coffee party in The Bay's Douglas Room. Presiding at the head table were Mrs. J. A. Charles, Mrs. M. G. Stirling, Mrs. C. J. Baird and Miss Christine MacNab.

Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rowell—To Hold Two Receptions This Thursday

WED 50 YEARS

'Red Letter' Day Thursday For Dr. and Mrs. Rowell

A well-known Baptist church minister and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rowell, 1150 Rockland Avenue, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday by receiving their friends from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and [illegible] to 9 p.m. in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Eno at 350 Foul Bay Road.

The couple was married on April 26, 1917 in England, coming to Canada soon after the wedding day. Due to preaching engagements, Dr. and Mrs. Rowell were away from Victoria on their golden wedding day.

At that time, Dr. Rowell was preaching in Toronto and was entertained on the anniversary day by friends in Sarnia, Ont., where Rev. R. D. Holmes, former pastor of Central Baptist Church, is now pastoring. Mrs. Rowell was feted by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rowell and their friends at a gathering in North Vancouver.

The Rowells also have another daughter, Mrs. J. Moffat of this city; three grandsons and two granddaughters.

The Rowells came to Victoria in 1927 after Dr. Rowell had served in churches in eastern Canada, Prince Rupert, Vernon and Kamloops. On his arrival, Dr. Rowell founded the Central Baptist Church. He was pastor of the church for 31 years and is now pastor emeritus.

Since Dr. Rowell's retirement, he and his wife have travelled extensively in England and the Holy Land, preaching there and in many parts of Canada and the United States. Dr. Rowell has recently returned from the interior of the province where he was speaker at a pastors' conference.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hair Grooming Problems

Lowman

1. I should not brush my hair since it is oily and that just seems to make it oilier.

Fallacy. Brushing simply distributes the oil over the hair but the gentle stimulation it provides may help normalize the little oil glands in the scalp.

2. Certain foods have a direct effect on the hair.

Fallacy. There are no special foods which will give you beautiful hair or prevent baldness. However, of course, diet does play a part in hair health just as it does in the rest of the body. Severe nutritional deficiencies can lead to dull, dry, lifeless hair and may even cause some hair loss.

It has never been satisfactorily demonstrated that any one vitamin can greatly influence the condition of the hair. At one time the vitamin B complex was thought to be of some health. Be sure that your diet contains all the essentials for top physical condition.

3. Severe and prolonged emotional strain can cause loss of hair.

True. However, this loss is temporary. The hair will grow back when the strain is relieved.

4. Washing the hair too often will cause baldness.

Fallacy. Washing the hair frequently will not cause baldness or thinning hair. Wash it as often as necessary to keep it in good condition. If your hair is very oily, you will have to shampoo it more often. However, remember that washing the hair removes the natural oils from the scalp. Therefore, excessive shampooing may cause the hair to become dryer and more brittle and even break off. The woman who has a dry scalp and dry hair should wash her hair much less often.

5. Brush rollers are bad for the hair.

Many specialists disapprove of these. The brushes are rough and may pull some hairs out or break others off. They may irritate the scalp. Also procedures which pull on the hair, such as the pony tail hair style, are suspect.

6. Scalp massage can make the hair grow longer.

Fallacy, so far as I know. Scalp massage is valuable to hair health and therefore, hair beauty, because it increases the circulation in the scalp. However, I doubt that it can make the hair grow longer.

The threat of losing her crowning glory frightens any woman. If your hair is thinning you may want my booklet "Is Your Hair Thinning?". If so, send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Fete Raises $300

Gay centennial flags on guests' tables and pictures and posters of Canada festooning the walls of St. Saviour's Anglican Church hall, set the theme of the church's "Confederation Fete." The sum realized from the event, convened by Mrs. R. Marsh and Mrs. J. Bottomley, was $300.

The serviteurs entered into the spirit of the afternoon by wearing rosettes of red, white and blue ribbon.

In charge of the various stalls were Mrs. M. Brown, home baking; Mr. and Mrs. T. Wilson, delicatessen; Mrs. J. Wight, white elephants, and Mrs. M. Crocker, fancywork and novelties.

T. Evans managed the fish pond and convening the cake walk were K. Fernstrom and Terry Chester. Treasurer was Mrs. B. Gorsline.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Dear Emily Wilkens:

Constant Circles

I have constant dark circles under my eyes. How can I get rid of them?

Patti G.

Remember those all important eight hours or more of sleep every single night! Unfortunately, many cases of ever-present circles under the eyes are inherited.

You may, however, camouflage dark circles with one of the effective cover-up products available. It should be a shade or so lighter than that of your base, light-textured and soft so that it won't damage the delicate skin around the eyes. Apply gently, then blot. Smooth on regular base if necessary.

Danger Zone

I'm always picking at the skin on my lips. I'd be very grateful to learn of a cure, as I've heard this habit can be dangerous.

Catherine H.

If you keep lipstick, lip gloss or petroleum jelly on your lips during the day, and camphor ice on at night, you'll think twice about messing up either your fingers or lips.

Chemistry Counts

I have a fairly good complexion and would like to play it up. No matter which brand of base I start with, however, it seems to grow several shades darker as the day wears on. Any hints?

Louella M.

Individual body chemistry can cause products to change color. Try using a completely colorless foundation first (just off-white). After blotting, apply your usual skin-tone shade. This process should keep your base from turning, and will make your complexion look clearer to boot.

Scoop Away

I understand it's harmful to get makeup and cream underneath the nails. How can one get at the contents of jars, tubes and so forth, without using the fingers?

Incidentally, I'm all thumbs when it comes to putting on makeup. It always gets all over my hands and nails.

Mary M.

Tongue depressors (the kind doctors use to peer down your throat), available in drug stores, are marvelous for scooping up various creams. Or you may simply remove the cotton from the end of a swab stick and use the stick for digging into jars. When applying makeup (or cream), always use your fingertips, not your nails.

Longhair

I'm letting my hair grow and hate the idea of cutting it even the least little bit, as it grows very slowly. Lately the ends of my hair, however, have become very frizzy. My friend says they're split and must be trimmed. Must they?

Joyce M.

I'm afraid they must. Trimming away the damaged ends will keep hair healthier (and make it behave better, too). A once-a-month tiny trim, even when letting hair grow long, is a good idea.

To prevent frizz, use end papers when you set your hair. Cream hairdressing, conditioning treatments and gentle brushing help keep split ends at a minimum.

Double Line

My lashes are very sparse, and I don't like false lashes or wearing tons of mascara. Is there another way to make lashes look extra thick?

Ellen R.

Use a dark, soft, pencil-type eyeliner or soft brow pencil to edge color well into the roots of the lashes. Then, with your favorite liquid, pencil or cake liner, make a second line across the lid from inner to outer corner, close to the base of the lashes and just above the first line. The double line, skillfully done, will give your lashes the extra-thick look you desire.

PRESENTATIONS MADE . . . . . . BY ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

Long-Service Personnel Honored at Dinner

The Teak Room of St. Joseph's Hospital was the setting, Friday evening, for the hospital's first annual long-service dinner. Hosting the affair, which was attended by 60 staff members, their husbands and wives, were the Sisters of St. Ann and the hospital's board of management.

Corsages and boutonnieres were presented to the guests.

The invocation was given by Fred E. Norris, chairman of the board. Mayor Hugh Stephen was guest speaker.

Proposing the toast to the personnel to be honored was Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale, a member of the board.

Service recognition pins were presented by Sister Mary Lucita, administrator. John Rice, linen service supervisor, received a 25-year pin. He will complete 26 years of service to the hospital this year. There were 57 employees receiving pins for 15 or more years of service.

Special recognition was given to Mike Kelpin, construction co-ordinator, for 29 years of service and to Mrs. Mary Tait, head nurse, 3C Orthopedics, 30 years. Both were presented with 25-year pins at the annual meeting in 1964.

The Margaret Flanagan Memorial Award, given annually to the hospital employee who has shown outstanding qualities of kindness, sympathy and compassion, was awarded to Miss Gwen Rossiter, nurses' aide.

A special presentation was made to Sister Mary Gregory, medical librarian, for her 52 years of service at the hospital. She was director of the school of nursing from 1926 to 1949.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Plastic Surgeon Can Square It

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and a divorcee. I have a good figure and spend a lot of time at the beach in the summer. Last year I wore a bikini for the first time and got lots of compliments on it, but it also gave me a complex because several people asked me what was wrong with my navel.

I never paid much attention to navels before — mine or anybody else's, but now I am very self conscious about mine. You see, it's not round like other people's, it's more "square." And it doesn't go "in" like a dimple—it pops out! I keep a dime stuck in it to make it look "round" and to keep it from popping out.

Is there anything I can do about getting it fixed at my age? I'd like to have a navel I wouldn't have to be ashamed of.

FUNNY NAVEL

DEAR FUNNY: Take the dime out of your navel and call a plastic surgeon. He'll round out a solution in no time.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think me a snobby teen-ager, but I don't know what to do. My birthday is coming up and I am throwing a party at home.

There is a girl (I'll call her Doris) — used to go around with and we were real buddy-buddy, but I don't think she'd fit in with my new friends. Her hair is shaped so she doesn't have to bother with it and she's not very clothes conscious. It's not because of her parents' income because she could have lots more clothes if she wanted to.

My problem is whether to invite her to my party. If I don't and she finds out about it, she may be hurt. If I do, hardly any of my friends would feel comfortable, and Doris may get the impression that she is being snubbed. My friends aren't really snobs, Abby, but they wouldn't be able to talk freely with Doris there.

I'm not afraid of being criticized or laughed at for knowing someone like Doris, I am only thinking of her feelings. Sign me . . .

"UNDECIDED"

DEAR UNDECIDED: Your description of "Doris" covered only hair and her clothes. What can you say about her that is really important? Is she kind? Friendly? Intelligent? Honest? You did say she "could have lots more clothes if she wanted to," which I think shows maturity and unselfishness. If your "new" friends wouldn't be comfortable, with Doris around, that's their problem. If Doris is "snubbed" that will be her problem. I say, invite her. She may surprise you and refuse. Doris sounds like the kind of girl who may not have time for you and your crowd.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding a recent article in your column in which a woman was confused as to what to do about a "gift" for a clergyman who had rendered her a service:

As a Baptist minister, I have something to say about this matter. After a wedding or funeral if I am asked, "How much do I owe you?" I invariable reply, "Nothing. My life is a ministry, not a job." Many clergymen do not receive adequate monetary compensation for the services they perform, but they would rather do without the money than put a price on it.

If people wish to compensate a clergyman, let them do it with dignity by placing the money in an envelope, and handing it to him with a soft "thank you." (The amount depends upon how much the person can afford and how much he wishes to give. I have yet to hear a clergyman complain about the amount of a gift.) Only one who is seeking the cheap way out will ask a clergyman, "How much do I owe you?"

There is always the danger that after years of indigestion from swallowing his pride, one clergyman will have the gumption to set an hourly rate for "services rendered" and will answer these people accordingly.

OHIO MINISTER

To Beautify Your Complexion

For sheer loveliness in complexion beauty there is one simple but important rule to follow. First you must remember that all the time moisture is evaporating from your surface skin and every time you wash you drain off valuable skin oils. The result is a gradual tendency for the skin to develop dry wrinkles. This loss of skin oil and moisture is so easy to stop. Ask your druggist for a little oil of Olay and every day and all day see that your complexion is well protected with a film of this tropical oil. It will check further wrinkles and do much to smooth away past damage. Don't forget the same plan to keep your neck and hands lovely as well.

. . . Margaret Merril.

ART FRAUD?

NEW YORK (AP) — Picasso returned the photograph of a painting attributed to him with the word "faux" scrawled across its face, indicating a forgery.

The identification was one of a number of bits of information that led to the indictment here Tuesday of a Park Avenue art dealer on charges of counterfeiting and fraud in the sale of $166,800 worth of paintings.

David Stein, 32-year-old British subject who came here from Canada in 1965, allegedly sold seven fake Picassos, 33 Chagalls and one Matisse to 12 art dealers and collectors here and in Palm Beach, Fla.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said Stein first tried his hand at drawing in the Picasso style in 1961. "To his surprise and delight,' the district attorney said, 'he sold it to a gallery in Paris. Three years later he tried two gouaches, signed Chagall, which he sold to a London gallery for $4,000 each."

The investigation was touched off when a dealer Stein had sold six paintings to for $26,000 became suspicious and went to the district attorney's office.

An investigation was begun in which both Chagall and Picasso co-operated. The authorities sent photographs of the paintings attributed to Picasso to the artist in France.

"Across he face of the photos," Hogan said, "Picasso would write the French word 'vari' for true and sign his name. If fraudulent, he wrote 'faux' for false. Picasso confirmed that a number were fraudulent."

Stein was arraigned and held on $7,500 bail. He is married and has two children.

Kelowna Threatened With Holiday Boycott

KELOWNA (CP)—An official of the International Woodworkers of America said Monday trade unionists throughout B.C. could be asked to boycott this vacation area in the Okanagan Valley as a result of a wage contract dispute between the city and its electrical workers.

S. A. Muir told Kelowna city council the B.C. Federation of Labor might be asked to write its members in an attempt to keep them out of Kelowna.

He said such a request would not be necessary if the city council would "get off its hands" and offer to meet the electrical workers.

Thousands of Happy Children Snarl Expo's $18 Million Transport System

MONTREAL (CP)—A horde of shrieking school children snarled up Expo 67's $18,000,000 transport system Tuesday and officials are guarding against a repeat performance today as Montreal celebrates its 325th birthday with its special day at the fair.

Public relations officials said 20,000 children from Ontario and Quebec points arrived at Place d'Accueil a little later then usual. They combined with 7,000 early fair-goers to swamp the loading platforms.

At 10 a.m., a half-hour after opening, 27,000 had passed through the turnstiles and security men on Expo Express stations were struggling to keep platform crowds at manageable proportions as more visitors came through the gates.

Confusion at the four express stops slowed the trains until the entire system backed up and became inoperable although there was no mechanical breakdown.

Eventually, the system started moving again and when similar crowds, now homebound at 5 p.m., threatened to repeat the snarl - up, security men held them back, allowing only enough on loading platforms to fill a single train.

While no civic holiday was declared for Montreal's special day, it was expected that many of the 1,216,205 residents of the city proper and the 1,202,729 in its suburbs would come to see the city's flag raised in Place des Nations. The flag is white with a red cross, with the fleur-de-lys, rose, thistle and shamrock, denoting the origin of the citizens.

The program calls for Mayor Jean Drapeau, the diminutive dynamo who battled huge odds to bring the fair to his city, to take the stand of honor as have an emperor, a prince and prime ministers and presidents on six national days since the fair opened 19 days ago.

Tuesday was Czechoslovakia's special day with 63 - year - old President Antonín Novotny on the stand of honor as his country's flag was raised. The Place des Nations crowd included 1,000 who had come to see the ceremony plus Czech folk-dancers and an 85-member Czechoslovak army brass band.

Meanwhile, Expo officials occupied themselves with crowd-handling. One team of researchers made the rounds asking visitors where they came from and what they liked and disliked at Expo. Another team was studying how to improve Expo's ability to handle crowds up to 800,000 a day.

Record crowd so far was the 569,500 who came Sunday, April 30, but Expo officials said a few days ago they are gearing themselves to handle crowds of 600,000 on a daily basis after school closes in June.

AID FOR EVERY FACET OF LIFE

$85 Million Development Plan to Shore Up Sagging Manitoba Economy

ARBORG, Man. (CP) A 10-year program to shore up the sagging economy of the interlake area of Manitoba with $85,000,000 of federal and provincial funds was initiated here Tuesday.

Designed to provide aid for almost every facet of life, the program is the largest regional development plan ever undertaken in Western Canada and may be the format for similar projects in other areas.

Terms and scope of the undertaking were set out in an agreement signed in this farming community, 80 miles north of Winnipeg, by Premier Duff Roblin and Forestry Minister Sauve.

It calls for extending the arable land, turning unproductive land into recreational areas, improving the road network through the region, aiding fishermen to improve their techniques and sell their catches, attracting industry to the area and providing educational opportunities to both children and adults.

"Never before has such a massive program of regional development been undertaken in Manitoba or Western Canada," said Mr. Roblin in addressing the 500 interlake residents witnessing the signing.

The agreement was the third federal - provincial pact undertaken under the terms of the $300,000,000 federal fund for rural economic development. The largest — $95,000,000 — is under way in northern New Brunswick.

Mr. Sauve, who said the experience gained in the initial programs could be useful in planning others, said similar projects are planned for eastern Quebec, eastern Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

"The program is not yet a year old and it remains to be seen how far it can go in solving the hardcore rural problems.

"This is a new and adventurous course that we have embarked on together."

Journey For Two Popular

Two Victoria school teachers are reaching their busiest time of the year and it has nothing to do with exams or report cards.

Anthony Burton, of Oaklands, and David Allan, of Claremont, are co-authors and producers of Journey for Two, a historical play which is the Centennial project of the District 61 elementary schools.

The play is sponsored by the Greater Victoria School Board and was commissioned by the department of education. At least 35 other districts have taken the script for production this year.

The authors describe Journey for Two as a sort of "time tunnel" in which two students, made to stay after school to write an essay, move back and forth through the years of Canadian history, and see the development of the country.

The play will be presented at Oak Bay High School, June 6-10, with tickets available at all elementary schools.

About 300 elementary school students will appear in the play along with dancers, choirs and choral speech groups.

'GOOD, ENTERTAINING SHOW'

Annie's 21 and Full of Vitality

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Annie Get Your Gun
Lyrics and Music by Irving Berlin

Little Boy	Tony Elsdon
Charlie Davenport	Barry Grimshaw
Mac	Ray Middleton
Mr. Wilson	Archie Bain
Dolly Tait	Janet Englefield
Winnie Tate	Pamela Trueman
Tommy Keeler	William Bill
Frank Butler	Harry Elsdon
Annie Oakley	Janet Senior
Minnie	Elly Konings
Jessie	Robin Porteous
Nellie	Kitty Porteous
Little Jake	Wyck Porteous
Buffalo Bill	Bill Nesbitt
Pawnee Bill	Bert Shirley
Sitting Bull	William Broadhead
Sylvia Potter Porter	Dorothy Congdon

Big, brash, colorful, pulsing with rhythmic infectious tunes, spiced with romance, wildly animated — that's Annie as the show was conceived and burst upon the New York stage exactly 21 years ago.

Tuesday night it came of age on the McPherson stage without showing any signs of wear. The Victoria Operatic Society production provides a reasonable approximation of many of the above-mentioned qualities.

VITALITY SUSTAINED

Within the context of local stage facilities and available talent and materials, it is big and colorful and with Howard Denike's brisk, musicianly conducting of the pit orchestra, the pulse and vitality of the music is well sustained.

Mr. Denike maintains an excellent balance between orchestra and singers throughout and has, in collaboration with stage director Cliff Clarke and assistants Gwen Glew and June Elsdon, produced a chorus that sings well and moves and acts with spirit.

All the delightful musical numbers are shared between Annie and Frank; The Girl That I Marry, They Say It's Wonderful, You Can't Get a Man With a Gun, among others.

Mrs. Senior, at first seemed not quite in the part, a little self-conscious. But she improved rapidly, her marked gift of comedy took over and she became complete mistress of her scenes, particularly triumphing in I'm An Indian Too and Anything You Can Do.

CONVINCING

Mr. Elsdon's fine voice and personality made the role of Frank Butler — a wild west matinee idol — enjoyably convincing. Possibly he might have swaggered with just a bit more flamboyance but that is a minor criticism.

Teamwork between the two principals is excellent and they do much to keep the balloon in the air.

Unfortunately weakness in the supporting cast allows it to sag to earth at intervals throughout the show, affecting the pace generally.

STAND-OUT

On the other hand there are one or two notable strengths among the supporting players, William Broadhead is a stand-out as Sitting Bull and the children — the Porteous family, Elly Konings and Tony Elsdon — are captivating and right in the picture.

Special dance sequences by Wynne Shaw and particularly solos by Paul Blakey, are highlights of the production.

Sets by Frank Brawn and Reg Bullock and gay costumes contribute to a generally good, entertaining show that is a credit to stage director Cliff Clarke and which only needs tightening and speeding up to be one of the best seen on the McPherson stage since the theatre's opening.

SEXES SPLIT FOR ULYSSES

WELLINGTON (CP) — Men and women are seeing the film version of James Joyce's Ulysses in separate theatres in New Zealand. The censor has passed the film for showing to people 18 and over, but on condition that audiences are segregated by sex. For the first time in New Zealand the film will be shown simultaneously to segregated audiences in the main towns.

WOJECK FILM, ACTOR WIN AWARDS

TORONTO (CP) — The Last Man in the World, the first instalment of the CBC-TV Wojeck series, Monday was awarded the fourth annual Wilderness Award for the best film made for CBC television during the last season.

The Wilderness best actor award went to Johnny Yesno, an Ojibwwa Indian from Fort Hope, Ont., who made his acting debut in the one-hour Wojeck drama.

Ron Kelly, director of the film, is a Vancouver native. Phillip Hersch, author of the series, was born in Toronto.

In the award-winning episode, Yesno, 29, who lives in Montreal, portrayed a Cree youth who moved from his reservation to a city where he found hostility and loneliness and eventually hanged himself in a jail cell.

Painting Earns Silver Salver

An inscribed silver salver was presented by the Saanich Peninsula Art Centre to Patricia Luchinsky, 1668 Lansdowne, for her painting entitled "The Ghost House."

The artist's picture won the prize in the Historic Landmark contest sponsored by the Art Centre. It depicts John Tod's residence on Heron Street in Oak Bay.

Tod was a Hudson Bay factor.

The painting is on view, along with others, at an exhibition in the T. Eaton dining room art gallery on the fourth floor of the store.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Bea Gale Schenken has won many women's and mixed events. Her best open result occurred this winter when the death of Peter Leventritt's mother left Howard Schenken with no partner for the board-a-match team of four. She took the place and finised third to two all male teams.

Opening lead—♠ J

Bea is the one author of "Bridge for Women" who prefers rubber bridge to tournament play. Bea is only the second best bridge player in her family. Her husband Howard has won everything that isn't nailed down and has been one of the greatest players in the world for 35 years.

Bea points out that if she had been looking at all the cards she could have wrapped up her contract by going up with dummy's ace of spades at trick one, but she made the normal play of the deuce. East took his king and made the brilliant return of the eight of clubs. Bea ducked. West won with the jack and returned a club to East's ten. Bea ducked again but won the third club lead. Then she paused to take stock. The simple way to play the hand would be to go after diamonds. The finesse would lose and East would win a fifth defensive trick with his last club.

Bea decided that East looked too happy not to be holding the king of diamonds and made the hand with an unusual end play. She just cashed the good hearts and spades and threw East in with his last club.

East was down to three diamonds. A low diamond lead would allow Bea to win with her jack and make the last two tricks with her fifth club and dummy's ace of diamonds lead would be equally hopeless.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Every day we're brought closer to the realization that the world, through advances in science and technology, is getting smaller.

The latest to prove the point was CBS-TV's Town Meeting of the World.

Stephen

Using the Early Bird Satellite, students in London, England, asked questions of Senator Robert F. Kennedy in Syracuse, N.Y., and Governor Ronald Reagan in Sacramento, Calif. The fact that both of there men's names have been mentioned as possible presidential nominees made the program much more interesting.

The questions surrounded American participation in the Vietnam war, its past mistakes as recorded by history, and the racial problems within its boundaries, all headline makers.

We could use such programs on a more frequent basis if only to assimilate the ideas of those in other world areas.

It could even lead to better world understanding.

That half-hour CBS-TV special about the "Hippie" world destined for airing last night, was put off, preempted by a broadcast about American marines in Vietnam.

The CBC has had its night on Swedish television.

From 6:30 to 11 p m. the Canadian Evening carried programs produced by the CBC and the National Film Board, as well as one about Canada produced by the Swedish Broadcasting Corporation.

The Swedish viewer was subjected to the likes of Take Thirty, an episode from Wojeck, a recording of the opening of Expo 67, and even a Wayne and Shuster Hour.

Frank McGee, who already has a half-hour news report each Sunday, will take over another one each Saturday evening starting this upcoming weekend.

Barbra Streisand, whose CBS-TV special next season will attempt to re-create the golden age of vaudeville at the turn of the century, had added song-and-dance man John Bubbles to the cast, in addition to the previously announced Jason Robards.

DON'T PAY NO ATTENTION TO WHAT McALPINE SAYS.
THIS AIN'T NO SHACK

It was this man McAlpine, see ? Called me in and said, "I want you to sell a shack near Mill Bay, that is owned by my sister-in-law." This was all very embarassing on account of McAlpine's sister-in-law being there, and she didn't like this one bit. She is proud of her home, and rightly so. After all, didn't she have it CUSTOM-BUILT only TWO YEARS AGO — a replica of her apartment in Calgary. Smart bed-sitting room with Oak floor and lots of closet space, compact electric kitchen, modern Pembroke bath and enclosed patio. HALF ACRE LOT! Ideal for summer retreat or good permanent home for one person or couple. Quiet country atmosphere half mile from shops and bus. Clear title. ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Glynda Lee Smith, age 12, of Ponca City, Oklahoma, for her question:

What is meant by the structure of the atom?

The logical thinkers of Greece reasoned that the atom is the smallest possible piece of matter and that the atom cannot be divided into anything smaller than itself. This idea prevailed for centuries, right up to the Age of Science. Then the atom was found to be a unit of still smaller particles of matter. What's more, as atomic particles were discovered one by one, the atom was found to be a very orderly unit of matter. When we refer to the structure of the atom, we mean the orderly fashion in which it is built, the neat way in which its assorted particles are arranged and held together.

Scientists have identified more than a hundred different atoms, each one a different size and having a different number of basic particles. But all atoms are constructed along the same lines. The basic structure of the atom can be depended upon in all cases. This structure has been compared to a miniature solar system. Its sun is a central nucleus, a tight fist of assorted particles. Its orbiting planets are speeding electrons. The various atomic particles are infinitesimal bundles of energy. They may be electrically neutral or bear charges of positive or negative electricity.

The major particles in the tight nucleus are positive protons and neutral neutrons. Also present in the tight core is an assortment of tiny meson particles and quotas of dynamic energies to bind the nucleus together. The number of protons gives the nucleus its quota of positive electricity. The structure of the normal atom calls for an equal and opposite quota of negative electricity. This is provided by the orbiting electrons. Each electron has a negative charge to match the positive charge of one proton Every proton, however, is 1,836 times more massive than an electron. But the tiny electron may be 250 or even 1,000 times more massive than the nuclear mesons. The basic structure of the atom has a series of orderly paths for the busy electrons, even though they orbit the nucleus billions of times per second.

Miniature System

There are definite details that make each of the know atoms different from all the rest. But in each basic structure is a miniature solar system, teeming with energy and obeying rigid rules. Each different atom has been given a number and each atom on the list has one more proton than the one before it. The atomic number of gold is 79 because its nucleus has 79 protons and hence its structure calls for 79 orbiting electrons. Mercury has 80 protons and naturally its atomic number is 80. No atom can change its basic number because if it gains or lose a proton, it immediately becomes an atom of something else.

Suppose the average atom were as big as a football field. The nucleus in the centre would be a marble and the electrons mere specks orbiting as far away as the 50 yard lines. Some of an atom's electrons tend to arrive and depart or team up with other atoms. But this does not change the nucleus at the heart of the atomic structure. This can, however, be split apart by radioactivity or atom smashers. The nuclear process taught us much of what we know of the tiny atom, its structure and its assorted particles.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Scott Hensinger, age 10, of Allentown, Pennsylvania, for his question: Who made the very first thermometer?

It is no problem to tell that boiling water is hotter than ice water. But the measruing of temperature in exact degrees gets harder. It is not surprising that our ancestors took a long time to make the very first thermometer and still longer to make an accurate one. So far as we know, the first gadget to measure warmer and cooler temperatures was made in the year 1593. It was made by the great Italian astronomer Galileo and he named it the thermoscope. The idea was good and thermometers were needed. But this first one was not very accurate or very reliable.

However, Galileo's thermometer proved that a temperature measuring instrument could and should be made. Several inventors tried to make better ones. In 1641, a fairly accurate thermometer was made. But the ancestor of our modern thermometers was not made until 1714. Its inventor was Gabriel Fahrenheit, who also invented the Fahrenheit scale of degrees to go with his thermometer.

Side Effects Of Drugs Dangerous

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Everyone today who is taking medicine should be on the watch for side effects; he should know that such unwelcome effects are common; and if while taking a new and powerful medicine he should start having some peculiar and perhaps very distressing symptoms, such as nausea, vomiting, severe itching, a skin eruption, a diarrhea, jaundice, or fuzzy vision, he ought immediately to stop taking the medicine. Then if the distress promptly goes, it was probably due to the medicine.

A few years ago, the professor in charge of a great university hospital told me that one in every 10 patients who came in was suffering from some unpleasant or dangerous side effect of taking a medicine. Now I read the Professor L. Cluff, of Johns Hopkins' Hospital, recently studied 714 patients in his medical wards and found that one in 20 came in because of a side effect from the taking of some drug; and three in 20 developed side effects while under treatment in the place.

Dr. Cluff said also that nowadays, the average patient, during his stay in a hospital, receives from six to 30 different drugs This certainly is too much of a good thing. Years ago, when as an intern I would go to work in a new ward, I would find many a patient getting 10 or more medicines, each one of which had been ordered for him by a number of the permanent staff — usually for a temporary emergency, such as sleeplesness, some joint pain, a brief spell of diarrhea, a cold, a day or two of constipation, a few hours of nausea, two days of a cough, a day of headache, a few cramps in the legs, or a day of fever.

★ ★ ★

What was sad was that when the sumptoms treated cleared up in two or three days, no one thought to stop giving the medicine. Perhaps no intern dared to cancel the order of a professor. The result of all this was bad for the patients, and it wasted many thousands of dollars each year for the hospital.

A while ago, I had an interesting experience; A woman came into my office and promptly began to drowse in my reception room. When waked, she told me she had slept day and night for two weeks. When I asked her if she was taking any medicine, she said yes, she was taking six medicines.

Then I found that her allergist had given her a drug that makes some persons very drowsy; her nose specialist had given her another similar drug; her skin specialist had given her a powerful tranquilizer; her headache specialist had given her a sedative; her family physician in the suburb where she lived had given her a barbiturate for night use, and her gynecologist had given her a tranquilizer.

No wonder the poor woman slept soundly day and night for a week. She was lucky that she did not get into more serious trouble.

HOME GARDEN

First Bloom of Spiraea by Yule

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

Spiraea is a name well known to home gardeners, for over one hundred species and hybrids are listed. Ten of them are grown locally, and I would say that nine out of ten gardens have at least one specimen of this popular shrub.

The genus as a whole is comprised of attractive deciduous shrubs, all native to the northern hemisphere, some to North America.

In spring we see several of the white-flowered kinds blooming so profusely that it is difficult to find any leaves as a guide to naming them.

Fortunately the habit of flowering differs enough to be fairly reliable as identification.

The earliest to bloom will frequently put out the first flowers at Christmas. Small, pure white, they are borne sparsely along the leafless twiggy branches. The period of most bloom is late March to April, the name is Spiraea Thunbergii.

SIX FEET

Next to bloom is S. arguta, its height being about the same as the previous, five to six feet under average conditions. Flowers are crowded on every branch so that the shrub is a mound of white.

A double spiraea blooms during May. S. prunifolia plena has long arching canes loaded with tiny double white flowers borne singly and tight against the stems.

Still later, and blooming well into June, is one perhaps better known than any of these, S. vanhouttei, the bridal-wreath of the prairies and eastern provinces.

WELL-CHOSEN

The common name is well chosen, for this gracefully arching shrub is perhaps the best of them all to choose if only one spiraea can be accommodated.

The tiny white blossoms come in many-flowered tight clusters on the arching branches, completely covering the leaves. As an informal hedge there is nothing more enchanting in June. The dark green foliage is attractive all summer, turning a dull bronze before dropping late in fall.

City Student Wins 11th UBC Award

KEEPS PRICES HIGH

Drug Industry 'Robber Baron'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate inquiry into competition in the pharmaceutical industry began Monday with one witness urging an FBI investigation into "unbelievable price spreads" in drugs ranging as high as 4,000 per cent between cities.

William F. Haddad, spokesman for a New York citizens group, accused the industry of conspiring to keep prices high and called it "the last of the robber barons."

Another witness, Dr. John L. S. Holloman, Jr., said he resents attempts to convince him and other doctors that drugs sold under their generic rather than trade names are unsafe.

"This is nothing more than huckserism parading under the guise of medical education," he said.

Defence of the industry came from C. Joseph Stetler, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, who said chances of a new drug surviving research and tests before it can be marketed are one in 6,000, so the successes have to pay for the failures. The cost of research, Stetler said, runs as high as $1,000,000 daily.

Stetler issued a statement after Haddad testified, questioning his competence, "in the highly complicated and scientific matters," which were discussed.

"Mr. Haddad reached for headlines in his discourse by using epithets regarding prescription drug manufacturers such as 'house of card,' 'robber barons,' and 'cheaters,'" Stetler said.

Haddad, first witness before the Senate small business committee's monopoly subcommittee, is chairman of the Citizens Committee for Metropolitan Affairs of New York. He described it as a non-profit, nonpolitical civic foundation organized in 1965 to keep watch on musicipal affairs.

86-63 AMONG PULP WORKERS

Canadian Union Wins In Gold River Voting

Pulp mill workers at Gold River voted Tuesday in favor of the Canadian union.

The result was 86 votes for the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada and 63 votes for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers. One ballot was spoiled.

There were 151 eligible voters and, under the Labour Relations Act, the successful union had to get at least 76 votes.

"We felt all along in a free vote we could take almost any mill in B.C.," said Canadian union president Orville Braaten today.

'AUTOMATIC'

"This has been our problem — to get a vote. Certification now is pretty well automatic."

The vote at Gold River was ordered by the Labour Relations Board to determine which of the two unions the workers want.

International union officials were busy in Vancouver this morning and not abailable for comment.

The vote was won with the inclusion of office employees in the bargaining unit, the first time this has happened in a pulp mill.

Canadian union vice-president Angus Macphee, in Gold River, said he feels "very good." The union has approached Tahsis Company for talks for a contract at the mill which opens this summer.

FOUR-MONTH DRIVE

The result climaxes a four-month attempt by the Canadian union at Gold River, during which the International Woodworkers of American tried for certification and was ruled out by the Labour Relations Board.

A joint certification attempt by the IWA and Pulp-Sulphite was also ruled out.

Board officials are checking membership records of the Canadian union's Local 8, which has applied for bargaining rights at the Harmac mill near Nanaimo where 950 are employed.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Peter Bird, chief of the radiation protection division of the department of health and welfare, said in an interview at the University of B.C. strontium-90 levels in Canadian foods are falling. He said the decrease is a result of a steady decline in radioactive fallout over Canada.

'Pt. Hardy Almost Uncivilized'

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — Five weeks working as waitresses at a Canadian hotel in Port Hardy, V.I., have been the experience of a lifetime for two English girls working their way round the world.

Cynthia Clark and Angela Ireland travelled from England across the United States and Canada, stopped off at Honolulu, and have lately spent three months on a working holiday in New Zealand before continuing to Australia.

But the highlight of their trip so far has been their stay at Port Hardy on northern Vancouver Island, and their contacts with Indians and prospectors there.

"We wanted to see the real Canada, and as waitresses in a town that was almost uncivilized we did just that," said Miss Clarke. "We wouldn't have missed it for anything. It was the greatest experience of my life."

The two girls also enjoyed their rail journey across Canada including the trip through the Rockies.

'TOO BUSY WITH MY CHURCH'

Chief Fires Councilman For Passing Up Meetings

DUNCAN — Chief Dennis Alphonse said today Abraham Joe has been fired from Cowichan Band Council to show all members his intention of keeping discipline.

The chief alleged Mr. Joe missed six consecutive council meetings, and said: "If we let it go other councillors might get the idea they could miss meetings anytime they liked."

Chief Alphonse said: "I feel bad about having to make the decision because Abraham did a fine job on the housing issue."

The sacked council member last year led a band protest regarding sub-standard housing which forced a promise from Indian Affairs Minister Arthur Laing to catch up on Cowichan's backlog of housing in four years.

NEW ELECTION

Chief Alphonse said the firing may not have any real bearing because another election may have to be called soon.

Council is still waiting a ruling from the federal department of Indian Affairs, Ottawa, of a protest by Joseph Elliott who claimed illegal nomination procedure at last year's election.

Mr. Joe said Tuesday council invoked an Indian Act clause never used before in order to fire him.

The act provides for the firing of any member who misses three consecutive meetings.

Mr. Joe claims councillors Sam Henry and Leonard Peter also missed three meetings but were not fired.

JOINED SHAKERS

However, veteran council member Abel Joe said Henry and Peter accepted the chance offered all three to apologize to council and return. Abraham declined.

Abraham Joe said because of his new found faith (he joined the local Indian Shaker Church in January) he would not fight the council decision.

He said he has turned down the offer of a voters' petition.

Chief Alphonse admitted there was a motion at a general meeting to retain Abraham Joe on council but said it was not a 97 per cent vote as claimed by the ousted councillor.

The chief also denied Abraham Joe's assertion that council ignored his application for a three month's leave of absence.

Chief Alphonse said:

"He was told this could not be granted as he had already missed several meetings."

Mr. Joe said: "I was too busy with my church. To me religion is most important.

"I still have the right to attend council meetings until I receive word from Ottawa that I am no longer a council member."

Caravan Open At 11 A.M. On Saturday

There's room for everyone on the Confederation Caravan now touring B.C. and scheduled to stop in Sidney, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

What's more, there shouldn't be any lengthy line-ups, say tour organizers.

The caravan can accomodate 10,000 persons each day and with children making their visits in the early part of the day, there is ample room for adult visitors later.

Admission is free. The caravan is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily on the Sanscha Park grounds.

The caravan, consisting of eight vans 60 feet long, contains similar historical displays and exhibits that thousands of Victorians saw when the Centennial Train visited the Island in January.

Sidney Centennial Committee ha. arranged for food, rides, games, parking and baby-sitting facilities to be provided on the hall grounds.

"Our centennial project is to clear up the remaining debt on the Sanscha Hall," said Jack Rogers, committee chairman. "Also, people waiting to see the Caravan will have something to do."

Saturday night is Klondyke Night, an annual Sidney affair. Games, entertainment and a dance will be featured in the Sanscha Hall.

The caravan will go from Sidney to Salt Spring Island elementary school, May 24; then to Sooke elementary school May 25; Colwood Plaza May 26 and 27; Shawnigan Lake little league park May 28; Duncan Pioneer Park May 30 and 31; Lake Cowichan Centennial Park June 1; Chemainus High School June 2 and 3; Ladysmith High School June 4; Parksville Community Park June 6; Qualicum High School June 7; Alberni 10th Ave. Park June 8 to 11; Campbell River Tyee Plaza June 13 and 14; Courtenay Lewis Park June 15 to 17.

Hebenton Joins Sportsmen Fete

DUNCAN — Andy Hebenton, the iron man of pro hockey, is the latest celebrity to join the list of guests for the second annual Sportsmen's Dinner Saturday sponsored by Cowichan Minor Football Association.

He will join Father David Bauer of Canada's national hockey team, plus Neil Dirom, Alberni Athletics basketball star, and David MacKenzie, Brentwood, former Olympic sprinter and international rugby player.

The dinner is part of the association's drive for funds to start four bantam football teams this year.

Robert Berry, vice-president, said Tuesday: "We have paid off all our debts incurred with the Cowichan Timbermen, including $5,000 for playing equipment.

"Now it is going to require $2,400 to outfit the boys in these four bantam teams."

UN Warned to Leave Egypt-Israeli Sector

War Threatens Cairo Declares

CAIRO (CP) — The United Arab Republic today called on United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Gaza Strip to immediately withdraw beyond the Egyptian-Israeli armistice line and ordered its own forces to be ready for action if Israel attacks "any Arab state".

The UN Middle East Emergency Force along the Egyptian-Israeli frontier and in the Gaza Strip includes troops from Canada, Norway, Sweden, India, Yugoslavia and Brazil.

It numbered about 4,500 men but UN Secretary - General U Thant said recently it was being reduced this year to 3,400 men.

The UN troops man the 100-square-mile Gaza Strip in force, but have only patrols along the 117-mile desert border stretching southeast from it to the Gulf of Aqaba.

The moves came as tension rose following Israeli threats to strike hard against Syria if sabotage and border incidents for which it blames Syria continued.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary-General Thant today called the situation along the Israel frontier with the United Arab Republic "potentially grave" and asked the Cairo government to clarify its intentions in concentrating troops there.

Thant cancelled official visits to Britain and Belgium to take personal charge of the situation here after the UAR called for the withdrawal of the seven-nation UN emergency force on duty on the frontier for the past 10 years.

TROOPS ON MOVE

Today's Egyptian announcements, followed the movement of an estimated division of U.A.R. troops eastward through Cairo two days ago.

The Syrian radio today called on Arabs to unite "for the final battle" against Israel.

Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhous flew to Cairo for talks on the rising tension.

Cairo radio said the U.A.R. told the UN force to withdraw into the Gaza Strip "so that it may not face any threat in case of military operations breaking out."

The UN has stood between the Egyptians and Israelis since the aftermath of the 1956 Israeli-British-French attack on the U.A.R. after Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Cairo radio said Field Marshal Abdel - Haikim Amer, U.A.R. first vice-president and deputy commander of the armed force, sent a message to Maj.-Gen. Indar Jit Rikhye, the UN force's Indian commander, asking him to concentrate his troops in the Gaza Strip.

The message said U.A.R. forces had gathered in Sinai, near the Israeli border.

Almost immediately after the demand to the UN, Egyptian Chief of Staff Gen. Mohammed Fawzy ordered his forces "to be prepared for action against Israel if the latter should attack any Arab state."

HOLD TALKS

The U.A.R. and Syria, which signed a mutual defence pact last Nov. 3, consulted urgently following the latest Israeli warnings.

POLICEMAN DIES

Campus Gunfight Kills 1

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Helmeted police, firing as they ran, stormed a men's dormitory at Texas Southern University today and halted student snipers who created a no-man's-land on the campus.

A rookie patrolman was killed and two officers and a student wounded.

Police took 488 men students to jail and worked to discover which had fired the shot which killed Lewis R. Kuba, 25, who was shot between the eyes in the first assault wave against the dormitory that sheltered the snipers' nest.

Kuba died about 7½ hours after he was shot.

Four hours and 3,000 police bullets after the first peppering of gunfire and the explosion of four crudely-made fire bombs, officers secured the dormitory. They smashed down doors in their search for weapons and suspects, found one pistol, one shotgun and one rifle.

Mayor Louie Welch met this morning with police, the district attorney and officials of the predominantly-Negro school, where the administration ordered classes as usual.

Welch said he believes there is a breakdown between the administration of Texas Southern and the student body of more than 7,000.

The riot began about 10:15

RUNNING BATTLE with teen-aged mob ends with police doing the running to escape wrath of Chinese rioters as anti-British violence continues in Hong Kong. Rock is about to smash window of car at lower right.

BRITISH TRY CURFEW

By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—Rampaging mobs of Chinese youths today turned an area of the British crown colony into a day-long battlefield of flying stones, bottles, burning buildings, smashed vehicles and street barricades in the worst rioting of a week of Communist-instigated disturbances.

Reinforced police fired tear gas bombs, wooden missiles and sometimes charged into barrages of stones and bottles, swinging clubs in a running battle with rioters who swarmed through the main tourist shopping centre.

The mobs and violence spilled over into Hong Kong's "Golden Mile" tourist shopping district and hotel area. Scattered incidents by roving bands of Red Guard-type youths were reported despite a 7:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew.

At least 38 policemen were injured along with an unknow number of teen-agers trapped on narrow streets by truncheon-swinging police.

Police said 42 persons were arrested, bringing to well over 400 the number of persons taken into custody since leftist labor agitation erupted into rioting last week.

China has backed the leftist labor movement. It has formally protested to Britain against the movement's supression and demanded that those arrested be released with apologies.

The pressure on Britain from Peking mounted amid the new and bigger outbreak.

China announced over Radio Peking that rallies were held on the China mainland again today to support the Hong Kong rioters and demonstrators marched on the British embassy in Peking for the third day.

The Kowloon district riots resumed in mid-morning today when a crowd of leftists, waving red books containing the thought of party chairman Mao Tse-tung, gathered in front of the South Kowloon magistracy to disrupt a scheduled hearing for 20 rioters arrested last week.

MISSILE SITES HIT BY U.S. JET BOMBERS

SAIGON (Reuters)—United States aircraft Tuesday night bombed North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile emplacements within the demilitarized zone for the first time, an American military spokesman said here today.

He said marine F-8 Crusader and A-6 Intruder jets carried out the night strike against the lethal SAM missiles, which were about 500 yards within the northern part of the buffer zone between the two Vietnams.

The Soviet-designed anti-aircraft SAMs, which have a maximum range of some 30 miles, were appearing in increasing number in the southern part of North Vietnam.

REPORTER TRAPPED BY PEKING MOB

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters) — An angry crowd of Red Guards today demonstrated outside the house of the Reuters correspondent in Peking and trapped a Canadian newspaper man in his car for 30 minutes.

David Oancia of the Toronto Globe and Mail sat inside his tiny car smoking as the chanting crowd of about 200 surged around it before he was eventually allowed to drive away when many of the demonstrators left.

Shouting anti-British slogans, the crowd blocked the narrow street outside the house and threw pebbles at this correspondent when he went up to the roof to look down at the scene below.

Oancia had just visited Reuters rented house and offices when the demonstration began.

Oancia had taken photographs of slogans plastered over the doors and walls of the house and office.

The slogans said: "British imperialists get out of Hong Kong."

CROWD GATHERS

The crowd gathered around us and after a few minutes a Red Guard leader wearing a scarlet arm band arrived and began leading the crowd in an anti-British chant.

The crowd grew rapidly and when Oancia entered his car they closed round him.

When I tried to photograph the car, fists were pushed in front of the camera lens.

The chanting mob pressed around Oancia's blue Volkswagen, shaking their fists at him and rocking the light car from side to side.

Oancia eventually was allowed to drive away after half an hour, when the crowd thinned.

Official reports said some 400,000 persons took part Tuesday in demonstrations outside the office of the British charge d'affaires to protest the riot-quelling action of British authorities in Hong Kong.

Red Guards kept up a constant chant of "down with British imperialism."

Oancia, award - winning Saskatchewan native, is 37, and lives with his wife and two-year-old son in a Peking suburb. He has been Peking correspondent for the Globe and Mail since October, 1966, and at present is the only North American correspondent in the Chinese capital, and one of only three Westerners allowed there.

Oancia entered the newspaper field as a reporter for the Moose Jaw Times Herald and subsequently worked for The Canadian Press at several bureaus and in London.

He won a 1966 National Newspaper Award for staff corresponding with his series of three articles from Peking about the Red Guards. His articles appear in the Victoria Times.

PM Brings Cabinet Into Line on Viet War

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson stated today his entire cabinet, including Privy Council President Walter Gordon, agrees with government policy on Vietnam and has pledged to do or say nothing that would hinder its implementation.

Mr. Pearson made his succinct statement following a special morning cabinet meeting called to discuss both Vietnam policy and the traditional principle of cabinet solidarity.

At issue was the controversial speech last Saturday by Mr. Gordon, who urged open criticism of the United States stand in the war which he described as without moral or strategic justification.

The official government policy, as stated repeatedly by Mr. Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin, is one of quiet diplomacy to end the bombing and stop the war—but not open criticism of either side in the conflict.

STATEMENTS QUOTED

After a 1½-hour meeting, Mr. Pearson emerged to say that he had reviewed his policy in considerable detail, quoting at length from his own statements and those of Mr. Martin.

"They all knew it," he said, "but I thought I would repeat it."

"All members of the cabinet agreed it was the right policy to follow and all of us agreed, as members of the cabinet that we would say or do nothing that would make implementation of that policy more difficult."

Implicit in these remarks was that if any minister diverged from this common stand to publicly go against the grain of stated policy, he would have no choice but to resign.

Mr. Martin left the cabinet meeting, which was called because of his absence from Ottawa Tuesday, with no comment but a big smile.

The central figure, Mr. Gordon, declined comment and said "ask the prime minister".

For the moment the controversy appears to have abated with Mr. Pearson's unequivocal statement of cabinet unanimity.

CONTROVERSY ABATED

If, in the future, Mr. Gordon or any other minister feels compelled to speak out in a different vein, resignation is

PROTESTERS PARADE

OTTAWA (CP) — While the cabinet discussed Vietnam inside the Parliament Buildings, a dozen young people paraded quietly outside today bearing placards urging the government to condemn U.S. policy on Vietnam.

The demonstration, which lasted about an hour in front of the Centre Block, was organized by the Ottawa Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which a spokesman said has about 125 persons on its mailing list.

H. W. Davey New Chief Justice

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson today announced the appointment of Justice Herbert W. Davey as chief justice of B.C.

Mr. Justice Davey replaces Mr. Justice Henry I. Bird, who stepped down Jan. 8 at mandatory retiring age of 75.

Chief Justice Davey, 68, is a native of Victoria, where he received his early education.

He was called to the B.C. bar in 1921 and later became partner in the firm of Crease and Co.

The chief justice was appointed king's counsel in 1945 and was called to the bench as a justice of the Supreme Court of B.C. in 1953.

A year later he was appointed to the B.C. Court of Appeal.

As a lawyer, Mr. Justice Davey is best remembered for his work as legal representative for the Sloan Commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan which inquired into all phases and aspects of British Columbia's forest resources.

He also served with the Canadian Scottish Regiment and is a past president of Victoria Liberal Association and the Town Planning Commission.

Prince of Wales Rite Announced for Charles

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen announced today she will formally invest her son Prince Charles as Prince of Wales, the title usually borne by the heir to the throne.

She said in an announcement from Buckingham Palace that the ceremony will be at Caernarvon Castle, North Wales, in the summer of 1969.

Charles then will be just a few months short of his 21st birthday.

It was nine years ago that the Queen promised to invest Charles with the title.

"When he grows up," she told a Welsh audience, "I will present him to you at Caernarvon."

Conferment of the title on a royal heir is not automatic. A monarch can decide against it—and some have.

The first Prince of Wales was created in 1301, a few years after Wales was incorporated with England. Charles will be the 21st to hold the title.

The last Prince of Wales who succeeded to the throne was Edward VIII who abdicated in 1936 and became Duke of Windsor. He was invested as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon in 1911 when he was 17.

SUPPRESSED FOR 22 YEARS BY U.S.

Ghastly Effects of A-Bomb Recorded on Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has suppressed for nearly 22 years confiscated Japanese films showing ghastly after-effects of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima, U.S. officials reveal.

The Japanese government has at least twice asked that restrictions on the film be lifted, but the U.S. government has refused on grounds it might damage U.S. - Japanese relations, said the informants.

Called in Japan "the film of illusion" because it wasn't supposed to exist, the film was taken by Tokyo University scientists sent to Hiroshima soon after the bombing, the sources said.

The officials said the Japanese scientists still were at work filming in the devastated city when U.S. officials arrived in Hiroshima and confiscated the film.

But the American authorities determined to finish the documentary and used the same Japanese cameramen who had taken the initial footage.

For many years, officials said, U.S. policy opposed any distribution of the documentary because it showed in stark and gruesome detail blast effects and the bomb's impact in a densely populated area.

But some U.S. authorities now are reported in favor of letting Japan decide what if any restrictions should be imposed on the film's showing.

Hiroshima was the target of the first atomic bomb ever dropped on an enemy — Aug. 6, 1945. The bomb obliterated three-fifths of the city of 343,000 population.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds came in for some selling on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with a few parcel lots sold to Japan.

The oats and barley trade was along domestic lines and rye continued to show irregularity. May rye continued to show a premium over other months.

A feature of trade was the sale of 83,000 tons of wheat and 300 tons of barley to Japan.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures fell more than 3½ cents in moderately heavy dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today. Corn futures declined more than two cents. Oats and rye also were lower but soybeans bucked the trend.

The prospect of a heavy wheat crop this year plus a June 30 carryover of 400,000,000 bushels tended to depress wheat prices.

Molson Earnings Show Sharp Jump

MONTREAL (CP)—Net earnings of Molson Breweries Ltd. for the year ended March 31, 1967, were $10,767,000, an increase of 16.9 per cent over the $9,212,000 of the previous 12-month period, said the company's unaudited preliminary report.

Net earnings a share were $1.36 compared with $1.17 the previous year. The latter figure was adjusted to reflect a two-for-one subdivision of A and B shares in July, 1966.

International U.S. Newspaper Editions Merge

PARIS (UPI)—The international editions of the new York Herald Tribune-Washington Post and the New York Times have told their readers they will merge next Monday.

The new newspaper will be known as the International Herald Tribune.

The merger was announced by John Hay Whitney, chairman of the Herald Tribune international edition, Mrs. Katherine Graham, president of the Washington Post Co., and Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of The Times.

The Herald Tribune in Paris has a daily circulation of about 62,000; The Times international edition about 47,000.

The printing of the new newspaper is subject to approval by the French government.

The announcement said the merged newspaper will be printed in Paris and distributed in 72 nations with the largest circulation of any American newspaper published abroad.

The new joint venture involves a one-third interest for the New York Times international edition.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Three Mine Issues Continue Strong

Three mining companies, which advanced last week on Finance Minister Sharp's reassurance to the industry, continued to show strength in pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

Brenda, at $5.95, Dynasty, $7.60, and Lornex, $5.05, all posted identical .10 gains.

TC Explorations also advanced and rose .04 to .70 on 11,000 shares.

Bata Resources was the heaviest trader and lost .02 to $1.56 on 40,000 shares.

Industrials were mixed with B.C. Tel off .75 to $67.25 and Columbia Cellulose dipping .15 to $4.85, a new low.

However, Pacific Pete was up .12 to a new high of $14.50 and Trans Prairie rose the same amount to a new high of $7.87.

AT TORONTO Bramalea advanced 1¼ to 11½ in the industrial list.

Canadian Food Products rose 1 to 6½ after it was announced that Duplate would buy its entire holding of 300,000 class B shares in Versafood Services at $6 a share.

ITL Industries lost 1⅝ to 34⅝ and Slater Steel ⅝ to 9⅝.

Uranium issues advanced with Denison and Preston ahead ⅝ each to 69¼ and 20⅛, Rio Algom and Roman Corp. ⅛ each to 34¼ and 19½ and Stanrock 5 cents to 3.40.

Kerr-Addison rose ¾ to 14¾ after being delayed at the opening to match buy-and-sell orders.

Oils moved ahead with Dome up ½ to 52¾, Pacific Petroleum ⅝ to 14⅝ and Imperial Oil ⅛ to 59⅝.

AT NEW YORK the market turned mixed in fairly active trading.

Loses of about three points were taken by SCM and Rheem Manufacturing in active dealings.

Brokers said it appeared like another session of consolidation of the type which has followed the market's advance to 909.63 in the Dow Industrials on May 8.

AT MONTREAL stocks were higher today. Trading was moderate.

Denison climbed 1½ points to 69¾ and Rio Algom ½ to 34½ among the high-flying uraniums.

Three senior oils—Imperial, Pacific Pete and Shell — were each ⅝ stronger at 59⅞, 14⅝ and 26⅞ respectively.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line led utilities higher with a ⅝-point gain to 30⅛. Interprovincial Pipe Line, whose shares have split on a five-for-one basis, traded at 21⅛.

AT LONDON the market was sensitive and unsettled today in the wake of French President de Gaulle's Common Market references, the weakness of sterling Tuesday and revival of old fears of Britain's economic position.

Golds continued to attract attention with some gains of up to 4s. Diamonds and coppers shared the rise.

Canadians improved, including Inco, up 3 at 197½, CPR, Massey and Alcan. Hudson Bay Oil and Gas and Hollinger were slightly easier and Canadian banks were quiet.

In papers, Reed lost 9d to 45s 3d and it was followed down by Bowater.

Lord Thomson's U.K. Interests Boost Earnings

LONDON (CP) — Both turnover and earnings of the Thomson Organization Ltd. increased during 1966, Lord Thomson says in his annual statement.

The Canadian-born publisher, whose British holding includes travel companies and Scottish Television besides newspaper, magazines and books says total sales increased to nearly £63,000,000. Trading profits at £7,857,917 were greater by 8.8 per cent than the previous year. These figures do not include Thomson's North American operation.

Profit after tax amounted to £3,947,030 compared with £3,833,892 for 1965, despite a charge for depreciation, plant and machinery of £1,411,733 against £1,023,756.

Thomson, in his statement says that since The Times introduced front-page news — in place of advertisements — more than a year ago its circulation has gone up more than 30 per cent. Circulation of 400,000 is expected in 1968 by Thomson, who acquired majority ownership of the paper last Sept. 30.

New Layoffs Feared in U.K. Car Industry

LONDON (AP) — A drastic slump in automobile sales brought fears of more layoffs and short-time work in Britain's motor industry.

Only 96,735 new cars were sold in April, the lowest total for that normally busy month in five years. It is nearly 30 per cent below the number of autos sold in April last year.

Industry executives blamed the falling domestic demand on the Labor government's credit squeeze, which already has cost the jobs of an estimated 10,000 auto workers.

Prospects were that hundreds more will be laid off and thousands put on a four-day week if the slump persists.

There are times when to lose is also to win, and I would so rate the war canoe race in Nanaimo harbor that ended with a good-sport crew from HMCS Saskatchewan a dozen lengths behind the Indian paddlers.

It isn't often that the native brother is given a chance to compete on his own ground and terms with the white man. That he should do so, and score a clean victory, is surely a better tonic for his confidence than all the neatly bottled preachments we hand down to him.

I think too that the white participant and spectator stands to benefit from such meetings. It does us no harm to be reminded that we are not masters of all skills, since respect for the abilities of our neighbors is one prop of friendship.

The Saskatchewan's men lost their hard-paddled race; but by the extent that their efforts serve to warm the climate between white and Indian, they can count themselves ahead of the game.

With the pollution of Buttle Lake now a foregone conclusion, the provincial government seems determined to demonstrate that nothing is really happening there except a little harmless stirring-up of the water.

Witness the latest report from the department of recreation and conservation. What we are now to believe, on the strength of experiments, is that the Buttle Lake trout will obligingly accommodate themselves to their changed condition.

Actually, what the department's tests seem to have demonstrated is merely that trout placed in water contaminated by mine-mill waste in varying percentages can survive without obvious harm for four days.

This fact, I am perfectly willing to accept. But I suggest that, compared to the studies that should have been made, those tests carry no weight whatever.

They do not reveal the cumulative effects of wastes poured into a lake over a period of years; and for this, I think we would be wiser to rely on precedents rather than bland government reassurances.

Take, for instance, California's Feather River, a splendid rainbow trout stream until pollution hit it. For years after that government-permitted disaster, the Feather was cancelled out as a sport prospect.

Today, in a state less careless of its wild assets than once it was, the river is being "brought back". But it may never make a full recovery.

The effect of mill wastes on Buttle remain to be seen, and I for one expect they will be long-lasting and widely destructive both to trout and to the weed beds that foster the insect life that helps sustain them.

Pollution and trout simply do not go together . . . and no short-term tank experiments will convince me otherwise.

We are now well into our fifth lawn mower, a fact that bears eloquent testimony to the way the grass grows on this well-watered peninsula.

Our first was a hand-pushed machine, brought from the East and set down on a lawn toward the end of a Saanich June. Its reel made a single revolution; then no amount of heaving would budge it.

The next was a great brute of the same type but with a motor perched atop. It served for a year, then began to cast off parts in so dangerous a fashion that we junked it.

Another, better, reel-type cowers in a far corner of our garage, plagued with a list of complaints that begin with a mangled clutch and carry through to a strangled carburetor.

From that machine we went into whirly-bird rotaries, and got several seasons out of our first of those tough little beasts. It devoured brush, snarled through the highest grass, and spat out stones until its casing was scalloped all round. We retired it only when its motor would no longer retain a head-gasket.

So to our present mower . . . and may it see us through spring's green invasion with no worse injury than the busted governor that set it screaming last week!

Going Down

Future wealth of B.C. may flow through this hole. And workman Clare Bergman looks like he knows it as he inspects guide structure for giant oil drilling rig.

Driver for a Victoria trucking firm, he had time to spare waiting for rush-hour traffic while transporting the large chunk of equipment from Victoria Machinery Depot to Esquimalt Graving Dock.

The structure sits on the floor of the rig to guide the drill which will sink deep into the ocean floor in search of black gold.

It will be transported from the graving dock to the rig—sitting at the outer wharf at Ogden Point—by ship.

A spokesman for Shell Canada Ltd. which is leasing the rig from South Eastern Commonwealth Drilling Co., explained that the equipment is too heavy to deliver direct to the wharf. It will be hoisted by crane from the deck of the ship to the platform 160 feet above.

Workmen are expected to finish work on the $10 million rig in the next few weeks. After trials it will be towed to the southern Queen Charlotts to begin work.

Pay Ordered For Eight Holidays

The provincial government today issued its first Industrial Relations Board order requiring employers to pay their employees for eight statutory holidays.

The order does not apply to organized workers who already have mandatory paid statutory holidays under collective agreements and it excludes certain salesmen and other types of occupations which now do not come under minimum wage orders.

But for all others, the order requires employers to give a day off with pay for New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Remembrance Day and Christmas Day.

"This is the first time an order has been issued in B.C. for paid statutory holidays," commented Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

"It is a further advance in the boards program to raise labor standards for employees in the province."

21 Benchers Elected By Mail Vote

The British Columbia Law Society announced today 21 lawyers in the province have been elected benchers in the body.

Benchers are elected by mail ballot by members of the profession. The law society constitutes the governing body of the legal profession in the province.

Elected were R. P. Anderson, D. T. Braidwood, C. W. Brazier, A. B. B. Carrothers, F. U. Collier, R. T. Dumoulin, A. M. Harper, H. E. Hutcheon, C. C. Locke, H. J. McGivern, K. E. Meredith, C. C. I. Merritt and P. B. Paine, all of Vancouver.

D. J. Lawson and L. G. McKenzie of Victoria; T. K. Fisher and D. B. Hinds of New Westminster; C. H. Hamilton of Nelson, P. J. Millward of Kamloops and H. B. King of Prince George.

The new benchers will take office at the annual meeting of the law society in Victoria on June 15.

Jaycee Fair Zipping Ahead of Last Year

Record-breaking crowds continue to stream through the gates to the annual Jaycee exhibition.

Over 13,400 persons attended Tuesday, 300 more than last year.

Officials report a "whopping business" in hot dog sales with more than 7,000 sold in the two days.

A workman, Lloyd Sharp of Burnaby, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a bruised foot suffered in a mishap with the hot air ballon Tuesday.

A steel cable parted and the balloon drifted 100 feet toward the Curling Rink taking the man with it.

Today is Esquimalt Day with special ceremonies paid to the municipality in the Curling Rink in the evening.

Miss Victoria candidates Kare Beck and Brenda Steele will perform for the pageant judges tonight after the 8 o'clock fashion show.

Thursday is Kiddies Day with reduced prices on rides and Jaycee hot dogs. Some of the beard-growing competitions will be judged that night.

OBJECTIVE: $10,000 FOR INDIAN STUDENTS' EXPO TRIP

After a Crash of Cash, Cymbals to Clang

The tinkle of money sounded sweeter than all the music in the world to Kuper Island fife and drum band today.

The tinkle was in the key of E (for Expo) and meant probable fulfillment of a dream for the Indian schoolchildren.

All being well, it signals the end of an "on again—off again" trip to Montreal's World's Fair for the band members at the Indian residential school east of Chemainus.

The trip of a lifetime was called off more than a month ago when official agencies said they had no funds to sponsor the 40-strong band.

Originally the school believed the Indian Arts and Welfare Society of Victoria was going to sponsor the trip. But the society said there had been a mix-up and no funds were available.

But today Mayor Hugh Stephen of Victoria personally chipped in $100 to open a fund drive to cover the children's costs.

●

At a ceremony in S. J. Willis junior high school, the mayor told the 1,000 pupils:

"This trip means more to these kids than anything else ever will.

"If this money is to be collected the main effort must come from Victoria."

Student council president Peter George handed over a $50 cheque on behalf of the school and said they would try to get other schools interested.

The Times also donated a cheque for $200 and agreed to back the drive with publicity on how collections are going.

S. J. Willis principal Horace Dawson said he would handle funds from the schools' point of view, in addition to canvassing local businesses.

Banker Tom McMaster agreed to act as custodian.

Nearly $10,000 is needed to charter a plane and pay for the children's keep while they are in Montreal.

They have been invited along with other residential school bands to play at the Fair at the beginning of July.

Aged between nine and 16, the youngsters will for the first time be playing to an international audience.

They have become well known in Victoria as a result of playing in the Victoria Day parade in recent years.

●

The federal government, which finances the 77-year-old Roman Catholic school, may help out to the tune of $2,000.

It is also hoped some of the larger logging companies will boost funds.

Donations chould be sent to "Trip of a Lifetime Fund," c/o Bank of Nova Scotia, Douglas and Yates, or handed in at The Times.

HANDING $50 cheque to banker Tom McMaster today is S. J. Willis student council president Peter George. Money will go towards fund to send Kuper Island Indian residential school band to Expo at end of June. Looking on are (left to right): Mayor Hugh Stephen, Jerry Seta, student council vice-president, and Art Stott, associate editor of The Times.

Love-In Joins Parade But Peaceniks Banned

Right now hippies are in and peaceniks are out—of the Victoria Day Parade.

The Greater Victoria Celebrations Association committee Tuesday refused the application of the Victoria Peace Action League for an anti-Vietnam-war float but left a projected hippie float applied for by the Victoria Youth Council up to the discretion of the parade marshal.

The anti-war float, a Volkswagen bus with anti-war banners and pictures, is "not in the theme of the 24th of May in the sense of what we are trying to do," said chief parade marshal Fred Lockett, a committee director. "That is, give pleasure to people."

Grounds for the ruling was that the association constitution prohibits displays of a political nature.

"If anyone shows up with the same theme (as the anti-war float) or something similar, it will be disallowed in the parade," said Mr. Lockett.

Format of the hippie display is still uncertain, said Charles Barber, a Youth Council director. "It will probably be a parade of about 100 hippies handing out flowers led by a car dolled up with flowers and an appropriate slogan such as "We must build in every sense a world without murder."

Frank Cox, 19, president of the 15-member Victoria Peace Action League, said he was surprised by the celebration committee's decision and wished he had been invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. Cox, who is now completing high school at the Adult Education Centre, came to Canada with his parents from California in 1965. He said he hasn't decided what to do about the committee's decision, except to try again next year.

Cadets To Blitz For Funds 7 to 8:30 Tonight

The Navy League of Canada will hold its annual fund blitz between 7 and 8:30 tonight.

Some 200 Sea Cadets, representing the league's three Greater Victoria units, will call on houses throughout the area.

Bail Trebled In Shooting

Bail was ordered tripled today for Frank Joseph Bedry who faces two charges of attempted murder.

Bail for the accused, also known as Frank Joseph Layton, was set at $5,000, but the Crown asked for bail to be increased to $17,000.

Magistrate William Ostler, setting bail at $15,000 in two sureties, commented that when the original application for bail was made he felt the amount was "too reasonable".

Bedry was charged following two shooting incidents, May 4, in which Mrs. Molly Robertson, 911 McNaughton and Constable Harry Hoshal, city policeman, were injured.

Short-Circuit Sparks Alarm At Playhouse

A short-circuit in backstage electrical equipment at the McPherson Playhouse touched off a major fire alarm in Victoria this morning.

Work crews from the B.C. District Telegraphs, working in the theatre, smelled smoke from a smouldering console and promptly threw the main switch cutting off power.

The Victoria fire department found everything under control when it arrived at the scene minutes after the alarm was sounded.

"It could have been serious," said Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

FOR RIGHT REASON

Young People In Court Room Pleases Ostler

By TED GASKELL

Magistrates usually express concern over young people appearing before them, but Magistrate William Ostler today expressed pleasure because so many were in his court.

These young people weren't accused of anything unless trying to be better-informed is a crime.

They were there as part of the law and general business classwork at Esquimalt High School under teacher Tillman Briggs.

The group of 46 students sat through the morning's proceedings and heard a variety of cases.

An application for an increase in bail in connection with two attempted murder charges was presented.

They learned that people are not always sentenced out of hand even when a guilty plea is entered, but there's such a thing as a pre-sentence report from probation officers or psychiatrists.

DRINKING LESSON

They had a lesson about alcohol when a 19-year-old youth was fined $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor and another minor was fined $15 for being drunk.

They saw a lawyer in action pleading earnestly but unsuccessfully for the acquittal of a shoplifter.

They saw that the law considers many fine points when the lawyer argued, for example, that the Crown should have named the store commonly known as The Bay by its official title, The Company of Gentlemen Adventurers Trading Into Hudson's Bay.

And they heard the magistrate rule that the name generally used was sufficient description of the store.

VALUABLE VISIT

Mr. Briggs, who takes two or three classes a year to the courts, says his course is mainly concerned with the law in relation to general business but he feels that the court visit is valuable to the young people.

And so does Magistrate Ostler.

"I like to see young citizens take an interest in the law," he said. "I notice with pleasure that the numbers are increasing. If they see actual cases they can see what safeguards there are in law for an accused person when they observe cases conducted in an impartial manner. They get a respect for the law.

"Exposure to court under these conditions (class visits) are very advantageous and it may be that they never be exposed to courts under less fortunate conditions. These vists are a good idea," Magistrate Ostler said.

Tax-Levying Role Hinted in Speech

Legislative Reporter

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn today bitterly attacked a broad hint by Education Minister Leslie Peterson that the government will require school boards to levy their own taxes in future.

Mr. Bunn said the suggestion was obscene" because it would turn education into a "permanent political football" and angrily demanded that provincial income taxes be used to finance schools instead of property taxes however levied.

Mr. Peterson dropped his bombshell in a speech Tuesday night to the school board officials who would have the administrative headache of taking over tax collection duties now carried out as an extra chore of municipal councils by compulsory legislation.

He was addressing the annual conference of the B.C. School District Secretary-Treasurers' Association, in North Vancouver, at which — in a prepared test released here in advance — he scathingly criticized school boards for "unecessarily increasing local taxation.

UNFAIR

Mr. Peterson complained that a wave of province-wide protests over heavy increases everywhere in school taxes this year had unfairly made the provincial government a "whipping boy" when the basic fault lay with big-spending school boards, some of which have boosted certain expenditures by as much as 270 per cent.

Then he dropped his hint—the second made this month — that the cabinet plans to respond to the criticism by changing the law next session so that school boards would levy their own taxes separately.

"The principle of municipal councils having some authority under the Public Schools Act in respect to school district budgets has had little effect on education costs," the speech observed.

"I am hopeful that we may be able to find other means of ensuring that the level of government responsible for the expenditure is answerable more directly to the taxpayer."

'OTHER MEANS'

His warning of "other means" for making school boards more directly answerable to ratepayers follows by a couple of weeks Premier Bennett's suggested solution for identifying the cause of higher school taxes — separate tax notices for municipal purposes and school purposes.

Mr. Bennett urged Vancouver City Council to use its modern bookkeeping system this year in an experiment to demonstrate that separate tax bills can be issued without much increase in administrative cost and to get the public used to the idea. Vancouver is studying the suggestion.

Mr. Bunn said education finance is totally a provincial responsibility and suggested the government is trying to dodge it by sticking school boards with the unpalatable job of raising money now that municipal councils appear to be in revolt.

"I think making education an almost permanent political football is almost obscene," he snapped.

"I would suggest education should be above all this petty politics and its cost should not be placed on property but be met by provincial income taxes.

"It is entirely wrong for an old age pensioner, who has worked all his life to pay for a home, to have to still pay for the cost of education out of his fixed income.

"A man should not be taxed on the kind of house he lives in to pay for education, he should be taxed only according to his ability to pay."

Anticipating this kind of reaction, Mr. Peterson's speech concluded:

"The fact is that the province is now spending on education all of the revenue that is derived from personal and corporation taxes and succession duties as well.

"The estimates for this year show we are receiving for corporation tax $55 million, personal income tax $123 million, and succession duties $15.5 million.

"The department of education spends the total amount of this revenue."

PAYING GRANTS

"In addition," Mr. Peterson added, "we are paying some $42 million in home-owners' grants to help people pay the school taxation on their homes so that we are in effect spending $42 million more on education that we are collecting on income tax, corporation tax and succession duties."

He said the only way of meeting higher school costs is to squeeze a larger share of income taxes out of the federal government or "tighten our belts."

He concluded that school boards could cut down their expenses "and I know that it can be done in such a way that public school education will not suffer."

SIMPLE

But Mr. Bunn pointed out that if the province already uses its income and succession tax revenues for education then it would be a relatively simple matter to allocate them specifically for that purpose and eliminate school taxes on property.

"Let's have some straightforward bookeeping and let's have a full-time minister of education," he said.

"If they are spending all this money, and I don't doubt that they do, on education then it's an insult to education to have a part-time minister."

He said if the province assumed directly the costs of education then municipalities and school boards would be spared their yearly divisive battles over both budgets "and grant — this ever-enlarging sucker by which ratepayers are bribed with their own money."

BEAVER LAKE SAANICH SITE FOR FESTIVITY

Saanich will stage Victoria Day festivities this Monday at Beaver Lake.

The program, lasting nearly three hours, begins at 2 p.m. with serious and comic displays of rowing by the Claremont High School rowing team.

Other attractions are the Red Lion drill team, the Mount View High School band, the YM-YWCA gymnastic teams, square dancers and the Saanich police with the police dogs.

The events are sponsored by the Saanich Centennial Committee in conjunction with the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Sidney Cadet Wins Trophy

A Victoria-area youth, Officer Cadet Mark Duncan, has been awarded one of the top athletic trophies at the Royal Military College of Canada at Kingston, Ont.

Mark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Duncan, of Sidney, received the Marshal Cup, awarded to the most sportsmanlike cadet of the third year, at the annual RMC athletic awards night.

Mark attended le College Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean, Quebec, prior to going to RMC. At both colleges he has excelled in athletics, representing each college in track and field, harriers, football and basketball. He has also been an active participant in volleyball, gymnastics, soccer and swimming.

A mechanical engineering student, Mark will graduate in 1968 with a bachelor of engineering degree and a commission as a lieutenant in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Ask The Times

Q. What area of Vancouver Island does the CPR have mineral and oil rights to? What would be the position of a landowner who found minerals on his property? Is there an assay office in Victoria? A.P.

A. The E and N Railway, now owned by the CPR, was given a land grant which covers an area equal to about one-third of Vancouver Island. The boundary is from Campbell River to Strathcona Park; down a line from the east side of the park to Milne's Landing and across Finlayson Arm. The company was given all mineral and oil rights except for precious metals, gold and silver, and coal, which were retained by the government, a department of mines official said. A claim would have to be staked for gold or silver. Discovery of other metals or oil would mean negotiations with the CPR unless the rights have been sold along with the property. There is a government assay office on Superior Street.

... $100 prize

No Title But Work A Winner

A 22-year-old Victorian has won a $100 prize in the Victoria Art Gallery jury show with his untitled oil abstract painting.

The show opened Tuesday.

The prize awarded from the gallery Women's Committee Cultural Fund went to Joseph Kennedy of 38 Paddon Avenue.

Last year the artist won a $1,000 first prize in an art contest sponsored by the University of Victoria. His winning picture then was also an abstract.

Kennedy, who studied at the Vancouver School of Art, was also chosen by the B.C. government to do a 50-foot mural for the B.C. Institute of Technology in Vancouver.

MAJOR EVENT

The show, one of the gallery's major events of the year, features paintings, printmaking and sculpture from all parts of the island and Gulf Islands.

Eighty-one works were selected from a total of 363 entries by a one-man jury. The juror this year was William Hixson, professor of art at the University of Washington, Seattle.

The oldest exhibitor was Albert Jones, 93, who entered two watercolors.

PROVINCE THEME

The youngest was 15-year-old Christina Andreae of Norfolk House, who received a Mark Kearley award of $30 for submitting the best paintings on a British Columbia theme.

That competition was only open to secondary school students on Vancouver Island.

A $20 second prize went to Jerry Way of University School.

In other classes, honorable mentions were awarded to Helen Adams, Annabel Cranstoun, Virginia Lewis, Jim O'Mara and Lloyd Tuck.

Lawyer Plans To Challenge New LSD Law

VANCOUVER (CP) — lawyer Sidney Simons said Tuesday he will challenge the constitutional validity of the new provincial legislation on the hallucenatory drug LSD.

Simons, defence counsel for Helen Dawn Simpson, 29, Edith Shirley Mack, 32, and Francis Robert Lewis, 24, asked Magistrate Maurice Mulligan that the case be remanded to allow him time to settle the question before a judge.

The three charged are the first to appear in court under the two-month-old section of the Provincial Health Act.

The magistrate set June 13 as the date for trial.

Under the act, possession of LSD can bring six months in jail and a $2,000 fine. Trafficking in the drug is illegal under federal law.

Miss Simpson was earlier committed to high court trial on a charge of possessing marijuana. Similar charges against Lewis and Miss Mack were dismissed after a preliminary hearing.

WORLD INTEREST IN CANADA GROWING

Expo Gives Boost to Trade Fair Displays

By AB KENT
Times Business Editor

VANCOUVER — What must be the most dazzling display of industrial and consumer goods ever shown together in B.C. opened here today with the roar of an ancient cannon.

The fourth B.C. International Trade Fair — government and industry-sponsored showcase for domestic and foreign exhibitors — can thank Expo for much of the unhearalded foreign participation.

Countries taking part in the Montreal exhibition have found it advantageous to take part also in BCITF, rather than being discouraged by the prospect of two exhibitions.

The last word in manufactured goods from 50 countries set out in a kaleidoscope of color at five pavilions in Exhibition Park has already attracted some 3,000 purchasing agents.

Public attendance begins today, although the official opening by Princess Alexandra and her husband Angus Ogilvie is set for Thursday.

Today's cannon roar came from the mouth of a 339-year-old gun that spent 330 years at the bottom of Stockholm harbor where it sank with the warship Wasa in 1628.

Sweden sent the relic as part of the national exhibit and to announce Scandinavia day at the fair.

Test firings rent the air Tuesday as hordes of workmen scrambled around half-finished exhibitor's booths and installed the last of the heavy machinery displays from such places as Austria, Italy and Japan.

The response from 15 governments and 1,000 companies displaying some 10,000 products over 100,000 square feet of exhibit space is reassurance to the vision of B.C. and Western Canada.

WORLD FORCE

It proves the vision is shared by nations scattered over the face of the globe, that this part of the west is about to play a potent role in world economic force.

Manufacturers have specialized in consumer products, although industrial development through sales of heavy machinery is an important consideration.

Pavilions are crowded tastefully — with crackers and cameras, fine wines and fashions, turbines and carpets, motorcycles and cloth cutters for the garment industry, sports cars and sewing machines, delicate china and shears for steel plate.

On stage twice a day will be an all-Australian show featuring Rolf Harris; lucky winners will get seven expense-paid air trips to the holiday spas of the world.

More than 200,000 persons are expected to crowd the grounds and buildings during the 10-day fair that is aimed at two-thirds of the world's population those living on the Pacific rim.

Japan Gets Business

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese businessmen clinched contracts worth more than $100,000,000 in the Canton, China, Trade Fair which ended Monday, it was announced Tuesday. The contracts cover exports and imports.

Pearson Brings Cabinet in Line

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson stated today his entire cabinet, including Privy Council President Walter Gordon, agrees with government policy on Vietnam and has pledged to do or say nothing that would hinder its implementation.

Mr. Pearson made his succinct statement following a special morning cabinet meeting called to discuss both Vietnam policy and the traditional principle of cabinet solidarity.

At issue was the controversial speech last Saturday by Mr. Gordon, who urged open criticism of the United States stand in the war which he described as without moral or strategic justification.

The official government policy, as stated repeatedly by Mr Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin, is one of quiet diplomacy to end the bombing and stop the war—but not open criticism of either side in the conflict.

After a 1½-hour meeting, Mr. Pearson emerged to say that he had reviewed his policy in considerable detail, quoting at length from his own statements and those of Mr. Martin.

"They all knew it," he said, "but I thought I would repeat it."

"All members of the cabinet agreed it was the right policy to follow and all of us agreed, as members of the cabinet that we would say or do nothing that would make implementation of that policy more difficult."

Implicit in these remarks was that if any minister diverged from this common stand to publicly go against the grain of stated policy, he would have no choice but to resign.

Mr. Martin left the cabinet meeting, which was called because of his absence from Ottawa Tuesday, with no comment but a big smile.

The central figure, Mr. Gordon, declined comment and said "ask the prime minister".

For the moment the controversy appears to have abated with Mr. Pearson's unequivocal statement of cabinet unanimity.

If, in the future, Mr. Gordon or any other minister feels compelled to speak out in a different vein, resignation is

PROTESTERS PARADE ON HILL

OTTAWA (CP) — While the cabinet discussed Vietnam inside the Parliament Buildings, a dozen young people paraded quietly outside today bearing placards urging the government to condemn U.S. policy on Vietnam.

The demonstration, which lasted about an hour in front of the Centre Block, was organized by the Ottawa Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which a spokesman said has about 125 persons on its mailing list.

War Threatens Cairo Declares

CAIRO (CP) — The United Arab Republic today called on United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Gaza Strip to immediately withdraw beyond the Egyptian-Israeli armistice line and ordered its own forces to be ready for action if Israel attacks "any Arab state".

The UN Middle East Emergency Force along the Egyptian-Israeli frontier and in the Gaza Strip includes troops from Canada, Norway, Sweden, India, Yugoslavia and Brazil.

It numbered about 4,500 men but UN Secretary - General U Thant said recently it was being reduced this year to 3,400 men.

The UN troops man the 100-square-mile Gaza Strip in force, but have only patrols along the 117-mile desert border stretching southeast from it to the Gulf of Aqaba.

The moves came as tension rose following Israeli threats to strike hard against Syria if sabotage and border incidents for which it blames Syria continued.

Today's Egyptian announcements, followed the movement of an estimated division of U.A.R. troops eastward through Cairo two days ago.

The Syrian radio today called on Arabs to unite "for the final battle" against Israel.

Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhous flew to Cairo for talks on the rising tension.

Cairo Radio said the U.A.R. told the UN force to withdraw into the Gaza Strip "so that it may not face any threat in case of military operations breaking out."

The UN has stood between the Egyptians and Israelis since the aftermath of the 1956 Israeli-British-French attack on the U.A.R. after Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Cairo Radio said Field Marshal Abdel - Haikim Amer, U.A.R. first vice-president and deputy commander of the armed force, sent a message to Maj.-Gen. Indar Jit Rikhye, the UN force's Indian commander, asking him to concentrate his troops in the Gaza Strip.

The message said U.A.R. forces had gathered in Sinai, near the Israeli border.

Almost immediately after the demand to the UN, Egyptian Chief of Staff Gen. Mohammed Fawzy ordered his forces "to be prepared for action against Israel if the latter should attack any Arab state."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary-General Thant today called the situation along the Israel frontier with the United Arab Republic "potentially grave" and asked the Cairo government to clarify its intentions in concentrating troops there.

Riot Tempo Grows Across Hong Kong

By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—Rampaging mobs of Chinese youths today turned an area of the British crown colony into a day-long battlefield of flying stones, bottles, burning buildings, smashed vehicles and street barricades in the worst rioting of a week of Communist-instigated disturbances.

Reinforced police fired tear gas bombs, wooden missiles and sometimes charged into barrages of stones and bottles, swinging clubs in a running battle with rioters who swarmed through the main tourist shopping centre.

The mobs and violence spilled over into Hong Kong's "Golden Mile" tourist shopping district and hotel area. Scattered incidents by roving bands of Red Guard-type youths were reported despite a 7:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew.

At least 38 policemen were injured along with an unknow number of teen-agers trapped on narrow streets by truncheon-swinging police.

Police said 42 persons were arrested, bringing to well over 400 the number of persons taken into custody since leftist labor agitation erupted into rioting last week.

China has backed the leftist labor movement. It has formally protested to Britain against the movement's supression and demanded that those arrested be released with apologies.

The pressure on Britain from Peking mounted amid the new and bigger outbreak.

China announced over Radio Peking that rallies were held on the China mainland again today to support the Hong Kong rioters and demonstrators marched on the British embassy in Peking for the third day.

The Kowloon district riots resumed in mid-morning today when a crowd of leftists, waving red books containing the thought of party chairman Mao Tse-tung, gathered in front of the South Kowloon magistracy to disrupt a scheduled hearing for 20 rioters arrested last week.

488 Men Students Arrested

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Helmeted police, firing as they ran, stormed a men's dormitory at Texas Southern University today and halted student snipers who created a no-man's-land on the campus.

A rookie patrolman was killed and two officers and a student wounded.

Police took 488 men students to jail and worked to discover which had fired the shot which killed Lewis R. Kuba, 25, who was shot between the eyes in the first assault wave against the dormitory that sheltered the snipers' nest.

Kuba died about 7½ hours after he was shot.

Four hours and 3,000 police bullets after the first peppering of gunfire and the explosion of four crudely-made fire bombs, officers secured the dormitory. They smashed down doors in their search for weapons and suspects, found one pistol, one shotgun and one rifle.

Mayor Louie Welch met this morning with police, the district attorney and officials of the predominantly-Negro school, where the administration ordered classes as usual.

Welch said he believes there is a breakdown between the administration of Texas Southern and the student body of more than 7,000.

The riot began about 10:15

REPORTER TRAPPED BY PEKING MOB

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters) — An angry crowd of Red Guards today demonstrated outside the house of the Reuters correspondent in Peking and trapped a Canadian newspaper man in his car for 30 minutes.

David Oancia of the Toronto Globe and Mail sat inside his tiny car smoking as the chanting crowd of about 200 surged around it before he was eventually allowed to drive away when many of the demonstrators left.

Shouting anti-British slogans, the crowd blocked the narrow street outside the house and threw pebbles at this correspondent when he went up to the roof to look down at the scene below.

Oancia had just visited Reuters rented house and offices when the demonstration began.

Oancia had taken photographs of slogans plastered over the doors and walls of the house and office.

The slogans said: "British imperialists get out of Hong Kong."

CROWD GATHERS

The crowd gathered around us and after a few minutes a Red Guard leader wearing a scarlet arm band arrived and began leading the crowd in an anti-British chant.

The crowd grew rapidly and when Oancia entered his car they closed around him.

When I tried to photograph the car, fists were pushed in front of the camera lens.

The chanting mob pressed around Oancia's blue Volkswagen, shaking their fists at him and rocking the light car from side to side.

OANCIA
. . . car rocked

Oancia eventually was allowed to drive away after half an hour, when the crowd thinned.

Official reports said some 400,000 persons took part Tuesday in demonstrations outside the office of the British charge d'affaires to protest the riot-quelling action of British authorities in Hong Kong.

Red Guards kept up a constant chant of "down with British imperialism."

Oancia, award - winning Saskatchewan native, is 37, and lives with his wife and two-year-old son in a Peking suburb. He has been Peking correspondent for the Globe and Mail since October, 1966, and at present is the only North American correspondent in the Chinese capital, and one of only three Westerners allowed there.

Oancia entered the newspaper field as a reporter for the Moose Jaw Times Herald and subsequently worked for The Canadian Press at several bureaus and in London.

He won a 1966 National Newspaper Award for staff corresponding with his series of three articles from Peking about the Red Guards. His articles appear in the Victoria Times.

SUPPRESSED FOR 22 YEARS BY U.S.

Ghastly Effects of A-Bomb Recorded on Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has suppressed for nearly 22 years confiscated Japanese films showing ghastly after-effects of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima, U.S. officials reveal.

The Japanese government has at least twice asked that restrictions on the film be lifted, but the U.S. government has refused on grounds it might damage U.S. - Japanese relations, said the informants.

Called in Japan "the film of illusion" because it wasn't supposed to exist, the film was taken by Tokyo University scientists sent to Hiroshima soon after the bombing, the sources said.

The officials said the Japanese scientists still were at work filming in the devastated city when U.S. officials arrived in Hiroshima and confiscated the film.

But the American authorities determined to finish the documentary and used the same Japanese cameramen who had taken the initial footage.

For many years, officials said, U.S. policy opposed any distribution of the documentary because it showed in stark and gruesome detail blast effects and the bomb's impact in a densely populated area.

But some U.S. authorities now are reported in favor of letting Japan decide what if any restrictions should be imposed on the film's showing.

Hiroshima was the target of the first atomic bomb ever dropped on an enemy — Aug. 6, 1945. The bomb obliterated three-fifths of the city of 343,000 population.

MISSILE SITES HIT BY U.S. JET BOMBERS

SAIGON (Reuters)—United States aircraft Tuesday night bombed North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile emplacements within the demilitarized zone for the first time, an American military spokesman said here today.

He said marine F-8 Crusader and A-6 Intruder jets carried out the night strike against the lethal SAM missiles, which were about 500 yards within the northern part of the buffer zone between the two Vietnams.

The Soviet-designed anti-aircraft SAMs, which have a maximum range of some 30 miles, were appearing in increasing number in the southern part of North Vietnam.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Three Mine Issues Continue Strong

Three mining companies, which advanced last week on Finance Minister Sharp's reassurance to the industry, continued to show strength in pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

Brenda, at $5.95, Dynasty, $7.60, and Lornex, $5.05, all posted identical .10 gains.

TC Explorations also advanced and rose .04 to .70 on 11,000 shares.

Bata Resources was the heaviest trader and lost .02 to $1.56 on 40,000 shares.

Industrials were mixed with B.C. Tel off .75 to $67.25 and Columbia Cellulose dipping .15 to $4.85, a new low.

However, Pacific Pete was up .12 to a new high of $14.50 and Trans Prairie rose—the same amount to a new high of $7.87.

AT TORONTO Bramalea advanced 1¼ to 11½ in the industrial list.

Canadian Food Products rose 1 to 6½ after it was announced that Duplate would buy its entire holding of 300,000 class B shares in Versafood Services at $6 a share.

ITL Industries lost 1⅜ to 34⅝ and Slater Steel ⅝ to 9¾.

Uranium issues advanced with Denison and Preston ahead ⅜ each to 69¼ and 20⅛, Rio Algom and Roman Corp. ⅛ each to 34¼ and 19½ and Stanrock 5 cents to 3.40.

Kerr-Addison rose ⅜ to 14⅜ after being delayed at the opening to match buy-and-sell orders.

Oils moved ahead with Dome up ½ to 52¾, Pacific Petroleum ⅜ to 14⅝ and Imperial Oil ¼ to 59¾.

AT NEW YORK the market turned mixed in fairly active trading.

Loses of about three points were taken by SCM and Rheem Manufacturing in active dealings.

Brokers said it appeared like another session of consolidation of the type which has followed the market's advance to 909.63 in the Dow Industrials on May 8.

AT MONTREAL stocks were higher today. Trading was moderate.

Denison climbed 1½ points to 69¾ and Rio Algom ½ to 34½ among the high-flying uraniums.

Three senior oils—Imperial, Pacific Pete and Shell — were each ⅜ stronger at 59⅞, 14⅝ and 26⅞ respectively.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line led utilities higher with a ⅝-point gain to 30⅛. Interprovincial Pipe Line, whose shares have split on a five-for-one basis, traded at 21⅛.

AT LONDON the market was sensitive and unsettled today in the wake of French President de Gaulle's Common Market references, the weakness of sterling Tuesday and revival of old fears of Britain's economic position.

Golds continued to attract attention with some gains of up to 4s. Diamonds and coppers shared the rise.

Canadians improved, including Inco, up 3 at 197½, CPR, Massey and Alcan. Hudson Bay Oil and Gas and Hollinger were slightly easier and Canadian banks were quiet.

In papers, Reed lost 9d to 45s 3d and it was followed down by Bowater.

Lord Thomson's U.K. Interests Boost Earnings

LONDON (CP) — Both turnover and earnings of the Thomson Organization Ltd. increased during 1966, Lord Thomson says in his annual statement.

The Canadian-born publisher, whose British holding includes travel companies and Scottish Television besides newspaper, magazines and books says total sales increased to nearly £63,000,000. Trading profits at £7,857,917 were greater by 8.8 per cent than the previous year. These figures do not include Thomson's North American operation.

Profit after tax amounted to £3,947,030 compared with £3,833,892 for 1965, despite a charge for depreciation, plant and machinery of £1,411,733 against £1,023,756.

Thomson, in his statement says that since The Times introduced front-page news — in place of advertisements — more than a year ago its circulation has gone up more than 30 per cent. Circulation of 400,000 is expected in 1968 by Thomson, who acquired majority ownership of the paper last Sept. 30.

New Layoffs Feared in U.K. Car Industry

LONDON (AP) — A drastic slump in automobile sales brought fears of more layoffs and short-time work in Britain's motor industry.

Only 96,735 new cars were sold in April, the lowest total for that normally busy month in five years. It is nearly 30 per cent below the number of autos sold in April last year.

Industry executives blamed the falling domestic demand on the Labor government's credit squeeze, which already has cost the jobs of an estimated 10,000 auto workers.

Prospects were that hundreds more will be laid off and thousands put on a four-day week if the slump persists.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Glynda Lee Smith, age 12, of Ponca City, Oklahoma, for her question:

What is meant by the structure of the atom?

The logical thinkers of Greece reasoned that the atom is the smallest possible piece of matter and that the atom cannot be divided into anything smaller than itself. This idea prevailed for centuries, right up to the Age of Science. Then the atom was found to be a unit of still smaller particles of matter. What's more, as atomic particles were discovered one by one, the atom was found to be a very orderly unit of matter. When we refer to the structure of the atom, we mean the orderly fashion in which it is built, the neat way in which its assorted particles are arranged and held together.

Scientists have identified more than a hundred different atoms, each one a different size and having a different number of basic particles. But all atoms are constructed along the same lines. The basic structure of the atom can be depended upon in all cases. This structure has been compared to a miniature solar system. Its sun is a central nucleus, a tight fist of assorted particles. Its orbiting planets are speeding electrons. The various atomic particles are infinitesimal bundles of energy. They may be electrically neutral or bear charges of positive or negative electricity.

The major particles in the tight nucleus are positive protons and neutral neutrons. Also present in the tight core is an assortment of tiny meson particles and quotas of dynamic energies to bind the nucleus together. The number of protons gives the nucleus its quota of positive electricity. The structure of the normal atom calls for an equal and opposite quota of negative electricity. This is provided by the orbiting electrons. Each electron has a negative charge to match the positive charge of one proton. Every proton, however, is 1,836 times more massive than an electron. But the tiny electron may be 250 or even 1,000 times more massive than the nuclear mesons. The basic structure of the atom has a series of orderly paths for the busy electrons, even though they orbit the nucleus billions of times per second.

Miniature System

There are definite details that make each of the know atoms different from all the rest. But in each basic structure is a miniature solar system, teeming with energy and obeying rigid rules. Each different atom has been given a number and each atom on the list has one more proton than the one before it. The atomic number of gold is 79 because its nucleus has 79 protons and hence its structure calls for 79 orbiting electrons. Mercury has 80 protons and naturally its atomic number is 80. No atom can change its basic number because if it gains or lose a proton, it immediately becomes an atom of something else.

Suppose the average atom were as big as a football field. The nucleus in the centre would be a marble and the electrons mere specks orbiting as far away as the 50 yard lines. Some of an atom's electrons tend to arrive and depart or team up with other atoms. But this does not change the nucleus at the heart of the atomic structure. This can, however, be split apart by radioactivity or atom smashers. The nuclear process taught us much of what we know of the tiny atom, its structure and its assorted particles.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Scott Hensinger, age 10, of Allentown, Pennsylvania, for his question: Who made the very first thermometer?

It is no problem to tell that boiling water is hotter than ice water. But the measruing of temperature in exact degrees gets harder. It is not surprising that our ancestors took a long time to make the very first thermometer and still longer to make an accurate one. So far as we know, the first gadget to measure warmer and cooler temperatures was made in the year 1593. It was made by the great Italian astronomer Galileo and he named it the thermoscope. The idea was good and thermometers were needed. But this first one was not very accurate or very reliable.

However, Galileo's thermometer proved that a temperature measuring instrument could and should be made. Several inventors tried to make better ones. In 1641, a fairly accurate thermometer was made. But the ancestor of our modern thermometers was not made until 1714. Its inventor was Gabriel Fahrenheit, who also invented the Fahrenheit scale of degrees to go with his thermometer.

One-Month Term For Shoplifting

An elderly man described as an unrepentant thief was sentenced to one month in jail when convicted in central court today of shoplifting.

Bill Louie, 536 Yates, was accused of stealing a can of salmon and a jar of instant coffee from The Bay.

Crown evidence showed the accused had been sentenced to one day and bound over for six months when he faced a similar charge in September last year.
